SENATE STORM SWEEPS BARRY FROM HIS JOB

Let's Call Al Smith, Glenn's Taunt.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Because he had written, but was unable to prove, that there were crooks, grafters, and bribe takers in congress, David S. Barry was tonight no longer sergeant at arms of the senate.

Amid shoutings of personalities such as are seldom heard there, the senate voted 53 to 17 to deprive the 73 year old official of the post he has held for 14 years.

In the words of one of its most meticulous members, Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], the senate made "a holy show of itself" as it battled to fix a suitable punishment for Mr. Barry's authorship of the article "Over the Hill to Demagoguery," in the current issue of the New Outlook.

Recalls Vaudeville Show.

It was a show indeed that came close to a free-for-all one minute, with the chair pounding futilely for order, and that resembled a free vaudeville show the next, with the chair warning derisively laughing galleryites that they must be properly respectful or be cleared out.

It was a show that saw Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.], defender of Barry, denounce his colleagues in words that made the sergeant at arm's article pale by comparison. The Illinois senator hurled heated phrases at Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.], chief supporter of the ouster resolution, and got phrases just as heated in return.

Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.], a homespun Henry Clay, with long gray locks and a classic frock coat, drew from the galleries that muttered "Ah" which is the orator's truest applause, as he led the defense for the aged sergeant at arms.

On the other side of the drama were those who insisted on Barry's dismissal, cut aside the argument and the oratory, to pin the debate down to a single issue. They maintained that no man would retain in his employ a subordinate who had traduced him and been unable to prove the charge.

Glenn Breaks Precedents.

The dismissal was voted on that issue and overwhelmingly, but not until Senator Glenn had had his chance to utter words that smashed into pieces the senatorial convention of saying nothing about one's colleagues that is not good.

Senator Glenn pointed out to start with that what Mr. Barry had said was but one small voice in a chorus of criticism against the senate and congress. Then Senator Norris interrupted, and the interruption—by one of the radical block whose habit is criticism—let the torrent loose.

"I cannot distinguish very materially between attacking a body of this kind, as has been done in the present instance," Senator Glenn said, "and the privilege which is exercised nearly every day in committee rooms of the senate of browbeating a witness, accusing him, attacking him as he sits there, called in response to a summons.

Careless Charges Common.

"I do not distinguish between the attacks made upon this body and the attacks made in this body day after day by distinguished members of this body, attacking, abusing, condemning, blackening people's names and reputations, knowing that the next morning upon the front pages of the responsible newspapers of this country those charges, unsustained, will be broadcast to the world.

"What is the difference between this man and us, who make those baseless attacks upon responsible men in the United States?

"We, the mighty members of the senate, take these charges to the press, to the galleries, to the world, knowing we have thrown about us the mantle of immunity from criminal prosecution, or from responding in civil damages.

"What is the difference between us and this man we will send out into the world in his old age, condemned? He has no mantle of immunity to throw about his shoulders. We have. We can do those things, and we do do those things.

It's Age of Criticism.

"It is an age of criticism, and it has always been true that those who are most prone to damn others are the first to cry out when the slightest charge is cast against their stainless characters."

"And the senate rules do not even permit us to charge each other with misconduct if we know it exists," sug

Total Chicago Bill Lower than 1930.

Chicago's 1931 tax rate will be the highest since 1926 although the total tax bill, to be collected this year, will be ten per cent under that for 1930. This became known yesterday after experts in the office of County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer estimated that the 1931 tax rate for residents of Chicago will be approximately $7.26 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

With rates for six of the largest tax spending bodies in the county available last night, Mr. Sweitzer estimated that the city of Chicago will have a 1931 tax bill of $227,768,000. This is a reduction of an even ten per cent from the 1930 bill of $252,000,000 for the city alone.

Valuation Cut 26 Per Cent.

The reduction in the aggregate bill in the face of the increase in rates is explained by the 26 per cent average reduction in the assessed valuation of real estate under the new quadrennial reassessment made by County Assessor J. L. Jacobs.

County Clerk Sweitzer said last night that a taxpayer could compute his 1931 tax bill if he knows the assessed valuation of his property. For each $100 of assessed valuation the bill will be $7.26, the county clerk explained. The figure thus gained may be a few cents different than the bill which the taxpayer will ultimately receive from the county treasurer, Mr. Sweitzer explained. He added that the 26 per cent real estate valuation reduction is not uniform and because of this fact the bills of certain taxpayers may actually be higher than they were for 1930.

Basic Rates Compared.

The basic rates for the computation of the 1931 city tax bills, compared with rates for the same taxing bodies in 1930, are shown in dollars and cents in the following table:

Tax division—	1931.	1930.
State	$ .39	$ .39
County	.52	.56
Forest preserve	.11	.09
Sanitary district	.56	.51
City	2.52	2.44
Schools	2.46	2.01
Total	$6.56	$6.00

To the basic rates must be added the park district, park bond and town rates for the various townships within the city limits, in order to calculate the rate for individual bills. Although the exact rates for these smaller bodies have not been disclosed, auditors computed that the general spread of the rates over the whole city area, would produce an average rate of seventy cents.

Record High Rate.

This 70 cents added to the basic rate of $6.56 makes $7.26, the highest rate for the city of Chicago since the method of assessing property was changed in 1926. According to the computations some of the rates for the city township divisions will be as high as $7.86—which is the rate estimated for the township of Lake View.

The following table shows the average rates for the city townships for each of the last six years:

Year.	Average rate.
1927	4.90
1928	5.21
1929	6.175
1931	7.26

Despite the rate increase the year 1931 is the first in the last six in which taxes will be lower. In the past the increase in the tax rates has also been accompanied by an increase in the assessed valuation of property. The reduction in the 1931 assessed valuations is in accordance with the efforts of various citizens' committees to reduce the tax burden.

Economies Wiped Out.

The levies of the 425 tax spending bodies within Cook county failed to drop for 1931 in proportion to the assessment slashes. As a result the rates were increased, wiping out almost one-half of the economies in the tax bill achieved through the revaluation. In the 1931 rate computations only the county rate was decreased among the larger tax spenders.

The total Cook county tax bill has never approached that of 1930 when $290,000,000 in taxes was extended. If the 10 per cent reduction in the current city tax bills extends to the country town divisions of the county the total 1931 bill will hardly exceed $261,000,000 for Cook county.

Since 1926 all property in Cook county has been appraised at its full cash value before the assessed valuation has been determined. Since 1928

Senate Hands Roosevelt an Economy Knife

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Unprecedented authority to reorganize the executive departments of the government was granted President Elect Roosevelt tonight by the senate as it passed the 961 million dollar treasury and postoffice appropriation bill for 1934.

Rallying their strength to the support of their incoming President and confessing congress' inability to act in its own right, the senate Democrats put over a party amendment to the bill which will give Mr. Roosevelt authority to consolidate and abolish bureaus and agencies as he sees fit.

Took Power from Hoover.

No President heretofore has been granted powers so broad. The reorganization authority granted and then taken from President Hoover gave him only the right of consolidation and provided that a disapproving vote of one house could halt his program.

Under the amendment added to the treasury and postoffice supply bill at a session which ran late into the night, the chief executive reorganization plan can be stopped only by repeal of the enabling act, a measure which the President himself could veto and which would require a two-thirds vote of both houses to pass over the veto.

Nor was this amendment the only Democratic victory as the President elect's partisans sought to prepare a way for their chief which would bring the budget into balance without the unpleasant necessity of raising taxes.

Will Save 140 Millions.

Over the protests of senators seeking to defend their pet departments, the senate adopted an amendment by Senator Sam G. Bratton [Dem., N. M.], one of the Democratic economy leaders, requiring all department heads to cut their expenditures for 1934 by five per cent. The requirement, Senator Bratton promised, would save at least 140 million dollars a year.

The Bratton proposal was agreed to only after it had been modified to provide that none of the ordered five per cent savings should be effected by cutting wages. The limitation was imposed in an amendment offered by Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.], which carried, 52 to 30.

In addition to the savings expected under the reorganization amendment which was offered by Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], and the Bratton amendment, some 20 millions of additional savings are expected to be realized through other economy amendments attached to the treasury and postoffice bill.

Pay Cut in Army and Navy.

Among these amendments is one to include the enlisted personnel of the army, navy and marine corps in the present 8 1-3 per cent salary cut affecting all other federal employes.

As the friends of the federal employes proved too strong for the economy seekers, so did the friends of the veterans prove too strong for those seeking a reduction in certain veterans' allowances. An amendment calculated to save six millions was stricken from the bill.

The economy provisions were not passed without a fight. One of the economy leaders was Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.]. Senator Barkley pointed out that with the annual national income cut from 85 billion to 40 billions, more than one-half of the country's earnings are going to pay for government and debt. He traced the growth of the country's expenditure for all forms of government from 855 millions in 1890 to five billions in 1913, to 10 billions in 1923, and to more than 15 billions in 1932.

Debt Burden 154 Billions.

The country's debt burden, he said, amounted to 154 billions, on which the annual interest charge is eight billions, 600 million dollars.

"And yet you debate here," he said, "as if the stability of the government would be overthrown by a five per cent cut in the expenses of the departments."

ROOSEVELT SPENDS ENTIRE DAY FISHING AND SWIMMING

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—President Elect Roosevelt fished and swam all day today off Green cay in the Bahama islands and let no one into the secret as to whether he had demonstrated any piscatorial efficiency.

A message receive here tonight from Vincent Astor, owner of the yacht Nourmahal, on which Mr. Roosevelt is having his last rest before undertaking the arduous duties of the presidency, read as follows:

"Went swimming and fishing all afternoon off Green cay and remaining here over night."

In view of the fact that the President elect had promised to announce his catches, it appeared a fair assumption that his luck as a fisherman was not anything to be boasting about.

KING'S LONDON PALACE MAY BECOME HOTEL

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Daily Express today suggests that Buckingham palace in the near future may become a hotel and the royal family will move to Kensington. The king's dislike of Buckingham palace is well known, and the problem of his London residence becomes of increasing interest, owing to changing conditions and commercialization of the great area of crown property between the palace and Trafalgar square.

By granting a commercial company a permit to build offices in the Carlton house terrace block, overlooking the Mall, the crown authorities have started a movement which is arousing the keenest speculation.

Architects, financiers and administrative circles are discussing the future of the whole area surrounding the palace and the fact is recognized that the concession to build a commercial block will be followed by others.

48 Governors Get Summons by Roosevelt

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt has invited the governors of the forty-eight states to confer with him at the White House on March 6, two days after his inauguration, to discuss ways and means of solving national problems in which the governments of the states and the nation have a common vital interest.

In a letter to the governors, made public today, Mr. Roosevelt outlined five major subjects which he felt should be considered and jointly solved by the nation and the states.

Invitation to Governors.

"Because so many governors will be in Washington on March fourth," the letter says, "I want to take that opportunity of holding a conference in relation to a number of matters in which the federal government and the state governments are mutually interested. For that reason I want to invite you to come to the White House on Monday, March sixth, at 11:00 a. m., to attend an informal conference.

"It is my thought that we should discuss for our mutual benefit certain subjects, such as:

"[a] Conflicting taxation by federal and state governments;

"[b] Federal aid for unemployment relief;

"[c] Mortgage foreclosures, especially on farm lands, and

"[d] Better land use by afforestation, elimination of marginal agricultural land, flood prevention, etc.;

"[e] Reorganization and consolidation of local government to decrease tax costs.

"It is possible that other subjects will occur to the governors or to me as being essential for discussion.

"I do not believe that more than one day will be required for this informal meeting. But it will give me the opportunity of having the pleasure of meeting many of the chief executives of the states. I hope much that you will be able not only to come to the inauguration, but also to stay over through Monday for this meeting at the White House."

All But Ten Democrats.

Little doubt was expressed here that all, or nearly all, of the forty-eight governors will avail themselves of the President elect's invitation. All but ten of the governors at present are Democrats, it was pointed out, and are expected to be in Washington for the inaugural ceremonies. Of the remaining ten it was predicted that all save perhaps two or three would be present.

One outstanding feature of the conference will be the opportunity it will afford Mr. Roosevelt to explain to the assembled governors his program for reforesting the less arable farms, a plan which has the twofold aim of adding to the nation's wealth and aiding materially in flood control and at the same time helping to solve the problem of the nation's idle.

CLOSE CITY SCHOOLS

Chicago's public and parochial schools will be closed today on account of weather conditions.

Late last night Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan announced that in view of the cold and of forecasts of more to follow, the president of the board of education had authorized him to order the public school closing.

"We shall try to reopen on Thursday," Mr. Bogan added. "If there is any reason to keep them closed after today a new announcement will be made. If there is no further announcement by radio and in the press children should be sent to school after today."

The Rev. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of the diocesan school board, governing body of the Catholic educational institutions, issued a similar statement.

"Our present intention is to open on Thursday," he said.

MANY SUBURBS CLOSE

Many suburbs will close their public schools, among them being Homewood, Flossmoor, Chicago Heights, Blue Island, Wilmette, Niles Center, Park Ridge, Des Plaines, Oak Park, Forest Park, River Forest, and Maywood. J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero also will close.

Further from the city, Plainfield, Mokena, New Lenox and Lockport grade schools, all in Will county, will be closed. Lockport High school will continue open. Lake county, Ind., will close both city and rural schools.

SOME SUBURBS OPEN

Among the towns whose pupils will be expected to go through the snow in search of education today are Evanston, Winnetka, Kenilworth, Glencoe, Lake Forest, Highland Park, Lake Bluff, North Chicago, Waukegan, Highwood, La Grange, Cicero, Western Springs, Brookfield, Berwyn and Harvey. The New Trier, Main and Evanston Township High schools will also be open today. Most of the rural schools in McHenry and Kane counties will close, it was announced.

Chicago, victorious in its efforts to dig its traffic lanes out of eleven inches of drifted snow, is to suffer early today in temperatures near 10 degrees below zero, according to the official forecaster, C. A. Donnel.

There is to be little or no warming up through the day, the forecast stating that the mercury will stay below the zero mark until tomorrow.

"On Thursday there may be a slight warming, with a maximum of probably 10 above," Mr. Donnel said. "But on Friday another section of cold wave may sweep down on us. There is nothing but cold weather in sight."

At 3 a. m. today the unofficial temperature in Chicago was 2½ degrees above, and temperatures well below zero were noted in suburban towns. Morton Grove had 5 below, Niles Center 3 below, Waukegan 2 below, Lake Forest 1 below, Harvey 2 below, Homewood 2 below, and Libertyville 5 below.

Below Zero in Texas.

The frigid wave from the wilds of western Canada last night had advanced on a front so wide that subzero marks were recorded from southern Texas to eastern upper Michigan. In the United States the western plains and the northwest were gripped by temperatures that ranged down to 36 below zero, while Canadian cities were two to six degrees colder.

Everywhere from the Rockies to the great lakes lay a deep blanket of snow. It had drifted over highways and made many of them impassable. It had filled in railroad cuts and delayed the passage of trains. Airplane transportation was at a standstill. A single mail plane, many hours late, swooped down on the Chicago airport late in the day, all others remaining in their hangars. Bus and private auto traffic was at a standstill over much of the area affected by the blizzards.

Fight to Clear Away Drifts.

In Chicago a coordination of effort on the part of various groups laboring to clear the streets and tracks of transportation companies was achieved and it was announced that, barring further snow—the forecast indicated only scattered flurries this morning and fair skies thereafter—it would be nearly as easy to get downtown today as on an ordinary day.

The city, though lacking funds that it had in previous years to spend on snow clearance, nevertheless turned out forty snow plows last night, all manned by regular ward workers. To these were added 300 men furnished by the relief organizations.

A start was made in opening Clark street south from Lake street. With the city workers went hundreds of men employed by the surface lines. Preceding them went equipment from the fire department, given the task of towing stalled automobiles out of the drifts along the gutters.

All Loop to Be Cleared.

The plows cast the heavy accumulation of snow from the street center to the sides and the army of shovelers behind them filled trucks. This work, it was announced, would continue today until all loop streets are in good shape for auto travel.

Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt called attention to the fact that no additional expenditures of city funds would be necessary to accomplish this result, with only its regular workers and the relief forces on the job. In the good old flush days of 1929 it cost the city $420,000 extra to get its snow shoveled and even in 1931 there was a snow pay roll of $211,000.

Idle Men Put to Work.

Other divisions of government were also on the job. The Lincoln park board put twenty plows and 300 men at work clearing the north side boulevards. The west parks had as many plows and 450 to 500 workers. The south parks sent out all its available equipment and about 300 men. All the shovelers for these systems were obtained from the relief organizations and were drawn from the 160,000 families now on the relief rolls.

Mayor Cermak set the spirit of the occasion in an appeal made shortly before he boarded the train for the sunny beaches of Florida.

"Let's see if the city can get this snow cleaned away for nothing," he said. "Those who are receiving substantial aid from taxation should be willing to help us in this emergency."

Officials announced themselves pleased at the response of the idle.

Employés Go Home Early.

The mayor ordered that all city employés in the loop be permitted to leave before 4 p. m. so that they could get home on time for dinner. Workers in the federal building also were sent home early.

Throughout the day all the transportation agencies made great efforts to keep their cars and buses moving. The surface lines were delayed, but officials declared that all lines stayed open. Several hundred extra men were put to work. The greatest obstacle to continuous operation, it was said, consisted of the stalling of automobiles on the tracks. All lines were expected to be moving cars regularly this morning.

"L" Operation Near Normal.

The elevated lines continued to operate close to schedule. It had employed 300 extra men for track work and 150 more to clean platforms of snow and ice. The Chicago Motor Coach company buses were hampered by the drifts, often six to eight feet deep, on their routes. They were consequently much delayed.

As for suburban train service it was maintained in fair shape. The Illinois Central, North Western, Rock Island, Burlington, and Milwaukee roads reported that their trains left terminal points on time, but that they were delayed en route by the snow. All put on additional workers to clear their tracks. Local interurban service in the vicinity of Gary was interrupted, although South Bend trains on the South Shore kept on their runs.

10.7 Inches of Snow.

The snow, most of which fell between 5 p. m. Monday and 5 p. m. yesterday, was one of the heaviest on record here for twenty-four hours. A late afternoon reading at the University of Chicago observatory showed 10.7 inches. The heaviest twenty-four hour fall ever noted was 14.4 inches. Two months shared this doubtful honor—January, 1918, and March, 1930. The second ranking one day snowfall was 14 inches in March,, 1931. Yesterday's was held the third deepest.

Most of the snow fall occurred while the temperatures were not unduly low. When it started on Monday the reading was close to the freezing mark. It was 19 above at noon yesterday and remained at that figure until 7 p. m. Then the wind shifted from snow bearing north and northeast to the cold bringing northwest. Between 7 and 8 o'clock the mercury took a nose dive to 9 above. The next hour brought a further drop to 7. Thereafter a steady decline continued.

It was pointed out by Forecaster Donnel that the lake breeze is a great temperature balancer and that when the wind is from the east the reading has never been known to be lower than 7 above zero.

Nearly all the suburban towns were active as Chicago in opening their traffic arteries and announced that further work would be done today on the streets.

Crime Wanes During Storm.

Chicago's radio equipped police cars were all kept in during the day, but there was a slackening, rather than an increase, in crime, the criminals finding it as difficult to travel about as the police. Only twenty-nine automobiles, about one-third the usual number, were reported stolen up to 4 p. m.

Although many country roads were blocked, it was announced there was no danger of a shortage of milk or other foods. Farmers in the milk shed, which covers parts of Indiana and Wisconsin as well as Illinois, were reported getting together in bands to open their own roads.

The Pure Milk association headquarters in the city announced that shipments would be made in railroad tank cars if trucks which usually carry the supply were unable to get through on the main roads. Dairy companies said their drivers had been able to make their rounds, although some did not finish their work until dusk.

Many Calls for Charity Coal.

Relief workers reported that the charity organizations, public and private, were swamped with calls for coal. Efforts were made to serve those requesting the aid, but the condition of the streets caused some delay in fuel deliveries. Altogether the relief shelters were caring for about 11,000 homeless last night, not a great increase over the regular number.

A large number of loop workers, fearful that the transportation would be worse last night than it really was, flocked to loop hotels. Several of the larger ones reported from 500 to 600 additional guests as a result.

Soldier Collapses and Dies.

Several deaths were attributed in part at least to the storm and the cold. Richard Farrell, 40 years old, a soldier at Fort Sheridan, collapsed and died after a long walk from the reservation to Highwood. Heart disease was a contributing cause. Peter George, 30 years old, 104 Marion street, Oak Park, fell dead in the snow near his home.

Stanley Garczynski, 53 years old, 10754 Stevenson avenue, a track laborer, was killed when he was struck by an Illinois Central limited train at 115th street. Another laborer, Peter Lopie, 315 Kensington avenue, was injured in the same accident. They were said to have been blinded by the snow and unable to see the approaching train.

Robert Scott, 15 years old, 6822 South Artesian avenue, injured on Monday when a surface car on which he was stealing a ride skidded on a switch and crushed him against another car at 69th street and Western avenue, died in the Holy Cross hospital yesterday.

STORM BLOCKS HIGHWAYS OVER CHICAGO AREA

15,000 Men Given Work in Clearing Drifts.

Shifting snowdrifts, many of them 12 feet high, last night blocked traffic on 14 state highways within a 100 mile radius of Chicago. In Cook county five major traffic arteries were reported impassable. Work of clearing the roads with motor snowplows was virtually halted by high winds and continued snowfall.

Harry Sampson, state highway engineer in the Chicago area, directed the work of 65 snow plows yesterday and last night, but could report little progress. "Our work was practically useless," he said. "We no sooner cleared a stretch of road than the wind sent new snowdrifts over the cleared space. I can see no chance of opening up many of the roads before Wednesday afternoon."

15,000 Men Given Jobs.

A similar view was expressed by M. J. Bonn, engineer in charge of maintenance of county highways, who directed the work of 17 snow plows. It was estimated by Dr. Martin H. Bickham, director of work relief for the Emergency Relief commission, that 15,000 men were given employment clearing county roads and city street intersections.

Reports to the Chicago Motor club from the state and county highway departments showed the following highways to be impassable:

STATE HIGHWAYS.

ROUTE NO. 1—From Blue Island south to Danville, Ill.

ROUTE NO. 4—From Berwyn southwest to Pontiac, Ill.

ROUTE NO. 18—From Berwyn west and southwest to Mendota.

ROUTE NO. 22—From Chicago Heights west to Joliet, then north through Aurora to junction with route No. 61.

ROUTE NO. 51—From Justice south to Kankakee.

ROUTE NO. 49—From Harvey southwest and south for a distance of 80 miles.

ROUTE NO. 53—From Joliet north to Palatine.

ROUTE NO. 59—From Plainfield north 25 miles to Bartlett.

ROUTE NO. 5—From Oak Park northwest 55 miles to Marengo, Ill.

ROUTE NO. 17—From Kankakee west 60 miles to Streator.

ROUTE NO. 47—From Aurora for a distance of 25 miles north and 80 miles south.

ROUTE NO. 115—From a point ten miles southwest of Kankakee west and south for a distance of 50 miles.

ROUTE 42A—From Glenview north 20 miles to Waukegan.

ROUTE 42—From Wilmette north to the Wisconsin state line.

COUNTY HIGHWAYS.

111TH STREET—West of Western avenue to county line.

159TH STREET—West of Cicero avenue to county line.

95TH STREET—East and west of Cicero avenue.

RIDGELAND AVENUE—From 149th street south.

SHERMER AVENUE—North and south of Curtiss airport.

Reports from other sections of the state were that state highways throughout the western and central portions were blocked in scores of places. Main highways leading into Ottawa were impassable yesterday, with drifts from 10 to 12 feet high blocking traffic. Rural schools in the area affected by the storm were suspended because of the inability of pupils to get through the snow.

2 ARGO FIRES, 20 MINUTES APART, TAX DEPARTMENT

Two fires, twenty minutes apart, taxed the efforts of the Argo fire department this morning and necessitated the assistance of two Chicago companies.

The first destroyed the cottage of John Stec at 74th avenue and 62d street, in Argo. The fire trucks experienced difficulty in cutting through snow drifts. Fire Chief Cornelius Van Vossen ran ahead on foot when several blocks from the scene and rescued two of the three Stec children. Stec saved his wife and a third child.

Twenty minutes later fire attacked the Central Billiards parlor at 6237 Archer avenue, also in Argo. The flames swept through the parlor and also attacked a candy store and a sporting goods house. Ammunition in the latter place exploded, imperiling firemen. The Chicago fire companies were called to help put out this fire.

Argentina Arrests Head of Group Leading Farm Strike

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Provincial police in the northern province of Entre Rios, on orders issued by Leopoldo Melo, federal secretary of the interior, today arrested Estaban Piacenza, president of the Argentine Agrarian federation. The farmers' organization, which has 85,000 members, is sponsoring a farm strike in an effort to force the government to ameliorate agricultural ills. Piacenza is publisher of the Rosario Agrarian daily La Tierra.

CERMAK LEAVES FOR A TEN DAY STAY IN FLORIDA

Mayor Cermak departed yesterday for Miami Beach, Fla., where he will confer with James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee. The mayor refused to discuss the purpose of his trip, but it was regarded likely in the city hall that he would mention national patronage to Mr. Farley, and perhaps, also, to President Elect Roosevelt when the latter returns from his fishing cruise. The mayor is expected to stay in Florida for ten days.

Railroad Loses Rent Suit Against Tunnel Newsboy

The Illinois Central railroad lost its suit to force David Pacelli, 59 year old newspaper vendor, to pay "rent" for his newspaper stand in the tunnel leading from Michigan avenue into the Van Buren street station. Municipal Judge J. William Brooks directed a jury in his court to return a finding against the railroad. The suit will be appealed, according to attorneys for the railroad.

GALLANTRY COMES TO FORE AS CHICAGOANS BATTLE SNOWSTORM

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Loop hotels were kept busy making reservations during the day for persons who expected to stay downtown. Several large companies in La Salle street indicated that they would keep their employés downtown for the night.

Gallantry was the order of the day in the loop. At Madison and State streets, Traffic Policeman M. J. Mandernach, a girl on each arm, helped them across the street. He rescued seven women blown to the ground during the day, he said.

A store window at State and Madison displayed "snugly fitting woolen panties to keep the shivers away." The wax model who wore them had a frost bitten nose.

Women shoppers who entered the Washington door of one loop store were met by John Shimalius, a store messenger, who wielded a whisk broom half his size and brushed the snow from their coats and hats.

By 5 o'clock the Chicago Motor club had received 1,800 calls for help, most of them from trucks. Comparatively few passenger autos were out.

The Glenview Dairy company, 4942 Lawrence avenue, sent all company drivers out in bobsleds.

A young man in a derby was waiting for a bus near 1200 Lake Shore drive. He observed a horse attached to a dairy wagon, his back against the wind, a layer of ice on his rump. The young man walked over to him, took out a pocket handkerchief and wiped the ice away.

Conversation in a department store dress section: "I should have been one of those who got to home early. Why should I get a break? Because I'm conscientious, always staying overtime. But because Mabel lives in Niles Center she gets off."

Acting Fire Commissioner Daniel J. Carmody issued a warning against piling snow over fire hydrants.

President Emmet Whealan of the county board announced the opening yesterday of the ski slide at Palos hill, 111th street and Mannheim road. There are three toboggan slides on the hill. There also are slides at Milwaukee and Devon avenues, at South Western avenue and 81st street, and in the forest preserves.

Buses and elevated lines, unprepared for the rush of early homegoing loop workers, were swamped at 4 o'clock. The crowds were good natured, a sort of holiday atmosphere prevailing.

Ear muffs, knee-high galoshes into which men tucked their trousers, and fur caps were put into service. One man, otherwise impeccably attired, emerged from a La Salle street building wearing high rubber boots and earmuffs. A girl was seen striding along in riding boots. One woman wore her husband's golf socks. Several men were seen in knickers and wool socks.

The full force of 3,000 drivers was ordered on 24 hour duty by the Yellow Cab company, 675 extra drivers and shop workers being put back to work.

A much heavier flow of traffic over telephone wires than usual was reported by the telephone company, although figures had not been completely tabulated last night.

An exhausted carrier pigeon fell upon the rear porch of the home of Howard R. Medici, 8353 Maryland avenue. A silver leg band bore the inscription: "7-S. M., 1931."

Downtown hotels were virtually filled last night, loop workers competing with convention delegates for rooms. One hotel man estimated that 12,000 Chicagoans would remain in hotels in the loop and near the loop for the night. Among the concerns who engaged rooms for employés at the Morrison hotel were: First National bank, Northern Trust company, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, Federal Reserve bank, Board of Trade, Harris Trust company, and Chicago Stock Exchange.

TAX BURDEN DOOMS HOME OF MILLIONAIRE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The mansion of the late J. C. McDowell, who amassed a fortune of $60,000,000 in the gas and oil business, is being demolished because, his son says, "taxes are too high and there are no tenants."

A stained, leaded glass window that formerly was at the head of the staircase will be taken to Victoria, Tex. There Horace McDowell, the son and heir, now is living. It will be placed in a new Methodist Episcopal church to be built as a memorial to his parents.

McDowell began his business life as a.. oil driller. He was a pioneer in the field of natural gas. The first heating unit employing it was in the house being torn down.

During his lifetime McDowell contributed more than $2,000,000 to the Women's Christian Temperance union, friends say.

STORM DELAYS SENATE VOTE ON SALES TAX BILL

Election Merger Measure Hits Snag.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Bad weather brought about a scant attendance in the Illinois senate late today and the scheduled amending of the two per cent sales tax bill was postponed until tomorrow.

The swirling blizzard delayed trains from Chicago and many members who ordinarily drive to the capital were marooned in surrounding villages. Lieut. Gov. Donovan hoped that they could complete their journeys tonight or early tomorrow, so that the sales tax legislation could go forward.

Row Over Election Bill.

Before the senate met the house of representatives became involved in a first class row over one of the election bills backed by Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], who has been handling the Cermak-Horner-Jarecki economy program in his branch of the legislature.

This measure has been passed by the senate and came to the house on first reading. Adamowski explained that it would allow all cities, villages, townships, school, and park districts in the state to postpone their elections until the June judicial elections as an economy measure. No definite figure could be set for the savings which could be accomplished, but it was put in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Adamowski urged that the bill be sent to second reading without committee reference, explaining that time was short and that the taxing bodies which cared to take advantage of the bill's provisions would have to act quickly to legalize the postponement.

Row Over Another Bill.

The measure was refused advancement and must have committee consideration.

The party tilt continued, however, when Schnackenberg asked immediate approval of a resolution calling upon Attorney General Kerner to investigate the feasibility of proceeding in the federal courts against northern Indiana municipalities and corporations whose sewage disposal plants dump refuse—including phenol—into Lake Michigan "and thereby menace the health of Chicago citizens." South side Chicago residents particularly have had to deal with this tainted water.

Frank Ryan [Dem., Chicago] demanded that the resolution go to the waterways committee in retaliation for Schnackenberg's opposition to the election bill. On a roll call to decide this point, however, too few Democrats voted with Ryan and the resolution was adopted.

Propose State Salary Cut.

Taking up Speaker Roe's admonition of economy in legislative time, the house committees went to work with a will. The committee on efficiency and economy recommended part of James T. Burn's program for cutting the costs of government.

The five bills receiving this favorable action are of a series which the sponsor claims will save the state almost $20,000,000 if enacted.

Measures considered tonight would, among provisions, reduce the salary of the lieutenant governor from $5,000 to $4,500; those of Supreme court justices from $15,000 to $12,000, and of elected state officers from $10,000 to $8,500. They would also cut shorthand reporters, state librarians, and the inheritance tax attorneys in Attorney General Kerner's office.

Salary Basis for Masters.

Much comment was elicited by a bill introduced in the house by Luther B. Bratton [Dem., Kankakee] which would put masters in chancery upon an annual salary instead of a fee basis. This measure would pay Cook county masters $4,000 and those downstate from $2,000 to $3,000.

Anna Wilmarth Ickes [Rep., Winnetka] introduced another bill to provide that clerks of Appellate courts, now paid by fee, be placed on a salary basis, the clerk for the first district, Cook county, receiving $9,000 annually and the others $5,000.

Bills introduced in the senate included an income tax measure from Charles J. Kribs [Dem., Prairie du Rocher]. It would impose a tax of one-fifth of one per cent on gross incomes, of persons, firms and corporations, beginning with 1933 incomes. Proceeds would go to school tax reductions but could be diverted to idle relief by a two-thirds vote of county boards.

Senator Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago] introduced a 1½ per cent sales tax bill on gross receipts of all persons engaged in any business, trade or occupation, payable monthly to the department of finance. Half the proceeds would go for relief; half for reduction of school taxes.

CHICAGO NEEDS A PIED PIPER, OFFICIALS TOLD

Chicago needs the services of a Pied Piper or a whole regiment of Pied Pipers, Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt was informed yesterday in a letter from County Commissioner Amelia Sears. She asked the cooperation of the department of public works in a campaign being planned by the health department to exterminate rats which are swarming in certain sections of the city.

Miss Sears referred to numerous complaints received by the health department. One told how a sleeping baby had been bitten by a rat. Another how an 8 year old girl was attacked. There were complaints of rats which ran up men's legs and bit them, chewed the nipple off baby's bottle, or chased the family dog about the kitchen. Housewives told how they had to seal their food in tin cans to protect it from the rodents, and one woman said that she took her groceries to bed with her.

Under the tentative plan of the health department the department of public works would make a special cleanup of all garbage in the affected areas and men assigned by the relief commission would then spread poisoned food about, collect the bodies of the dead rats, and load them in department of public works trucks for disposal.

DAY IN WASHINGTON

[By the Associated Press.]

Senate summarily removed Sergeant at Arms David S. Barry for writing magazine article that some members of congress sell their votes.

Senate amended treasury-postoffice supply bill to require department heads to spend 5 per cent less than appropriated by congress.

House Democrats called for a caucus against bill for automatic tariff increases on products of depreciated currency countries.

Senator Hull [Dem., Tenn.] proposed legislation to fix 4 per cent maximum interest rate on Reconstruction corporation loans next 12 months.

Members of congress opposed any scaling down of war debts from 11 billion to 2 billion dollars.

REWARD TRAFFIC VIOLATORS FOR BRAVING STORM

Judge Thomas A. Green, discharged 100 defendants in the Speeders' court yesterday as a reward for appearing in court, regardless of the weather. At the same time the judge, who began his duties in this branch of the Municipal court Monday, announced reductions in the fixed bonds for traffic violators.

Addressing the defendants in court Judge Green said: "You deserve consideration for coming here in spite of the blizzard and because none of you tried to have his case fixed."

The new bond schedule will be $5 for all defendants arrested on warrants charging failure to pay fines for minor traffic violations. The previous schedule was from $10 to $25. Speeders hereafter will be required to post a bond of $25 instead of the $50 or $100 bonds previously required.

PRICE OF HOGS RISES AS STORM CUTS SUPPLIES

The snowstorm and subzero weather brought sharp advances in the live stock and produce prices in Chicago yesterday as available supplies were reduced and shipments delayed. Hogs went up 30 cents a hundred, on the average, the sharpest one day gain in a year. The cattle market was strong, with prices slightly higher in some places. Poultry was higher, with hens up 1 to 1½ cents a pound. Butter was up ½ to 1½ and eggs ¾ to 1½ cents. Cotton advanced from 4 to 9 points in various markets. Wheat was off on rumors of farm board selling and corn somewhat lower despite weather reports and delayed movements.

AL SMITH ASKS FOR U. S. CHIEF OF PUBLIC WORKS

Says Red Tape Blocks Help by R. F. C.

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith declared tonight that the United States must have a director general of public works, with power to cut through red tape and scrap hampering statutes, if the Reconstruction Finance corporation was to be an effective weapon against depression.

Speaking before 400 guests at the dinner of the Catholic conference on industrial problems, Mr. Smith said stagnation of business had wrought more domestic havoc than two years' participation in the world war. He declared war-time measures were needed to fight it, even at the cost of temporary sacrifice of democratic principles.

Blames U. S. Red Tape.

"There is no use in appropriating public money for public works to relieve the present business depression," he asserted, "if the government is going to be tied down to earth by red tape and statutes regulating the use of public money on public works.

"Right here in the city private enterprise can build an Empire State building in one year. But it took three years to put up a 36 story public building in Albany.

"First, there had to be rulings by the attorney general, then there were arguments whether the marble was the kind specified in the specifications, and then pepole who didn't know the first thing about it got into a row over the kind of elevators that were to be used.

Same as State of War.

"Now I say, and I've said all along, that in a depression we're in a state of war. This stagnation of business, or whatever you call it, is doing more damage at home to our own people than the great war of 1917 and 1918 ever did. The only thing to do is to lay aside the red tape and the regulatory statutes and do what a democrac must do when it fights.

"And what does a democracy do in a war? It becomes a tyrant, a despot, a real monarch. In the world war we took our constitution, wrapped it up and laid it on the shelf and left it there until it was over.

"Remember how the President told us we couldn't use our automobiles on Sunday—gasless Sundays—and we left them in the garage? Then they told us we couldn't have sugar in our coffee and everybody went around with those little bottles of saccharine. And there were meatless Wednesdays when every Wednesday was Ember day. That wasn't so hard for us though, because we are used to it.

"If we are going to get anywhere in this business of getting out of the depression—of using public funds to stimulate business, we've got to appoint a director general of public works to wipe out these laws and put the buildings up. If we don't like the model let's throw it away and get another."

RULES FOR TRAFFIC DURING STORM GIVEN BY SAFETY COUNCIL

The Chicago Safety council yesterday urged that Chicagoans observe the following precautions during the blizzard and its aftermath:

1. Go slowly. Motorists should drive slowly and should not proceed when vision is impaired. Pedestrians should walk carefully and look in all directions before crossing streets.
2. Keep snow cleared from sidewalks as far as possible.
3. Prevent accumulations of snow on ledges or other places where the weight may be dangerous.
4. Do not block streets by parking cars at a distance from the curb.
5. Beware of fallen wires and notify the police at once when wires are seen to fall.
6. Keep steps exposed to snow cleared, so that users can gain solid footing.

SAVE THREE GIRLS FROM DEATH ON "WITCH" ALTAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 7.—Police and rural guards today saved the lives of three young girls who were about to be offered up as sacrifices to a "witchcraft goddess" known as Chango by her Negro worshippers. The five in charge of the ceremony were imprisoned here tonight. Bond was denied.

The attempted "sacrifice" occurred near Punta Brava, 12 miles west of Havana. The girls, Ela Negrin Gonzalez, aged 4; Maria de Jesus Rubio, 4, and Maria Josefa Delgrado had been stripped, tied to posts and whipped by five "witchcrafters." They next proposed to use axes on the children to get white blood which they claimed was necessary to appease Chango and thereby cure one of their followers, a 65 year old Negress, of chronic rheumatism.

The girls were kidnaped five days ago. Rural guards located them today when investigators followed large crowds of Negroes and came upon the "witchcrafters" and their victims. The spectators were singing in a so-called "nanigo," the official witch language. Some were dancing around the posts to which the girls were bound. Others played an African drum called a "bembe." Doves, pigeons, and a goat had already been sacrificed and the blood used as part of the rheumatism cure.

PORK BARRELERS IN HOUSE BLOCK ECONOMY MOVES

Loud Promisers Absent at Voting Time.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—If you would understand why no substantial reduction is being made in the four billion dollar a year cost of the federal government look in any day upon the proceedings of the house of representatives.

From 50 to 75 of the 435 members are present, most of them interested in getting this or that handout from the federal treasury for their constituents. The pork barrelers are numerously present and the loud promisers of economy numerously absent.

We now witness the attempt of Representative John W. Summers [Rep., Wash.], to lop from the department of agriculture appropriation bill four items for control of the European corn borer aggregating $100,000. He begins with an item of $22,285 for experimentation with corn types resistent to the borer.

Causes But Little Damage.

"During the last few years," says Mr. Summers, "the federal government has expended on the European corn borer about 20 million dollars. The testimony before our committee year after year is that the corn borer has been in this country 25 years; that it constantly spreads; that it cannot be destroyed; that its spread cannot be prevented, and that it has caused but little damage.

"The department of agriculture has demonstrated that it can be controlled, if at any time it becomes destructive in a certain type of low and wet land, simply by cleaning up the corn stalks and burning them or by turning them under the soil. That is very effective and so simple it can be carried out on any farm.

"This appropriation has gone on from year to year over my protest. Two years ago you appropriated $1,401,560, last year $661,374 and this bill carries $319,653 all for the suppression, the control, the investigation, the study of the habits of the corn borer, the devising of machinery for its eradication and the devising of something to grow in the place of corn in the event the corn borer should become destructive. Such lavish expenditures are not justified by the facts and I am opposed to this waste of public funds."

Proposed Cut Is Rejected.

Representative James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], in charge of the bill, says he would not assume responsibility for abandoning the fight on the corn borer and the proposed cut in the appropriation is rejected.

Representative Edward W. Goss [Rep., Conn.] essays to cut $240,000 from the $850,000 item for publication of farmers' bulletins and other matter, asserting the work of the department would not be hampered thereby. Mr. Buchanan resists. There are now 57 members on the floor. Mr. Goss' proposed cut is defeated 19 to 38.

When the item of $4,381,000 for federal aid to the states for agricultural experiment stations is reached, Representative Edgar Howard [Dem., Neb.] moves to reduce it 1 million. "I believe the only way to reduce is to reduce," he says.

Upset Research Work.

"If this item were reduced 1 million," objects Mr. Buchanan, "it would upset the program as mapped out for every agricultural college in every state of the Union for research work, investigation and farm demonstration and the whole agricultural program of our land."

"There is no question about that," assents Mr. Howard, "but we must begin somewhere and the only way to reduce the cost of government is to reduce the appropriations."

The attendance is now down to 45. Mr Howard's proposed cut is rejected, 18 to 27.

Representative Miles C. Allgood [Dem., Ala.], then endeavors to get the item of $125,975 for general administrative expenses of the weather bureau reduced to $60,000. "If you are going to strike down the bureaus and bureaucrats you have to begin somewhere else," he says. "In 1923 the appropriation for the weather bureau was $1,925,225 and in 1932 it had risen to the enormous amount of $4,497,720.

No More Weather Than Usual.

"I do not think we have any more weather now than we had in 1923 and I know the farmers have not any more to protect and what they have to protect is not worth as much as it was in 1923."

Mr. Buchanan and Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rad., N. Y.] urge that the larger appropriation is justified by the demands for weather forecasts for aviators. The item is retained unimpaired.

At last, however, a reduction is made. Mr. Allgood moves to cut the item for agricultural exhibits at fairs from $90,000 down to $10,000. "The fact is that fairs are almost obsolete," he says. "States are not attempting to keep up fairs and we have no more county fairs." There are now only 38 members in attendance. The cut is voted 25 to 13.

Starts Drive for Taxes on Properties in Litigation

County Tax Attorney Hayden N. Bell yesterday began his active campaign to force the payment of taxes upon all properties involved in foreclosure or reorganization proceedings. He sent 500 letters to bondholders' protective committees, trustees, receivers and property owners, demanding that they furnish his office with detailed information concerning the income, the amount of unpaid taxes and the status of the litigation involving properties with which they are identified. The delinquent taxes owed by these properties is estimated at $50,000,000.

Confer in Studio

Three Eagle Boy Scouts conferred yesterday with members of the cast of the "Devil Bird" sketch in the W-G-N studios in Tribune tower, in connection with plans for world wide celebrations, beginning today, observing the twenty-third anniversary of the founding of the Boy Scout movement.

Part of the Scout celebration will be presented over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station, next Monday afternoon. At that time the "Devil Bird" cast will entertain twelve Eagle Scouts who made THE TRIBUNE Boy Scout canoe cruise down the Fox river with Bob Becker. Mr. Becker, outdoor writer for THE TRIBUNE, produces the "Devil Bird" series.

The three Eagle Scouts who made arrangements yesterday were Fred Geyler, Neil MacIntosh, and Bryan Moats. They conferred with Grant Atkinson of the cast.

CHARGES REDS FOMENT STRIKES; ASKS DOAK AID

Detroit Congressman Urges Inquiry.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 7.—(AP)—With two strikes of automobile body workers in progress and no indication of abatement in scattering disorders attending the oldest of the strikes, Secretary of Labor William N. Doak was asked tonight to intervene.

Three thousand body workers at the Hudson Motor Car company plant walked out today after demanding wage increases and other concessions and 6,000 employés in all were affected by that shutdown.

At the Briggs Manufacturing company's principal plant, where a three weeks' old strike is in progress, five men were hurt, none seriously, during a brush between men described by police as strikers and employés. A policeman off duty wounded one man.

Congressmen Ask Help.

The requet for intervention by Secretary Doak came from Cal M. Wideman, Democratic representative elect in congress. He acted on a petition which said that "an attempt is being made by certain groups who are opposed to our form of government to wrest control of said strike from loyal American citizens."

Max F. Wollering, the Hudson vice president in charge of manufacturing, said the company was 'just getting into full production," and had ordered an additional 2,000 men to return to work Thursday, which would have brought the employment roster to 8,000. The body plant reopened Monday after a week's shutdown.

Hopes to End Strike.

Wollering said he "hoped to have the men back in a day or two, as soon as we can get in communication with them."

The demands included a 20 per cent increase in day rate wages and a bonus of 150 per cent on the basis of volume produced; a 30 per cent increase in all hourly rate wages, with an additional five cents an hour for night workers; time and a half for overtime, and adequate number of relief men on assembly lines, recognition of a grievance committee in all departments, and adequate ventilation.

Wollering said that the wages in the plant "already are better than 20 per cent above those paid in other body plants." He declared that the list of demands "indicates an unfamiliarity with the plant."

More Blame for Reds.

"This disturbance is by agitators who are outsiders and members of the communist group," he said. "Our own older employés have been reluctantly forced out. The Hudson company has been almost free from labor trouble for nearly 25 years. There have been no previous walkouts or strikes."

Other officials said the 3,000 men who walked out did so following a march through the plant this morning by a small group of leaders who shouted "Come on, we're going out." They said the walkout came suddenly, without advance information by employés. Walter O. Briggs, president of the Briggs company, in a letter to the mayor blamed Reds for the strike. He charged a communist plot against the auto industries.

BAR ASSOCIATION BOARD APPROVES NEW FEE REPORT

Receiver, Master Sections About to Be Published.

BY AL CHASE.

Two more sections of the report by the receiverships and mortgage foreclosures committee of the Chicago Bar association have been completed, adopted unanimously by the board of managers, and will be made public within the next few days. These sections will deal with fees of masters in chancery and receivers. This action was disclosed last night by President Charles P. Megan at a dinner of the committee on activities of younger members of the bar when he arose to protest against the proposed adoption of resolutions condemning receiverships committee for lack of speed.

The first section of the bar report, recently issued, recommends a standard scale of fees in foreclosures which would prevent extortionate charges.

Asserts Delay Shakes Faith.

Trouble started at last night's meeting of the younger lawyers when William C. MacLean presented a resolution declaring that the long delay by the bar association in getting the balance of its report on receiverships and foreclosures before the public was undermining the confidence of the public in the bar association and lawyers in general.

President Megan protested at what he termed a "rear guard action" and justified his protest by admitting that the reports on both masters' fees and receivership fees actually had been completed by the committee, O. K.'d by the board of managers and were in the hands of the printetrs for distribution within the next few days.

After hot debate between the younger lawyers the resolutions were withdrawn at the suggestion of Attorney Len Smith and President Megan sat back with a sigh of relief.

Attack Legal Fee Gouging.

The row over reports was preceded by two attacks on legal fee gouging; one by Arthur Kruggel, former chairman of the board of governors of the renting and management division of the Chicago Real Estate board, and the other by William G. Lodwick, vice president and counsel for the Fort Dearborn Mortgage company, which is controlled by the Continental National Bank and Trust company, the First National bank and the Chicago Title and Trust company.

"It's disheartening to see the bar association attacked in the newspapers almost daily for charging fees which to the layman appear to be exorbitant," said Mr. Lodwick.

"The recommended schedule of foreclosure fees of the bar association is one of the most courageous acts it has ever undertaken, and unless this work is continued with the full cooperation of all the lawyers, the reputation of attorneys in this community will sink to an unknown depth."

Mr. Kruggel suggested as a remedy for the present foreclosure situation a law making it compulsory for all bondholders to accept a plan if 75 per cent of the bondholders and the equity owner agreed to it.

WIFE IS GRANTED A DIVORCE FROM FRANCIS X. BUSCH

Mrs. Kathryn M. Busch, 415 Surf street, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday on grounds of desertion from Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel. Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan granted the divorce.

Mrs. Busch was accompanied to court by her attorney, William H. Symmes of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, but Judge Finnegan put all the questions to her. She testified that she was married on June 21, 1913, and that Mr. Busch left her on Jan. 1, 1932, and went to live at the Pearson hotel.

Both Mrs. Busch and her mother, Mrs. Theresa Ramm, testified that her home life was amicable. There are no children, and Mrs. Busch was given permission to resume her maiden name, Kathryn M. Ramm. When Judge Finnegan asked if the couple had any children by adoption, Mrs. Busch hesitated, glanced at her lawyer and then replied in the negative.

Attorney Symmes informed Judge Finnegan that a substantial property settlement had been made out of court, and Mrs. Busch testified that she was satisfied with it and asked no alimony.

STUDIO REGAINS THIEVES' LOOT BY USE OF AD

Paul Stone, official of the Paul Stone-Raymor Studios, Ltd., 430 North Michigan avenue, announced yesterday that he had recovered photographic equipment valued at $800 that was stolen from a parked car on Jan. 29. He said that an item printed in THE TRIBUNE the morning after the theft prevented the thieves from disposing of the loot. Stone then inserted a want ad in THE TRIBUNE in which he announced that a reward would be paid and no questions asked if the equipment were returned. A telephone call to the number listed in the advertisement opened negotiations that resulted in the return of the camera, two lenses, and other equipment on Monday night.

LETTER BY COOLIDGE BARES REFUSAL TO RUN AGAIN IN 1936

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—A stern injunction to silence any discussion of a Coolidge for President movement in 1936 was framed by the late Calvin Coolidge only a few days before his death last month. This was revealed here tonight by Edward T. Clark, onetime secretary to President Coolidge. The letter said:

"Of course, a new man is new. Ordinarily he can wait a little. The difficulty now is that everything is in an emergency requiring immediate action. I would be glad to tell anybody anything I know and I think it is a time when partisanship ought to be laid aside.

"I should not want to serve in any bodies or commissions. The fact is that I feel worn out. No one can tell these days what a short time of three or four years may bring forth, but, of course, I know my work is done. I could not pick up again. I imagine that was one trouble Cleveland had in trying to administer a second term. Any time you hear anybody talking of me just tell them to stop it."

GENTLE CURVES TO FEATURE NEW STYLES FOR MEN

Gentle curves and smugness about the hips will feature the new masculine styles. In contrast, the he-man mode of square shoulders of a year ago is passe.

The new idea in masculine attire was discussed by Sam Regal, editor of "The American Gentleman," before members of the Chicago Cutters club at the Palmer house last night.

"The new draped garments for men will bring back softness and gentle curves to masculine wear," said Mr. Regal. "A soft draped coat, with a fairly low opening in front, a long lapel, and a high waist line, close fitting over the hips, will be in vogue."

KILLED IN CRASH WITH STALLED AUTO IN SNOW

Otto Brunke, 48 years old, 415 Lake court, Waukegan, was killed last night when an automobile he was driving collided with another car stalled in the snow at Belvidere and McAlister streets in Waukegan.

Only slight damage was done the two cars and there were no marks to indicate severe injuries on the body of Brunke, who was formerly a semi-professional baseball player. It is believed that heart disease was a contributing cause to his death.

There were no automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday, the toll for the year remaining at 94.

BRITISH NONSTOP FLYERS SPEED ON TO CAPE TOWN

Near the Halfway Mark; Mollison in Africa.

BULLETIN.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Squadron Leader O. R. Gayford and Flight Lieutenant G. E. Nicholetts, flying here from England in an attempt to set a new world's nonstop long distance record, were 43 miles southeast of Benguella, West Africa, at 8 a. m. local time (2 a. m. Chicago time) today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Three new air records hung in the balance tonight as four flyers—three of them British and one a 19 year old South African—roared on their way.

The South African youth, Victor Smith, took off at 7:10 a. m. today from Southampton in an attempt to beat Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison's time for the flight to Cape Town, South Africa. Late today he had reached Perpignan in southern France. It appeared to be an uphill fight for Smith, however, as the two royal air force officers, Squadron Leader O. R. Gayford and Flight Lieut. G. E. Nicholetts, tonight were reported far beyond the halfway mark on their attempted nonstop flight to Cape Town. They left Cranwell, England, early yesterday.

Out After Record.

The Royal air force flyers hope to break the non-stop distance record of 5,012 miles set in 1931 by the Americans, Russell Boardman and John Polando, on their flight from New York to Istanbul. If they land in Cape Town without a halt, they will have flown 6,198 miles and will incidentally have beaten Mrs. Mollison's time of 4 days 6 hours 54 minutes.

Meanwhile, Capt. James A. Mollison prepared to leave Villa Cisneros on the west coast of Africa for Senegal tomorrow in his asault on the record for an England to Brazil flight. He left Lympne airdrome shortly before the royal airmen yesterday, stopped at Barcelona later in the day, and then hopped off last night for the Spanish prison colony, where he rested today.

DWIGHT H. GREEN SEES SUPERIORS ABOUT INQUIRIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—District Attorney Dwight H. Green of Chicago and his first assistant, William Froelich, conferred today with high officials of the department of justice regarding several important investigations now being conducted by the federal attorney's office in Chicago.

Mr. Green declined to state the specific purposes of his latest visit to Washington, but admitted that it was not one of his periodic routine trips to consult with his superiors here. He declared, however, that no new investigations are imminent in Chicago and insisted that only current inquiries were the subject of his conferences at the department today.

The federal government's investigation of the Insull collapse, said Mr. Green, entered into the discussions today, as did the investigation being made by his office of the affairs of the Illinois Life Insurance company, recently failed. Both inquiries, he stated, are progressing satisfactorily. The Insull probe is nearing completion, Mr. Green said, with fourteen men assigned to it.

Prince of Wales Greets Argentine Trade Mission

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Another crack at American exports by Great Britain is indicated by the pompous arrival in London today of Dr. Julio Roca, Argentine vice president, who is at the head of an Argentine delegation on a trade reciprocity mission.

The prince of Wales, wearing the uniform of a colonel of the Irish Guards, met the Argentine visitors at Victoria station upon their arrival from Dover aboard the royal train. The trade delegation is returning the visit the heir to the British throne made to South America nearly two years ago when he opened the British fair at Buenos Aires.

The prince introduced Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, to Dr. Roca and his colleagues, after which the group inspected the guard of honor detailed from the Scots Guards.

The visitors rode in royal carriages to a hotel, escorted by detachments drawn from King George's mounted guards. Wales remained with the delegation for some time before returning to St. James's palace.

Dr. Roca also was received in state at Dover by Admiral Sir Henry Buller, the king's groom in waiting, and a regimental band played the presidential salute.

CLAIMS THINKER USES ENERGY AS FAST AS LABORER

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The pick and shovel laborer no longer need envy his boss who sits and thinks behind a desk, for a hard thinking brain uses energy as fast as a hard working muscle, the American College of Physicians was told here today. There is good reason to believe that brains use up actual energy in thinking just as muscles do in working, though this is contrary to ideas formerly held, said Dr. Stanley Cobb of Boston. It accounts for the fact, he believes, that brain workers who lead a sedentary life often are more hungry after their usual mental work than after exercising in the open air.

Brains may "blush" or turn pale under emotional excitement just as their owners' faces do, Dr. Cobb states, for there is a close connection between blood circulation in the brain and a person's mental state.

Brain workers get hungry because their brains during the thinking process actually burn up food turning it into energy, a process known as metabolism. Scientists formerly thought brains had a much lower rate of metabolism than muscles because they had fewer capillaries, the tiny vessels that feed food and oxygen from the blood to the body tissues and remove wastes. The metabolism process works through the capillaries.

FIREMEN FIGHT A 3-11 BLAZE IN ZERO WEATHER

Fire for which a 3-11 alarm was sounded did about $15,000 damage early this morning to the North Avenue Department store and building at 609 West North avenue, at the corner of Ogden avenue.

The blaze originated at the rear of the ground floor, probably through spontaneous combustion, Marshal Michael J. Corrigan said. It spread upward to the second floor, damaging some stock there. The flames were confined to the rear. Much of the damage was due to water and smoke.

Firemen extinguished the fire speedily, and the extra apparatus summoned was not needed. Traffic, already hampered by snow, was further impaired by the fire. Several hundred persons braved the near zero temperature to watch the fire.

Ex-Legislator Is Fatally Burned Lighting His Pipe

George E. Lapsley, 67 years old, of 4161 Drexel boulevard, a former Democratic member of the state legislature from the 5th district, died this morning in the Mercy hospital of burns received in his home earlier in the day. He was lighting his pipe when the burning match dropped from his fingers and ignited his bathrobe. He was burned about the upper part of the body. Lapsley had not been active in politics in recent years.

SENATE STORM SWEEPS BARRY FROM HIS JOB

Let's Quiz Al Smith, Glenn's Taunt.

gested Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.].

"But we can charge anybody else, except ourselves," agreed Senator Glenn. "We protect each other by the rule, but every one else in the United States we can abuse, free from any possibility of response."

Agrees About Browbeating.

Senator Norris concurred in what Senator Glenn had said about browbeating witnesses, but he asserted that the senator from Illinois was himself transgressing the rule against attacking his colleagues. Again Senator Couzens interrupted.

"The rules of the senate apply to individuals and not to the senate as a body," he pointed out. "And I want to substantiate what the senator from Illinois has said about the treatment of witnesses in committees."

Senator Alben Barkley [Dem., Ky.] one of those urging Mr. Barry's dismissal, was sure any member making such charges as those Mr. Barry made would have been called before the senate or before a committee to submit proof.

Charges by Senator Glass.

"O, no, we look after each other in this body," retorted the Illinois senator. He omitted to add that Mr. Barry had recalled only yesterday the charge made by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] last spring, that congressmen had been bribed to oppose the McFadden branch banking bill. The name or names of those congressmen have never been publicly put on record.

Senator Glenn argued that Mr. Barry was only a small cog in a modern machine devoted to criticism. He recalled the campaign of criticism directed against President Hoover.

Then he turned on the Democrats who were so anxious to see the sergeant at arms, appointee of the Republicans, boosted from his job.

Might Quiz Al Smith.

The New Outlook, the senator pointed out, is edited by Al Smith, former governor of New York, and former Democratic presidential candidate.

"I think he is a good man," said Senator Glenn; "one of the great men of this country—of whom there are but few."

Laughter broke in upon the senator's estimate of his country's leaders.

"I stand by that declaration," the senator maintained, smiling. "I believe I could almost prove it in a court of record."

"In any libel suit for which Mr. Barry would be responsible, former Gov. Smith would likewise be responsible," Senator Glenn went on. "Is he a wicked, mean man, who would destroy the senate and our form of government? O, no; not at all.

"I predict that it will be a long day before the senate sends for Alfred E. Smith to come before the bar of the senate. I wish they would do so before we act upon this resolution. But they will never send for him."

Senator Norris suggested Senator Glenn be named chairman of a committee to question Al Smith or any one else. Senator Norris offered to set up such a subcommittee.

Recalls Violent Scene.

Nor was Senator Glenn yet done with his lecture.

A few weeks ago Charles F. Pace, senate finance officer, came to the press gallery with a gun, seeking to kill a newspaper man who had included him in a magazine article on congressional extravagance. Pace later promised to keep the peace and was kept in office by order of the senate rules committee.

The Illinois senator took occasion to remind his colleagues of that incident.

"When it was determined that this employé was guilty of attacking one up there in the press gallery, what did we do with him?" Senator Glenn inquired. "Why, we did nothing. It was all right then. He was under strain and under stress and besides he had not attacked a member of the senate, but only a member of the press gallery, so we excused him. Why treat him any differently from the way we are going to treat this man? We encouraged him, it is just suggested to me. Some people think if he had been successful in his quest, we would have pinned upon him a senatorial badge of honor."

Again laughter broke out.

Says It's Mob Law.

Like Senator Glenn, Senator Logan, the Kentuckian, counseled against dismissal, besought fair play.

"Down in my state if some organization should proceed in the way we are proceeding here, we would call it mob law," he declared. "We are preparing without almost a hearing to enter a death sentence against this man because it is better probably to take the life of a man than to take his good name.

"What chance did he have, an old man with 96 angry senators lined up against him? Here we sit as a jury, a jury that has been offended. In the civil courts, or in the criminal courts of this nation, I undertake to say that none of us would be qualified to sit on the jury to hear the charge. But we are sitting to try the man that has libeled us or slandered us in some way."

Own Reputation Safe.

The senator from Kentucky tossed his straggling gray mane.

"He has not libeled me," he said. "I am glad that I do not think my reputation so frail as to be damaged because some one makes a suggestion such as is found in this article."

Barry reminded him, Senator Logan said, of a lone, small hare with a pack of hounds on its trail.

Suppose Mr. Barry had been unable to offer proof concerning any member of the present congress, Senator Logan suggested. His article could be interpreted as a criticism, not of this congress but of congress as an institution. Men had been expelled from congress for bribery. He cited the Credit Mobilier scandal.

"It arouses all the indignation that I have when I see the greatest body in the world carried off its feet because, they say, perchance some clerk or sergeant-at-arms has libeled its members," proclaimed the senator from Kentucky.

Can't Vouch for All.

"I dare say," he went on, "that there are none of us who would be willing to say that there is no such man among the 531 in congress.

"We may say that we do not know that there is any such man and that we do not believe there is any such man, but we go to the past and judge the present by the things that have happened in the past.

"Jesus Christ," he said, "attempted to select 12 men after a very thorough examination and, after having spent two years with them, he found one in that number—and he was the best business man in the group and was elected treasurer of the little band—who turned out to be a man who was willing to accept a bribe.

"Do you think you ought to whip Mr. Barry out of the senate because he said that in the 531 there might be one or two who would sell their votes for money?"

Bingham Another Defender.

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] came to Mr. Barry's defense. So did Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.]. It settled down into a party fight with all the trappings of a party fight.

Senator Dickinson argued that the case should go to a committee. He was shouted down. He shouted back. Personalities flew. The galleries snickered.

He had a mind of his own, said the Iowa senator. He would introduce a substitute for the resolution of dismissal which Senator Norris had introduced on behalf of the judiciary committee which heard Mr. Barry's defense and held it insufficient.

"If the senator has a substitute to show that he has a mind of his own for God's sake let him introduce it," shouted Senator Norris.

The two senators went at it hammer and tongs for a clamorous five minutes, while the galleries looked on in amazement and amusement.

Moses as Referee.

Senator Glenn got into it again, charging that what cut Senator Norris was not the sergeant at arms' statement concerning corruption so much as what he said about the number of demagogues in congress. And then the two of them went at it in their turn until Senator Moses of New Hampshire, as temporary chairman, finally restored order.

Senator Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.] charged the senate with getting "white livered."

"We'll be branded as cravens and cowards if we funnyswaggle around here and don't dismiss this employé who has libeled us," he declared.

The senate voted on a substitute resolution by Senator Glenn to reprimand Mr. Barry and keep him in office. This substitute lost, 15 to 56. Senator Dickinson's substitute lost, 10 to 58, and then the final vote was taken.

COUNTY TO ASK $2,000,000 LOAN FROM THE R. F. C.

The county board yesterday voted to ask the Reconstruction Finance corporation for $2,000,000 with which to finish construction of the county hospital nurses' home. The county would post as collateral with the finance corporation $2,000,000 in bonds issued for the project, which it has been unable to sell.

Commissioner Grace Fleming protested against the action. Construction of the home does not constitute an emergency, she protested. She pointed out further that when the skyscraper home is completed it will cost the county more to operate it than it now pays for housing of the nurses.

Mrs. Fleming also attacked the contract for the construction of the building, contending that the board had awarded it prematurely.

PRAY IN TURKISH TONGUE, KEMAL ORDERS ISTANBUL

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 7.—(AP)—An order calling for services in all Istanbul mosques to be said in Turkish instead of Arabic was issued today by President Mustapha Kemal Pasha upon his return from Broussa, where religious disorders occurred over the week-end.

Scores of persons were arrested in Broussa when they attacked muezzins (public criers) who used Turkish instead of Arabic when giving their calls to prayers. Several months ago the president issued a decree making Turkish the language of the prayers instead of Arabic. The order had not been put into full force in all parts of the country, however.

Reports today from Smyrna province, where the change has been ordered, told of a number of arrests for noncompliance. Dispatches from Ankara, the capitol, said that the parliament, which will reassemble in March, will enact a law strengthening the reform and establishing a special judiciary to suppress incidents such as that at Broussa. The attorney general at Broussa was dismissed for lack of vigilance.

OUTLOOK EDITOR REGRETS SENATE OUSTER OF BARRY

But Glad He Sheds Light on Shadier Activities.

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Francis Walton, managing editor of New Outlook, said tonight he regretted that David S. Barry had been dismissed as sergeant-at-arms of the U. S. senate but that "it is gratifying" that Barry's remarks, appearing in the New Outlook, "could so effectively turn a searchlight upon the shadier activities of congress."

Walton, in a formal statement, said the senate's action today, dismissing Barry, "has not shaken our confidence in Mr. Barry and the New Outlook will carry further articles on the senate activities."

Discussing the first paragraph of Barry's article, the basis for the senate's action, Walton said the magazine editors moved this paragraph up from a lower position in the article "for the sole editorial purpose of making it clear at once to the readers that the intent of this particular article was not to discuss again the popular viewpoint of crookedness rampant in the houses of our lawmakers, but that the intent was to deal with the newer and equally serious situation of the rising tide of demagogery on the hill in Washington."

Here's What Started It All.

The paragraph referred to read as follows:

"Contrary, perhaps, to the popular belief, there are not many crooks in congress, that is, out and out grafters, or those who are willing to be such; there are not many senators or representatives who sell their votes for money, and it is pretty well known who those few are."

"The making of this manuscript change," said Walton, "for this editorial purpose, and with the use of the mild indirect language of Mr. Barry, 'There are not many senators or representatives who sell their vote for money,' could involve no hesitancy or second thought in a journalistically trained mind capable of recalling the more than vague rumors of the $5,000 bribe alleged to have been paid in the attempted defeat of the McFadden banking bill and the tawdry little affair of the deal surrounding the making of the sugar tariff of 1929.

Not Surprised at Decision.

"It is gratifying, in view of the aims of our publication, that the innocently intended remark of Mr. Barry could so effectively turn a searchlight upon the shadier activities of congress; and if the focusing of this attention does no more than bring out the apparently serious charges in the Dahlberg deal against certain senators, which some hoped would die in the lobby committee, perhaps even the time of the senators—the paid representatives of the American people—will not have been altogether wasted by the amusing floor show of Friday, Feb. 3, 1933, when these modern Neros began fiddling while our Rome burns.

"We are not surprised," said Walton, "at the action of the United States senate now convened in Washington for the purpose of dealing with such pressing problems as that of finding ways and means of reducing a federal deficit of nearly one billion dollars, of taking action for the relief of our stricken farm populace and the care of the country's millions of idle, in summarily removing from government office an employé of 14 years service and an American citizen because he has presumed to criticize the conduct of certain members of the legislative branch of the federal government.

Al Smith Silent.

"Such action is entirely consistent with the record of a body whose greatest contribution of service to its country is in giving away of the Philippines."

It was stated at the magazine offices that neither Alfred E. Smith, editor in chief, nor Frank A. Tichenor, publisher, would have any statement to make.

Senators Show to Their Own Satisfaction They Are Honest

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The brothers of the senate have shown to their satisfaction that they are honest for all that one of their flunkies can prove to the contrary, a matter for moderate rejoicing in a time of worry and trial. They were a little irritable about having to stand inspection, even though they were their own inspecting officers, but that is something that public officials ought to get used to and accept with good grace.

Periodic up-checking is customary in armies and banks, and uphappy experience has shown that it would be a desirable sanitary measure in the smaller units of government, such as cities, counties, and states. In New York the inspection was too long deferred, with the result that many public servants, not excluding judges of the honorable courts, were shown to have lost their sense of right and wrong.

Conceivably, even statesmen of national stature might prove susceptible to temptations, or, anyway, errors, of the same general sort, for they are politicians all, and most of them go to prep school in the wards and districts which are the scenes of the most violent and vulgar outrages.

Big Shots Badly Jostled.

It is always a public pleasure to learn that the boys in office are faithful to their trust, as the senators have certified themselves to be, and frequent assurances to this effect are little enough for a people to ask whose confidence in Big Shots has been badly jostled in the last few years. Of course, a guarantee that the brothers do not take bribes is something to be grateful for, but it is unfortunate that motives as well cannot be subjected to definite proof.

A statesman's prerogative to vote as he sees fit can run into great expense when large bodies of the citizens, on larceny bent, are out to peddle their ballots for pensions and grants.

If a statesman votes to pension off every American who has broken a leg falling down the stairs of a speakeasy on the ground that the poor fellows need the money, only his conscience knows whether he voted so in a spirit of the purest patriotism or merely to buy the support of all the Americans who have broken their legs falling down the stairs of speakeasies since 1920. There must be a lot of voters in this bloc.

There is no direct connection between the two incidents, but there was an interesting contrast between the solemn indignation of the brothers when one member of their backstairs force turned professional gossip and their chuckling joviality that afternoon a few weeks ago when another member of the hired help went tearing through the press gallery with a gun, wanting the life of a journalist who had done him, as he said, a grievous wrong.

Fixing to Shoot a Reporter.

On that other occasion, owing to similarity of names, the aroused underling was fixing to shoot a blameless reporter for the A. P. by mistake for a U. P. man, which would have been a cruel and unusual fate for an A. P. man, or vice versa, and was deterred only by excited shouts of "Wrong guy; wrong guy."

Excitement was rife for some time in the press coop, but when a committee of the press—even the journalists have committees in Washington—waited on Uncle Charlie Curtis, the Vice President of the U. S. A., Uncle Charlie's sense of humor went into action automatically.

"Do you mean to tell me," Uncle Charlie demanded, "that that fellow actually went up there and had a gun all ready and didn't shoot six of those newspaper men? Well, too bad, too bad. Because if he had I would have resigned my office to become the lawyer for the defense."

Right to Choose Own Lawyer.

My quotes, I wish to say, are second hand, but, as I have reason to believe, substantially correct. And, of course, Uncle Charlie was only joking, because obviously any one with Uncle Charlie's tenacious love of a paying job would not have resigned it that lightly. And, moreover, that might not have been the best thing for the defense. A man has his vice presidents thrust upon him by the boys in the back room at the national conventions, but he reserves the right to choose his own lawyer when he is up on a charge that he there and then did wantonly and with malice aforethought kill and slay.

CERMAK WARNS SONSTEBY MUST CUT HIS BUDGET

Says Council Won't O. K. Requests for Court.

Mayor Cermak yesterday declared that Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court, whose budget for 1933 has been attacked as wasteful by two of his associate judges, must pare his appropriations if he expects the city council to approve his requests.

Municipal Judges Edward B. Casey and Edgar A. Jonas announced Monday that they would protest the appropriations requested by the chief justice on the ground that they were grossly excessive. They pointed to the fact that the chief justice has asked a total of $76,000 in salaries for himself and thirteen assistants to run the office of the chief justice alone. They maintained that little work is done in the office.

Cites Slashes Elsewhere.

"The chief justice just wants to spend the money," the mayor said. "The Municipal court bailiff and clerk are cutting their budgets and the chief justice must do the same. It is not a case of what he asks, but what he is allowed by the council and finance committee. I am sure that he will not ask for an increase when he fully realizes the city's financial plight. We are reducing all appropriations below those of last year and Mr. Chief Justice will have to obey the appropriations."

Chief Justice Sonsteby yesterday defended the budget he has drafted. He declared that he had been enabled to eliminate congestion in the court which had meant two to three years' delay in jury trials before he entered office. Today, he said, cases are tried within a month after they are filed as a result of the extra office help he has hired.

He went over his office payroll, item by item, answering the criticisms of Judges Casey and Jonas.

Assistant Busy on Codification.

"Hiram T. Gilbert, the special assistant at $10,000 a year, helped make this court one of the leading courts in the country," he said. "He is now working on a complete codification of the rules which the local universities consider ideal. These rules are designed to simplify practice and speed up the trial of cases.

"The jobs of the assistant at $7,500 a year, three assistants at $6,000 a year, two assistants at $2,500 a year, and two court reporters at $3,500 a year are all statutory. The Municipal court act provides for them. The budget this year is also increased by the fact that the pension for former Chief Justice Olson has been raised from $3,000 to $7,500 a year."

Sees Discontent Over Posts.

"All my employés are on the job, working every day," said Chief Justice Sonsteby. "The real difficulty here seems to be that some judges want to be assigned to police courts and I have consistently refused to assign them."

Judges Casey and Jonas are at present assigned to jury courts in the city hall. The police courts are regarded as choice positions by the associate judges.

The chief justice denied that there has been less work in the Municipal court in the last year. He produced figures to show that, although civil cases disposed of have fallen to 171,453 in 1932 from the mark of 182,375 set in 1931, criminal cases have increased from the 1931 mark of 253,474 to 266,128 in 1932.

"Neither Judge Casey nor Judge Jonas has made any complaint to me about the budget, and I am at a loss to understand the motive for their statements," he concluded.

Proposes Increase in Fees.

During the day, the chief justice sent to Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, the draft of an ordinance proposing to increase the fees charged for starting civil actions in the Municipal court. Twenty-four of the thirty-six judges approved the ordinance, it was stated.

The schedule for increased fees was as follows:

	Present fee.	Recommended.
Claims not over $200	$2	$ 3
Claims from $200 to $500	5	6
Claims from $500 to $1,000	5	8
Claims from $1,000 to $2,000	8	10
Claims over $2,000	8	12

"An increase in the fees paid by litigants in the civil cases of the Municipal court is justified by the very large increase in the expense of carrying on the court's business over and above the receipts of the clerk and bailiff," the chief justice said.

Draws Immediate Protest.

Opposition to this increase was voiced immediately by a committee of the Chicago group of the Commercial Law league of America, consisting of Alfred J. Parker, Fred B. Hovey and Fred R. Rabold.

"Any increase in the cost and expense of litigation is not only unfair to litigants, but unfair to the public generally and will cut down the amount of litigation," the committee report said.

Statistics were presented by the committee showing that the present costs of suits in the other large cities of the United States are much smaller than in Chicago.

Gets Probation

Miss Alyce Urban, 19 years old, 1375 East 17th street, alleged charity racketeer, was placed on probation for one year yesterday by Judge Donald S. McKinlay. The action was taken on the promise of Miss Urban that she would aid federal agents in an investigation of others engaged in similar rackets. Miss Urban was employed by the American Veterans' Service Foundation until that organization ceased to exist. Then, the state charged, she typed a letter on stationery of the foundation authorizing her to solicit contributions. She is alleged to have obtained contributions from a number of gold coast residents.

ALDERMEN ORDER STREET CAR PLAN FOR EXPOSITION

City Club Asks Quick Assurance of Project.

The immediate necessity of providing street car transportation to A Century of Progress exposition grounds occupied the attention of city officials and civic associations yesterday. It was pointed out that the exposition will open in less than four months and that no plan for surface lines transportation has even been agreed upon by the city, south park board, surface lines, world's fair representatives, and others concerned.

Engineer Edward J. Noonan presented to the council railway terminals subcommittee a plan for street car service to the fair grounds. The committee thereupon directed Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt to proceed with plans and specifications for the erection of an elevated highway over the Illinois Central railroad tracks at Roosevelt road.

Cross Michigan at Roosevelt.

Engineer Noonan's plan calls for street cars to cross Michigan avenue at Roosevelt road and then to cross the railway tracks by ramps to the outer drive. The street car terminal would be in the Court of Honor, the area between the Field Museum and Soldiers field.

The south park board has thus far objected to street cars crossing Michigan avenue and the outer drive at grade, Engineer Noonan said, but he expressed a belief that these objections could be removed by arguments showing that no other plan is practical.

Mr. Noonan and others interested in the plan spoke before the City club at a noon luncheon. The club subsequently passed a resolution demanding that the surface lines, south park board, and city council get together at once to provide adequate transportation into the fair grounds

Calls Cars a Necessity.

Approximately 250,000 daily visitors are expected at the World's Fair, and street cars alone can provide transportation for this number, it was declared.

All interested in the transportation plan are agreed upon the proposal to route the street cars across the railroad tracks at Roosevelt road except the south park board commissioners, it was said. A meeting of the board will be called soon to consider the proposed plan.

200,000 DEFY HITLER'S RULE AT BERLIN RALLY

Socialists and Reds Are Urged to Unite.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Glowing red torches flooded the Lustgarten tonight when 200,000 persons participated in the greatest political demonstration in the history of Berlin. The rally was organized by the Socialists to protest against the Fascist rule of Adolf Hitler.

Orators pleaded that the Socialists and communists should bury their old feud and unite to form the biggest political party in Germany. A minute of silence was devoted "to the memory of the Socialists and their communist brothers who have been murdered by reactionaries."

Speakers Defy Government.

Defiance of the government was voiced by the speakers, who urged the Socialists to fight "with new and more militant methods to defend the civic rights of the masses and democratic freedom." The Socialist slogan in the campaign for the reichstag elections on March 5 was announced as "People of Germany, arise and defend your rights!"

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen and Alfred Hugenberg, the Nationalist leader, were the principal targets of the meeting. Otto Wels, a reichstag member, said Hindenburg "is the representative of heavy industry" and that "he cannot protect the workingman."

The huge crowd raised one long cry of "phoole" until the cry swelled and reverberated through adjacent streets which also were packed.

Use Dutch Radio Station.

The Socialists, who are complaining that their election campaign has been hindered by President Paul von Hindenburg's emergency decrees, have enlisted the assistance of the Dutch Socialist party. They have reached an agreement whereby the German Socialists will be allowed to speak over the Dutch radio broadcasting station at Hilversum in the period reserved for Holland's Socialists. The German Nationalists are demanding the government to take steps to prevent the broadcasts.

The capital was stirred earlier in the day by the shouting of anti-Semitic epithetis, which broke up a meeting of a reichstag standing committee.

Nazi Begins Disturbance.

Paul Loebe, who is not a Jew, called the standing committee session to order when Hans Frank, a Nazi, gave the chairman a tongue lashing. He said the National Socialist party considered it an insult to meet under the direction of Loebe. He added that Loebe had described Chancellor Hitler as "Adolf the Slovak" in an election campaign speech.

The attack created such a rumpus that Loebe was unable to speak and the Socialists and communists walked out. Frank, who is vice chairman of the committee, then called a rump session which the government ignored by not sending a representative. The Nazis contend that Loebe had shown himself unfit to preside over the committee meeting because of his alleged insult to the chancellor.

Ex-Kaiser to Stay in Holland.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—The report of a "steady stream of imperial baggage going out from Doorn" with the intimation it seemed to portend the approaching departure of the former imperial household to Germany proves after investigation to resemble the mouse which the mountain produced.

Hermine, the former kaiser's wife, is a patron of a certain relief organization bearing her name to which she is accustomed to send discarded clothing and household castoffs from time to time. A few days ago she filled several trunks with this material and forwarded it to Berlin through Prince Heinrich of Holland. A Socialist newspaper chided the Dutch prince consort for having become the "kaiser's porter." News agencies took up the matter and did the rest.

There is no stream of imperial baggage from Doorn nor is the departure of the former German imperial family to Germany either imminent or likely in the near future. Whatever few Nationalists might wish, the appearance of the former kaiser here under present conditions would strongly be resented by the National Socialists as a possible counter attraction to their own national hero, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, and therefore most unwelcome.

BRITISH HOUSE O. K.'S $20,000,000 LOAN TO AUSTRIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The house of commons, meeting for the first time since the Christmas recess, passed on second reading today the Austrian loan guarantee bill, which authorizes the British treasury to guarantee a part of the international loan to Austria agreed upon last July.

The British guarantee amounts to $20,000,000 (figured at par). The money is to be used by Austria to repay the Bank of England short term loan. The French are guaranteeing an equal amount. The Socialist opposition described the action as a sordid piece of international finance.

Declaring that the British government supported the proposal in the interest of Europe and Britain because the collapse of Austria would affect Europe generally, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, emphasized that the loan would not be made without the coöperation of other countries, including France.

ATLANTA TO DISPLAY CIVIL WAR ENGINE THAT WON A RACE

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 7.—[(AP)]—The city council has cleared the track for removing the historic locomotive "Texas" of civil war fame from a cellar in Grant park to an exhibition site in Atlanta's Union station.

Members voted to deliver the rusting engine to the Georgia public service commission which in turn plans to place it in custody of the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway for display in the depot.

Thus ended a civic controversy over possession of the "iron horse" that thwarted a civil war plot of federal troops to sever the confederate railway line connecting Chattanooga, Tenn., and Atlanta.

The Union troops took a sister engine, the "General," and raced it northward from Big Shanty, Ga., toward a bridge they had plotted to burn.

Confederates followed on the "Texas" and overtook the federals in time to save the bridge. Most of the plotters were captured and some were executed as spies.

Britain Proposes Europe Pay Debts to U. S. in Lump Sum

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—After the "big five" of the cabinet and Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, had completed a preliminary survey of the debt problem today, it was learned that suggestions that a lump sum between $1,250,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 be paid to the United States contemplated that this payment would cover all European war debts and not merely Britain's.

Such a lump sum, it was said in authoritative quarters, would mean scaling down the war debts in accordance with the reparations policy adopted at the Lausanne conference, which virtually ended reparations payments from Germany. The total European debt to the United States was funded at more than $11,000,000,000.

"Golden Silence" Policy.

Neville Chamberlain, Britain's most provocative spokesman on the debts problems, today in the house of commons publicly and officially embraced the policy of "golden silence" which Lindsay brought to Downing street from Washington on behalf of President Elect Roosevelt.

Queried in the commons as to the debts situation, the chancellor of the exchequer, replied:

"The terms of an invitation addressed to the British government to send a representative or representatives to Washington early in March, and the acceptance of that invitation, already has been published. I have no further statement to make."

Envoy to Resume Talks.

Sir Ronald will meet again with the cabinet's war debts subcommittee tomorrow.

The "big five" which is expected to figure prominently in the debts discussion today became a "big four" on account of attendance by Stanley Baldwin, president of the council, at a meeting of the privy council at Sandringham, where King George is remaining on account of influenza in London.

Lord Tyrrell, the ambassador to France, was back in London today, but he has not yet joined in the debt conversations. If he is needed to transmit French views he will be available. The idea of a united Franco-British front apparently fell through with the French default of its December payment to the United States.

Some of the members of the "big five" may return to Washington with Sir Ronald or go there shortly after as members of the debt commission. Besides MacDonald, Chamberlain, and Baldwin, they are Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, and Sir John Simon, foreign secretary.

FASCIST 'BAD BOY' WHO ATTACKED POPE, PARDONED

ROME, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Emilio Settimelli, newspaper director known as the "bad boy of the Fascist party" because of his frequent polemics, has made peace with Premier Mussolini and been reinstated in the party. He was arrested and suspended from the party in 1931 during an Italian-Vatican clash because he wrote a bitter article urging the "un-Vaticanizing" of the Vatican and suggested that the pope, whom he called an Italian renegade, should be arrested.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne—member of one of Chicago's most distinguished families. One of her chief interests is the Woman's Exchange, of which she is president. She entertains beautifully and simply... and is very modest about her talents and capabilities.

Beautiful . . talented . . chic, Mrs. Thorne has long been an outstanding personality in Chicago society. A more appropriate setting for such beauty as hers could not be found than her own lovely apartment on Lake Shore Drive. She has herself decorated and furnished it, and it at once reveals her taste and artistry.

"Much of the beauty of my home is safeguarded by the purity and mildness of American Family Flakes," she says with frankness. "You'd really be amazed at the number of things we entrust to its gentle suds—from the daintiest wisp of lace and silk to the sturdiest of sheets and blankets. It's simply marvelous the way everything comes out unfaded and fresh and clean.

"It's wonderful, too, how long chiffon hosiery and dainty lingerie last when laundered in these pure flakes—a very real economy!"

What soap is protecting your clothes? If you are entrusting them to cheapened soap flakes, look out for your colors and fabrics! For cheapened flakes—so often laden with free lye—may ruin clothes worth many dollars, in a single washing!

Women noted for skillful management take no chances. They insist on American Family Flakes. They say it saves time. And it does! Because it was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region . . makes double the suds. They say it saves money. And it does! Because it permits longer wear from all things washable. Use it freely and fearlessly. You'll find that it's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes.

SITE AND MONEY AVAILABLE FOR BARGE TERMINAL

Port Commission Asks for Speedy Legislation.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A northern barge terminal for the Illinois waterway near the turning basin at old Bridgeport is to be had for the mere asking by the general assembly, so the legislators at Springfield were informed last night in a report by the Chicago regional port commission. A fund of $200,000 from the Santa Fe and Illinois Central railroads to build a terminal has become available through the settlement a few years ago of the "90 foot strip" cases involving old Illinois and Michigan canal lands—enough to provide adequate facilities for some time.

Through the settlement the state acquired a 21 acre terminal site at the junction of the sanitary canal and the Chicago river at South Damen avenue, formerly Robey street. The site includes a grain elevator of a million bushels' capacity, now owned by the state, and it is improved with deep water slips, docks, railroad tracks connecting with all trunk lines. Chicago's produce terminal and fruit auction house are at the spot, and the port commission experts have pronounced it an ideal site.

Authorizing Legislation Needed.

All that is needed now to establish the waterway terminal, the port commission sets forth, is passage by the legislature of a measure empowering the state division of waterways to proceed to spend the $200,000 fund due from the railroads as part of the canal land trade.

Time is pressing if shippers are to be served by the new Illinois waterway, the commission tells the legislators. The channel from Joliet to Utica, on which $27,500,000 has been spent, is expected to be ready for barge traffic in March, as soon as the ice is out and the channel markers can be set.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley has just announced a formal opening of the new passage between the great lakes and the Gulf of Mexico in June in connection with the opening of A Century of Progress exposition. Establishment of a terminal the report stresses as an urgent matter. In the special session of the legislature last year a bill covering the subject passed the senate and got as far as third reading in the house. But before it went to a vote the assembly adjourned.

Sees No Reason for Delay.

"There is no apparent logical reason why legislation of this order should not be passed," says the report.

"No expenditure of state funds is required; merely authority to use funds supplied by the railroads which must be used, under the terms of the agreement, only for this purpose."

The terminal matter is one of several high lights in a report transmitted yesterday to the legislatures of Indiana and Illinois by the regional port commission. This is composed of E. M. Antrim, Floyd L. Bateman, John T. Pirie, Walter J. Riley, William R. Dawes, president; Rufus W. Putnam, director; James C. Snort, assistant.

In 1931 twin bills were passed by the Illinois and Indiana legislatures asking the port commission to investigate the feasibility of establishing a permanent interstate port authority for the metropolitan region.

Favors Two State Compact.

Following the precedent set in the creation of the Port of New York authority and the Delaware river joint commission, the commission advocates a compact between the states of Illinois and Indiana.

Chief among its recommendations are the following:

1. Creation of a body known as the interstate port authority of Illinois and Indiana. This should be accomplished by compact between the two states confirmed by congress. It would apply to the metropolitan district embraced by the Lake Michigan shore line between Waukegan, Ill., and Michigan City, Ind.

2. Jurisdiction of the proposed port authority should apply to the public waters of both states lying between the Illinois-Wisconsin state boundary and the Indiana-Michigan state boundary.

3. The port authority would consist of five members: the director of the Illinois department of purchases and construction, the director of the Indiana department of conservation, an additional member from each state appointed by the governor, and a chairman to be appointed by concurrence of the governors of both states.

4. Establishment of an advisory board of eight members, four appointed by the governor of each state to represent the business interests involved in port affairs.

ALLOWS $36,000 FOR SUPPORT OF GIRL WHO'S 7

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—It may be difficult, but Lucy Cotton Thomas, 7, will have to get along henceforth on $36,000 a year, instead of the $45,600 her mother deems necessary, Surrogate James A. Delahanty so decided today.

Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas argued that since her own expenses would amount to $20,000 this year, she would be unable to help out her youthful heiress daughter, except in a very small way.

In an affidavit Mrs. Cotton itemized the poor little girl's "absolutely necessary" expenditures per month for 1933 as follows:

Rent for Fifth avenue apartment, $800; chauffeur, maid service, and incidentals, $350; governess, $125; food for child, mother, and servants, $600; school (tuition and incidentals), $50; auto storage and garage, $150; laundry for household, $50; electricity and telephone, $75; gifts and gratuities to servants and apartment house employés, $25; furnishings, repairs, and incidental expenses of maintaining apartment, $700; travel, $100; insurance, storage, and cartage, $75, and miscellaneous, including French, music, and dancing lessons, books, flowers, and medical aid expenses, $400.

BRITISH DEPORT YANK TODAY FOR DRAKE FRAUD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Riding on a first class ticket paid for out of his own pocket, Oscar Hartzell, charged by American consular officials with participation in a British estate racket, will be deported to the United States tomorrow as an undesirable alien aboard the liner Champlain. He has resided in England for 10 years.

The state department is demonstrating a lively interest in the homecoming of Hartzell, who claims to be a native of Monmouth, Ill. Several county prosecutors in the middle west are also interested, having swamped the consulate with requests as to his movements.

Hartzell will be taken to Plymouth under an escort provided by the home office. The police officers will remain with him until he boards the liner. The American has been under surveillance of Scotland Yard for the last three years for representing himself to American investors as owner of the estate of Sir Francis Drake.

The others are: Argentina, Belgium, Brazil China, Cuba, Dominican Republic Ecuador, France, Guatemala, Honduras, India [ten states], Irish Free State, Italy, Japan, Rumania, Turkey Egypt and Morocco.

LEAS EXTRADITED FROM TENNESSEE BY NO. CAROLINA

Must Serve Sentence for Million Bank Fraud.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Former United States Senator Luke Lea and Luke Lea Jr., for whom Gov. Hill McAlister today issued a fugitive warrant, were in the little mountain town of Jamestown tonight while their counsel prepared to resist through habeas corpus proceedings their removal to North Carolina, where they stand convicted of bank law violations.

Their whereabouts surrounded by secrecy for almost two weeks, the Nashville newspaper publisher and his son appeared in a Jamestown hotel shortly after their extradition had been ordered, and two hours later a petition for a writ of habeas corpus had been presented to Circuit Judge Henry B. Brown at Oneida.

Judge Declines to Act.

Judge Brown declined to act on the petition because of technical defects, but said he expected to receive another application later.

Talking by telephone from Jamestown, Luke Lea Jr. said: "We have nothing to say yet."

The Leas were not in custody, and Attorney General Roy Beeler said the governor's warrant authorized their arrest only by Sheriff Laurence E. Brown or Deputy Sheriff Frank Lakey of Buncombe county, North Carolina, named as agents.

The warrant specifies that the defendants are not to be removed from Tennessee until 24 hours after their arrest. This provision was made at the request of the Leas' counsel, who asked for time in which to begin habeas corpus action.

Lea, long a dominant figure in Tennessee politics and leader of an unofficial expedition of A. E. F. officers that attempted to kidnap the former German kaiser from Holland shortly after the armistice, faces a prison sentence of six to ten years following conviction at Asheville, N. C., in 1931 of conspiracy to defraud the now defunct Central Bank and Trust company of more than $1,000,000.

Statement by Governor.

His son was sentenced to pay $25,000 in fines and costs or serve two to six years. Wallace B. Davis, president of the Central bank and a co-defendant with the Leas, started serving his sentence several weeks ago.

Gov. McAlister, in a long prepared statement in which he parenthetically called attention to the Leas' failure to appear in person at the extradition hearing last week, denied their contentions that the indictment against them was invalid and that they are not fugitives from North Carolina.

"Furthermore, there is no escape from the conclusion that each of these defendants, as a matter of fact, is a fugitive from justice from the state of North Carolina," the governor said.

"I, therefore, recognize the requisition of the governor of North Carolina and request the attorney general of Tennessee to prepare the warrant."

RICHEY RENTS OFFICE FOR PRESIDENT IN HURLEY'S BUILDING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Lawrence Richey, a White House secretary and long associated with President Hoover, has taken a suite of four offices in the Shoreham building here from March 4 which it is reported Mr. Hoover will use when he returns to Washington a year or so after leaving the White House.

The Shoreham building, on the site of the old Shorsham hotel, is owned by Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, and is to be a Republican center for the next four years. Vice President Curtis has taken a three room suite on the same floor with the Hoover-Richey offices. Hurley himself will have a 16 room suite in the same building, law offices to be shared by a law partner not yet named.

Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, has moved his law offices over to this Republican sanctuary.

Ray Benjamin, who came here from California to advise Mr. Hoover politically, is also moving his law offices to the same building. Ted Clark, the late Calvin Coolidge's secretary representing Louis K. Liggett, is quartered in the building, as are Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt and Nugent Dodds, assistant attorney general.

1931 CHICAGO TAX RATE ESTIMATED AT $7.26 A $100

Total City Bill Will Be Under 1930.

an equalization factor of 37 per cent has been applied to the appraised value to determine the tax value.

The county clerk yesterday issued the tax books for the country townships of New Trier and Oak Park to the country town tax collectors. The collectors prepare and send out their own bills, and the first of these should be in the mails within the next three days.

Oak Park Rates Up.

The rates for Oak Park jumped from $5.50 in 1930 to $6.31 in 1931. Those in New Trier township are difficult to calculate because of the multiplicity of school districts within that area. Other country town books will be turned over to collectors during this week, Mr. Sweitzer said.

The first of the city tax bills are expected to be in the mails by next Monday and the last of these by the following week end. For 1931 the real estate bills will be collected in two installments. For the first of these the penalty date has been set at March 1 and for the second at July 1. The board of tax appeals which reviewed the personal property assessment will not review real estate assessed valuations until after the first bills have been sent out.

Any revisions in the valuations will be reflected in the bills for the second installment.

HORNER PUSHES PLAN FOR WEST SIDE SPEEDWAY

Orders Prompt Decision on Proposal.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner this afternoon cut red tape that might delay elevated highway construction in Chicago another two years. With his act today it is possible, if not probable, that work on urban express routes will begin shortly after July 1.

Robert Kingery, acting director of the department of public works, was instructed with Ernest Lieberman, chief highway engineer, to communicate with Mayor Cermak and with President Whealan of the Cook county board to arrange a prompt decision on a construction program in Chicago.

Under routine procedure as recommended by the state road advisory commission, the present session of the legislature would create such a trigovernment board to prepare a metropolitan road program. The act creating the board would become effective on July 1 and thereafter the city, county and state would get together.

Prompt Action Necessary.

"If we can agree upon a program promptly," said Mr. Kingery, "the present session of the legislature can include the new plans for metropolitan construction in its biennium appropriation bill. Otherwise such appropriations will be left to the 1935 general assembly."

The state advisory commission after eighteen months' study has recommended that the state allocate 1 cent of the gasoline tax to municipal construction, dividing the work among cities in proportion to population. This would give Chicago $5,000,000 a year. Part of the city's wheel tax and of the county's gas tax revenue might also be used.

The council traffic committee, headed by Ald. John Massen, has reported on a twenty months' exhaustive traffic survey, recommending the progressive construction of three superhighways radiating from the loop, with elevated structures through the districts of high property values and with priority given to the west side project as the one most urgently needed.

Project Well Studied.

"There has been so much preliminary study," said Mr. Kingery, "that the state, county, and city should have little difficulty in reaching an agreement to present to the general assembly for approval and for enabling appropriations."

"At the same time," said Gov. Horner, "a program can be presented that will protect the road interests of downstate. My chief concern is the one of finances. Money is needed for relief of destitution. Relief cannot be denied. If a sales tax is not enacted we may have to dip into the road funds."

George Barton, director of the Chicago Motor club, was present at the interview to urge prompt action on the elevated projects. Benjamin Alschuler of Aurora, representing the Fox Valley Improvement federation, was to have attended, but was blocked by snow. He telephoned that his organization wished to throw its support behind the move for a rapid completion of express motor routes through Chicago's west side.

WITNESS SAYS GUY MET WANDERWELL; SHOOTING FOLLOWED

Long Beach, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A terse description of how William J. Guy, youthful adventurer, was conducted to "Captain" Walter Wanderwell shortly before the professional globe trotter was shot to death, was related late today by a state witness at Guy's murder trial.

The witness was Cuthbert Wills, engineer of Wanderwell's yacht "Carma," which was about to sail on a world cruise with an expense sharing crew of seven men and eight women when Wanderwell was killed aboard the craft last Dec. 5.

Wills, a small man of military bearing, speaking with sharp, quick emphasis, said he conducted Guy to Wanderwell and that hardly more than 10 minutes later Wanderwell was found dead, and Guy was missing.

For nearly forty minutes, Wills told a terse, thrilling story of circumstances surrounding the killing.

He said the last time he saw Wanderwell alive was about 8 p. m. the night of the slaying. He talked with Wanderwell about 30 minutes in the galley of the Carma, he said.

Wills testified he went to the mess hall to join Miss Mary Parks, smiling brunette of East Saugus, Mass., Miss Marian Smith of Rockmart, Ga., and Edmund Zeranski, Hollywood photographer, members of the Carma "crew."

Wanderwell, said Wills, went to his cabin to retire.

"The three young people there were writing and playing the phonograph," Wills said, "and I sat down, just to think.

"Mr. Guy came to the porthole and asked for Capt. Wanderwell."

"How long was that after you entered the mess hall?" asked Prosecutor Clarence Hunt.

"About three to five minutes."

Like Miss Smith and Zeranski, other witnesses who have named Guy as the caller, Wills walked across the court room and laid his hand on Guy's shoulder to identify him.

URUGUAY REVOLT LOOMS; GATHER MEN AND ARMS

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Newspapers today predicted a rebellion seeking certain constitutional reforms would begin on Feb. 15. This republic, which has been free of uprisings since 1904 and is considered one of the most peaceful in South America, has apparently taken few precautions against the reported revolt.

It has been reported several times that Nepomuceno Saravia, a northern regional political leader, is gathering men and arms near the Brazilian border, ostensibly for a subversive movement.

Those said to favor a change are quoted as saying that Uruguay has too many governmental units and that governmental monopolies of insurance, cement, petroleum, and the like aggravate a situation that could be simplified and made less burdensome to taxpayers. President Terra also maintains that either the presidency or the administrative council, whose functions are much alike, should be eliminated.

Letters of administration for the $5,000 estate of Mrs. Leola Raymun, 35 years old, who was killed in a loop hotel last week, were issued yesterday to Joseph Flanagan, 4730 Winthrop avenue, who claims to be her legal husband. He charged that his wife married Raymun, who is being held on a charge of slaying her, without obtaining a divorce from Flanagan.

The original charges, consisting of larceny and embezzlement, were dismissed, after which the old bail of $50,000 was discontinued. Insull then went through the process of being rearrested. He deposited $55,000 as a new bail bond.

ABORT that Cold

Sometimes you get colds that just hang-on for days. That is because the remedy used does not drive the cold symptoms from the system. Try cold abortion and you'll find those stubborn colds broken-up and gone within a few hours. The lemon juice treatment never fails, but you must have the Cold Compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allay any fever. VAPEX GETS TO SEAT OF COLDS

PENETRATES TO BREATHING-PASSAGES AT FIRST DEEP BREATH

Many preparations are sold today to relieve head-colds. Common sense tells you that breathing relief is more natural than forcing liquids and salves into the nasal passages. Your nose is intended for breathing. It's certainly safer to use a delightful inhalant like Vapex.

As a matter of fact, Vapex is likely to be more effective. For breathing the vapor penetrates to the seat of a cold . . . to the breathing-passages. And not only clears your head . . . stops sniffling . . . and refreshes you, but also kills germs present during a head-cold.

The remarkable germ-killing power of the Vapex vapor has been scientifically proved by a prominent medical research laboratory. Time after time, vapor from a single drop of Vapex killed dense colonies of bacteria. In similar tests, inhalants commonly substituted for Vapex showed little effect.

Insist on V-A-P-E-X at your druggist's. Millions of people breathe it for colds. It's safe . . . it's pleasant . . . it's easy to use! There are months of relief in each bottle for all the family.

PETITTI, RANIERI KIDNAPER'S KIN, SHOT TO DEATH

Called Fourth Victim of Alcohol Feud.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Douglas Johnson, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary; Henry Murray, robbery, sentenced to one year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Ernest Cooper and Jettie Murray, robbery, sentenced to one to ten years in Pontiac reformatory; Lawrence Lazurus, larceny, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary; Joseph Estelle, larceny, sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary; Francis W. Keefe, burglary, sentenced to one to ten years in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Rudolph F. Desort.

John Kuffel, larceny, sentenced to one to twenty years in Pontiac reformatory; Martin Chukak and John Smith, burglary, sentenced to one year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Sigmond Zurawski, larceny, sentenced to one year in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Harry A. Lewis.

FRED PETITTI.

Fred Petitti, 35 years old, once suspected of the murder of a witness in the Ranieri kidnaping case, was shot to death yesterday in a poolroom at 930 Taylor street. Joseph Decongno, who was shoveling snow from the walk of a neighboring merchant, heard five shots and saw several men run from the poolroom and speed away in an automobile parked at the curb. He went to the place and found Petitti's body on the floor. The poolroom manager, known only as "Chinchella," was not in the place and has not been found by police.

Angelo Petitti, brother of the slain man, is serving 25 years in the penitentiary for the kidnaping of Billy Ranieri in 1928. The police, however, expressed doubt that the slaying had any connection with the notorious kidnaping case. They expressed the belief that Petitti was slain in an outbreak of an alcohol war that previously had cost the lives of three other men.

All Connected with Same Store.

The other victims, police said, were "Fat Toney" Jerfita, Joseph Provenzano, and John Liberto, alcohol peddlers who were shot to death in gangland fashion at different times. The connecting thread in all three killings, police said, was the fact that all had been connected with a malt and hop store at 7410 West Grand avenue. Police learned that Petitti once had been a part owner of the establishment.

By questioning the victim's brother, Joseph Petitti, the police learned that Petitti had been in the alcohol business for more than a year. Authorities believed that Petitti was killed in retaliation for the death of one or more of the other three alky peddlers.

First Slaying on Oct. 27.

The body of Jerfita was found Oct. 27 in an automobile in Leyden township, northwest of Chicago. Provenzano was dragged from his automobile at 73d and Diversey avenues, Elmwood Park, and shot to death by two men wearing police stars on Dec. 1. A few hours later on the same day Liberto was found shot to death at 73d and Fullerton avenue, Elmwood Park.

Petitti gained notoriety in the Ranieri case when Ole Scully, star witness for the state, was shot to death on the day the trial started. Four gunmen entered a saloon at 1421 Taylor street, shot and killed Scully, and beat three other men with baseball bats. Petitti was arrested, but furnished an alibi that won his freedom.

William Ranieri, then 10 years old, was kidnaped Sept. 5, 1928, and released two weeks later unharmed, although the $60,000 ransom demanded had not been paid. He is a son of A. Frank Ranieri, a sewer contractor.

Lenore Ulric's Husband Held on Girl's Charges

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Sidney Blackmer, actor and husband of Lenore Ulric, was arrested today on a charge sworn by Bernice Bach, 17 year old motion picture extra. The girl, who also has been known as Patricia Morton, told Policewoman Lillian Twomey she had met Blackmer shortly before Christmas and been intimate with him for several weeks. Blackmer indignantly denied the charges. He said he knew the girl only casually and never had seen her alone anywhere. The girl was removed to juvenile hall under care of a physician and Blackmer was taken to city jail. A report by one policeman described Miss Bach as a 'movie struck girl" and suggested a thorough investigation in justice to Blackmer.

SOVIET PEASANT ARMY MARCHES 'TO THE FORESTS'

Drafted to Help Lumber Camps "Catch Up."

ARCHANGEL, Russia, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Thousands of peasants drafted for work in the lumber camps of the north have set out on "Stalin's march to the forests" to help the regular lumber camp hands catch up with the timber production scheduled in the second five-year-plan.

Villages have been stripped of every able-bodied man and the necessary normal activities must be carried on by women and children for the next month.

Prince's Nephew Denied Passport.

MOSCOW, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A dispatch from Kharkov today implied in effect that a nephew of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky, prominent member of the old nobility, will be refused a passport entitling him to live and work there or in any other large city of Russia, because of his family background.

The case is typical of the situation facing most of the remnants of the old upper classes under the new passport requirements. It was revealed today in the newspapers under a headline: "Class enemies reaching out for soviet passports."

The story mentioned casually that the prince's nephew, who is employed at an aviation factory in Kharkov, "tried to get a passport." The story did not mention whether the passport had been refused, but the fact that he was cited publicly with kulaks and similar anti-social elements made the act of the refusal obvious.

Without a passport he not only cannot continue in his present job but he will not be permitted to live in any of the eight large cities of Russia.

MODERN PORTIA WEDS CLIENT TO SAVE HIM FROM SHYLOCK'S KNIFE

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Portia loved her client, and from her love sprang the trump that saved him from Shylock's knife.

So, too, did Madeline De Fina, lawyer, save Frank Dello today in the Brooklyn court of Judge Franklin Taylor.

Dello, 33, was charged with forgery in the first degree, larceny in the second degree; complainant, the Bank of America; sum involved, $542.

Attorney De Fina moved the court that the complaint be dismissed because restitution had been made. The court refused.

Attorney De Fina dropped her eyes, blushed.

"If the court please," she said, "I married my client, secretly, six months ago."

The trump worked. Said the court: "As a belated wedding gift I will accept a lesser plea, suspend sentence and put the prisoner in your custody for life."

Dello pleaded guilty to petty larceny.

WOMAN JUROR CONTEMPT CASE UP TO HIGH COURT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Genevieve A. Clark, who neglected to reveal that the defendant in a trial in which she served as a juror was her former employer, today completed a long fight to escape sentence for contempt of court.

The trial involved was that of W. B. Foshay and others at St. Paul on charges of using the mails to defraud. Mrs. Clark held out against conviction and the result was a 11 to 1 disagreement.

When it became known that she had once worked for Foshay contempt proceedings were instituted. She was found guilty and sentenced to a $1,000 fine and six months in jail. The Circuit Court of Appeals held that the court could not have imposed both fine and jail term and was confined to one or the other.

Carrying the case to the Supreme court her counsel, Sugure Ueland, contended Mrs. Clark truthfully had answered all questions put by the court before becoming a member of the jury. Chief Justice Hughes and other members of the court seemed to attach importance today to the government's charge that Mrs. Clark had willfully withheld information she should have given and had misled the court in declaring she had an open mind to try the Foshay case.

The court took the case under advisement.

LENORE ULRIC TAXED ON $11,129 USED TO ENTERTAIN CRITICS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Lenore Ulric, star of Lulu Belle, Mima and Pagan Lady, today lost a case before the United States board of tax appeal in which she sought the right to deduct from her taxable income $11,129 spent entertaining newspaper critics and others.

LENORE ULRIC.

Miss Ulric argued that she should be allowed to deduct the amounts spent for entertainment as ordinary and necessary business expense. In her business, her argument maintained, it was important that she be "favorably known" by critics, managers, producers and others.

DUTCH AIR FORCE JOINS CHASE OF "RUNAWAY" SHIP

Report Mutineers Off Isle Near Sumatra.

BATAVIA, Java, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The runaway Dutch battleship De Zeven Provincien was understood tonight to be nearing the island of Siberut, 100 miles from the west coast of Sumatra, and the intentions of the mutinous native crew aboard were uncertain. The vessel previously had been reported heading for the naval base at Sourabaya, Java.

Meanwhile additional naval units were being mobilized to effect the capture. The cruiser Java and the destroyers Evertsen and Piet Nein were fueling at Sourabaya preparatory for a 1,200 mile dash for the vessel and air units were being concentrated at Serang in western Java. Inasmuch as the battleship carries no anti-aircraft guns the authorities were hopeful that an attack from the air might succeed.

8 Officers Kidnaped.

The 400 mutinous Javanese sailors kidnaped eight of their Dutch officers and put out to sea with the ship from Oleleh, Sumatra, early Sunday while the commander and some of the petty officers were ashore. They were disgruntled because of a wage cut.

The commander at once commandeered the government vessel Aldebaran and set out in pursuit, but later changed to the government steamer Eridanus when the Aldebaran began to run short of fuel.

Two submarines and a mine layer, Goudon Leeun, joined in the chase.

Wireless messages from the mutinous sailors have said that they do not intend violence, that no one on board has been injured and that they will eventually surrender the ship to its commander a day before reaching Sourabaya.

Dutch to Use Force.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, Feb. 7.—L. N. Deckers, Dutch minister of defense, indicated in parliament today that a state of war would soon be proclaimed in the Dutch East Indies in connection with the mutiny of Javanese sailors who sailed away Sunday with the battleship De Zeven Provincien.

"There is no question of negotiating with the mutineers," Deckers asserted. "If they do not surrender force will be used. Radical measures also will be taken against pernicious influences which have incited the revolt."

The government has taken extensive military precautions in Dutch naval ports, it was announced, to curb the activities of Communist agitators who have been inciting the sailors to rebellion.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKS ALL TO HELP MEET PROBLEMS OF REPEAL

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in an interview in the Yale Daily News, undergraduate publication, today urged Americans, "both young and old," to coöperate "in a program to meet the problems repeal will bring forth."

She especially urged women to take an interest in the matter.

"Although I am a dry, I am for repeal because I am not satisfied with conditions as they are," the next first lady was quoted as saying. "The thing has not been successful.

"But we are a nation that leans to extremes. Just as in 1920 we plunged to the limit as prohibition got under way, so if repeal goes through we are in danger of going to the other extreme. It is a serious problem and I would especially like to see the women of the nation really take an interest in the matter. I believe, too, that we must all, both young and old, cooperate in a program to meet the problems repeal will bring forth."

The article quotes Mrs. Roosevelt as describing herself as "an incurable optimist" on present day problems.

FOUR WITNESSES HEARD AT TRIAL OF ABORTIONIST

Four state witnesses testified yesterday against Armin L. Kreutzer, 44 years old, a veterinarian, who is on trial before Judge Ralph Dady in Waukegan on a charge of abortion.

Kreutzer is accused of causing the death of Mrs. Anna Balis, 32 years old, of Cudahy, Wis. She underwent an illegal operation on Nov. 9, allegedly in the Harbor View Maternity home maintained by the defendant at Winthrop Harbor, Lake county. She died Dec. 16 in a Milwaukee hospital.

Catherine Mogay, employed in the maternity home as a nurse, testified that Mrs. Balis had been a patient there. Edward G. Miner, assistant district attorney of Milwaukee county, who aided in the raid on the home, testified that Kreutzer had told him that he had operated upon Mrs. Balis for a tumor. Dr. Felix Baur, Milwaukee physician, said that the Cudahy woman had died from the effects of an abortion. John Balis, the husband, also took the witness stand.

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason, who has not indicated what penalty he will ask the jury to impose, scored a point when he introduced documentary evidence showing Kreutzer had served eighteen months in Milwaukee jail for performing an abortion.

Dry, tasteless fish results from a careless application of heat. Fish that's moist and tender has had an even, steady heat—a little at a time—on both sides. You couldn't get that with a forest fire!

An uneven application of heat ruins food in the cooking . . . ruins coffee in the roasting.

The reason Hills Bros. Coffee has such perfect flavor and is always uniform is because of Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' exclusive process. As the blend flows through the roasters evenly, continuously—a little at a time—unvarying heat roasts each berry exactly alike.

The ordinary method of roasting coffee, in large batches, does not produce uniform flavor. For, in spite of watchful care, it is virtually impossible to roast each batch to the same degree. Naturally there is variation in flavor.

One cup of Hills Bros. Coffee will convince you of the importance of Controlled Roasting. No other coffee has such fragrant aroma—such delicious flavor. And every pound you buy has the same appetizing goodness. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today, by name, and see for yourself. Look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

FRESH ALWAYS!

The vacuum process of packing coffee, originated by Hills Bros. in 1900, is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness — the air is removed from the can and kept out. There is no magic about a vacuum can — it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh. No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it fresh always!

GROUND RIGHT TO TASTE RIGHT

No coffee, however good, can be uniform in taste unless uniformly roasted and uniformly ground. Hills Bros.' exclusive, continuous process — Controlled Roasting — and correct granulation insure this uniformity. Hills Bros.' granulation will give best results by the drip process or any other method.

ASSAILS STATE'S TURNING CASH TO CATHOLIC AGENCY

Constitution Is Violated, Bishop Stewart Says.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal church yesterday assailed the policy adopted two months ago by the Illinois relief commission which provides that state funds be given to a religious organization for distribution among its own needy. The issue was raised by the bishop in his annual charge to the 96th convention of the diocese of Chicago in session yesterday and today at St. Luke's pro cathedral, Evanston.

Bishop Stewart's denunciation was aimed at the commission's allocation of state relief funds to the Catholic charities, an action approved by the county board. He referred to protests against that policy sent to the county board by official spokesmen of the Methodist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Episcopal churches as well as by the Chicago Church federation.

Public Control for Public Funds.

The new policy which has aroused these churchmen also provides that the Salvation Army, the United Charities, and the Jewish Charities be returned to their original status as social service agencies and not as agencies of public relief. Under the 1931 joint emergency relief the existing charities such as the Salvation Army and the United Charities were used as agents for the distribution of funds which then were collected from private donors. But when state funds were required it was planned that distribution should only be made through means established by some form of legislative action and under public control.

It was thus provided that the social service agencies, such as the United and Jewish Charities, should return to their welfare fields and operate only on contributed funds such as those raised by the Emergency Welfare fund.

The state relief commission suggested that $150,000 in public funds be allocated to the Catholic charities for February. In addition to this the Emergency Welfare fund allotted $83,000 additional for the welfare work of the Catholic charities.

Calls Policy Discriminatory.

"This policy I believe to be discriminatory and unsound," said Bishop Stewart in his charge to his clergy. "I believe it to be in controvention of the principle of religious liberty guaranteed to us all by the constitution. I believe that relief provided by state funds should be distributed regardless of the religious affiliation of the recipient. I demand that all Episcopal welfare work shall be undertaken by our diocesan institutions without regard to the religious faith of those who need whatever we may offer. In this protest I have full approval of Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois relief commission."

After reviewing the work of the diocese during the last year, which shows a marked increase in membership and general activities, the bishop turned his attention to the depression and its effect on the church.

"When markets fall off and production is diminished salesmen are dismissed and branches are closed," he said. "But in these days the church's market has not fallen off; it has increased. There is more demand for the church than ever. It is her hour of conspicuous service; she needs every salesman she has and more branch houses than ever."

Fights Sale of Jewelry by Beatrice Kirk's Father

Arthur Wick, trustee in bankruptcy for the estate of Beatrice Kirk, society girl and daughter of Walter R. Kirk, wealthy soap manufacturer, yesterday filed a petition asking for a restraining order against Miss Kirk's father. The petition seeks to enjoin the manufacturer from selling a ring and a watch sold to him by his daughter. The petition alleges that the jewelry belongs to the bankrupt estate and the proceeds of their sale should go to the general creditors. Garfield Charles, referee in bankruptcy, will hear arguments on the motion Saturday.

FRAUD CHARGES HIT MICHIGAN LEGION AGENT

Charity Goods Sale Is Charged by Jury.

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Conspiracy to obtain from the government war supplies which had been set aside for charitable organizations and to sell them at a profit was charged today against two men. They are Robert J. Byers, welfare officer and adjutant of the Michigan department of the American Legion, and George S. Krieger, New York merchant.

The indictments were returned by the federal grand jury. Department of justice investigators had been working on the case for five months.

Michigan Provides Cash.

United States Attorney George Z. Medalie said the money with which the supplies were purchased from the government was put up by the state of Michigan.

In October, 1931, the war department made large quantities of supplies available for charity on the understanding that they were not to be resold. This was in line with a government policy not to dump merchandise on the market to the detriment of private enterprise.

"Byers," Medalie said, "was presented to the war department as representing the welfare organizations of the state of Michigan by Gov. Bruckner of Michigan. On such representation the war department made the sales to Byers."

Hears Pact Is Broken.

"Shortly after the delivery of the merchandise to Byers, the war department was informed that the certificate filed by Byers that the goods would be given away and not resold was not being complied with, and the war department requested the department of justice to commence an immediate investigation," Medalie explained.

Medalie said Byers paid $40,000 for the goods purchased at a price reduction 50 per cent under what the government originally paid for them. He said that reduction was granted after a hearing held by the military affairs committee of the house of representatives "whereat the plight of the needy was pictured to the committee by various members of the American Legion."

Names Alleged Buyers.

The prosecutor said contracts for the purchase of some of the goods were drawn up with a number of English firms and with Montgomery Ward & Co., whose representatives visited a warehouse in Detroit, examined the merchandise and sorted it for shipment.

Medalie said 23,000 dozen pairs of gloves were taken from a Detroit warehouse and sold to a concern in London; 4,000 army overcoats were sold and shipped to South Africa, and 17,000 dozen suits of underwear were marketed in New York City at prices far in excess of those paid to the war department.

SCHOOL AND CITY PAY DAY AWAITS WARRANT REPORT

A pay day for city and school employes this week was regarded as likely yesterday in the city hall, although no announcement was made by City Controller Szymczak. The controller said no announcement would be made until information has been received from the Dewey tax warrants sales committee on the probability of selling the $42,000,000 worth of warrants, which they are asking large taxpayers to purchase. If the committee is confident that it can sell the warrants the money for the two weeks' pay roll —approximately $4,500,000—would be advanced from the city's aggregate of funds in anticipation of obtaining money from the Dewey committee sales.

News of the Dewey committee's campaign will be found in the Market section.

Prof. Piccard to Lecture Here on Stratosphere

Prof. Auguste Piccard, Swiss scientist, will describe his balloon flights into the stratosphere in a lecture March 7 in Mandel hall at the University of Chicago, it was announced yesterday. Prof. Arthur H. Compton, University of Chicago, physicist and winner of the Nobel prize, will introduce the speaker. Both scientists are interested in the cosmic rays, and Prof. Piccard's measurement of the cosmic rays in the stratosphere bear out the theory advanced by Dr. Compton as a result of his recent world survey.

PICK CHICAGOAN FOR FAIR MURALS; HAWAII AROUSED

Honolulu Artists Object to "Outsider."

BY CLIFFORD GESSLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—Robert Lee Eskridge, Chicago artist and author, unwittingly precipitated a controversy in local art circles when he accepted a commission to execute two mural paintings for the Hawaiian exhibit at A Century of Progress exposition in Chicago.

Eskridge has been visiting in Honolulu since early last fall, on his way to the Mariana, Marshall and Caroline islands in the Japans mandate area of the western Pacific ocean. He has done considerable painting while in Honolulu and is exhibiting paintings and drawings at the Honolulu Academy of Arts this week.

Local Artists Object.

A committee appointed by the governor, hearing that Eskridge was in town and that he had painted several large mural projects in Chicago, negotiated with him. Local artists heard of it and protested against awarding the job to a non-resident.

Representatives of the Association of Honolulu Artists—an organization of about 50 members—called on the secretary of Hawaii, Raymond C. Brown, who was chairman of the committee that made the award.

Brown said that he had not known there was an artists' association. He called, through the association, for bids and designs and four local artists responded. They had only a week in which to prepare them, for the work must be completed by March 1. But the work was awarded to Eskridge.

Indignation Aroused.

Several local artists wrote letters to the newspapers. Considerable indignation was worked up in some circles inasmuch as the Eskridge award was confused with several other matters such as the employment of mainland commercial artists to do work for the Hawaii tourist bureau and other Hawaiian organizations.

The charge was made that "social influence" was brought to bear by "lion hunters" in favor of nonresident artists and that the committee's consideration of local talent was belated, perfunctory, and a mere formality. The prediction was made that the whole matter of "Hawaiian art for Hawaii" would be brought up in the legislature.

Color is lent this latter suggestion because a former member of the committee, who did not participate in the awards, is a member of the new legislature.

Contrast Old and New Hawaii.

Meanwhile Eskridge is working on the two murals, which are to be 18 feet wide by 9 feet high, facing each other at a distance of 20 feet. One represents Hawaii in 1833, the other Hawaii in 1933.

The "old Hawaii" panel will be a background for a constructed grass house and the "new Hawaii," modernistically treated to introduce the principal Hawaiian industries, will be a background for a construction suggesting modern architecture, built up of Hawaiian products.

HUNT FOR CLEWS TO KIDNAPERS IN STORY OF WOMAN

Student Is Questioned by Police.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—A woman and four men, one of whom indicated by his conversation that he came from Chicago, were sought today for the kidnaping of Mrs. Mary B. Skeele, wife of the dean of the music school at the University of Southern California.

Mrs. Skeele was released last night by her captors, who lured her away from her home Sunday evening by false information that her husband, Prof. Walter F. Skeele, had been hurt in an automobile accident. Prof. Skeele said today that no attempt was made to meet the $10,000 ransom demand of the gang.

Student Is Questioned.

Several circumstances have convinced police that the kidnaping was planned and perhaps executed by persons well acquainted with the Skeeles. A former student in Prof. Skeele's classes, said to have had difficulties with members of the family, was being questioned today.

An important clew in the case is the address on the ransom letter received by Prof. Skeele shortly after his wife had been abducted. It was placed on the envelop in the form of a clipping from the latest yearbook of the school of music. The yearbook was published only a week ago, and has been distributed to a limited group of subscribers.

Mrs. Skeele, who is 65 years old, had recovered today from the hysteria with which she was seized following her release, and told more fully the story of her abduction. Chief of Detectives Joe Taylor went over the details of her experience with her again, convinced that because of her condition last evening Mrs. Skeele had made contradictory statements which she would be able to clear up today.

Scratched and Bruised.

Aside from nervous shock, her only injuries were scratches and bruises about her face. Those, she said, she inflicted on herself accidentally in attempting to remove the gag which the kidnapers placed in her mouth. She ceased her struggles, she said, when they threatened to chloroform her in the automobile in which she was being carried away.

"They kept me blindfolded most of the time. I was held in what seemed to be a comfortable house with big stone steps," said Mrs. Skeele. "They stuffed my ears with cotton, but I could hear part of their conversations. I heard one of them say something about being from Chicago and the others said they were from Los Angeles. They talked in whispers most of the time.

"At last I heard one of them say I was dangerous to have around and they began talking about letting me go. Finally they took me out in the car and we drove for a long time. Then they took my blindfold off just a few blocks from my home."

FINED FOR SELLING HIS MILK TICKETS TO BUY HOOTCH

Sam De Guardi, 53 years old, 834 Sedgwick street, was fined $200 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden on a charge of disorderly conduct. The state charged that De Guardi, the father of six children, sold his charity milk tickets in order to get funds to buy moonshine. A like fine was imposed on Leonard Bolango, 21 years old, 873 Milton avenue, in whose possession the milk tickets were found.

MAKERS OF 40 FAMOUS WASHING MACHINES SAY: "RINSO FOR SAFETY AND FOR WHITER, BRIGHTER WASHES"

SHE WASHED 393 PIECES WITH ONE BOX OF RINSO

Read what Mrs. Marguerite Pingree says:

"I've used Rinso for some time and I know its wonderful value as a means of removing dirt safely from the clothes of my three growing boys. I use it for dishes and I find it loosens grease instantly. Rinso is easy on my hands, too. I wrote down the things I did with a big box of Rinso. I did three weeks' washing for the five of us, consisting of 393 pieces."

Mrs. Marguerite Pingree, St. Louis, Mo.

Look at your hands after an easy Rinso washing. Still smooth—still white and pretty. No danger of "washtub hands" when you use Rinso!

And Rinso is wonderfully safe for the clothes, too. You can trust your very best cottons and linens to it. They'll last from 2 to 3 times longer—for with Rinso they don't need to be scrubbed.

Get that lazy liver to work, those stagnant bowels into action. Get rid of waste matter that is slow poison so long as it is permitted to remain in the system.

The new energy men and women feel before one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin has been used up is proof of how much the system needs this help.

ANDEAN BLIZZARD BLOWS "WHITE SLAVERS" IN JAIL

Police Find Eight Autos Loaded with Girls.

BY NORMAN INGREY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Feb. 7.—A violent Andean snowstorm enabled the Chilean police to put an end to a band of white slave traders which is reported to be linked with an international organization known as the Zwi Midgal.

On a lonely frontier road, 11,000 feet high and almost in the shadow cast by the gigantic statue of Christ which pledges Argentina and Chile to eternal peace, mountain police came across a motor convoy, stuck in a snowdrift. In the light of powerful pocket search lights forty pretty faces were revealed, peering from eight cars in the convoy.

On Way to Argentina.

A cursory examination showed that the girls were being smuggled across the mountain to Argentina, which is still one of the biggest markets in the world for this clandestine traffic. They were all Chilean girls and had been induced to leave Santiago and Valparaiso on bogus theatrical contracts. A man was in charge of each automobile.

At Los Andes, the main junction on the Transandine railroad, where the party was taken into custody, the girls, whose ages varied from 14 to 25, declared they were destined for Mendoza and Buenos Aires. A few of them were cabaret dancers, but the majority had home ties which they had been induced to desert for a "delightful mountain motor ride" and a trip to "see the sights of Buenos Aires."

Traffic an Old One.

Documents seized in one of the derelict automobiles showed that the illicit traffic has been proceeding since the beginning of summer and would have continued until the end of the season had it not been for the snowstorm that blocked the mountain road. Directors of the traffic had taken advantage of the facilities afforded by the Chilean government to Argentine tourists, thousands of whom have been attracted to west coast resorts by cheap currency and installation of additional casinos. No passports are required.

One cable among the seized documents conveyed minute instructions to the Valparaiso agent and the procurers of the party. Pseudonyms were used and the victims were referred to as "seamstresses" and "brides."

A supplementary letter apologized for troubling the Valparaiso agent, but pointed out that owing to the "prying activities" of the league of nations and other international organizations it was difficult to recruit in Paris and other European centers. It added that trade was also difficult "via Panama" and "via Havana." For that reason, it said, they had been forced to fall back on Chile.

HANDS OFF POLICY ADOPTED BY U. S. ON FRENCH DISARM PLAN

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 7.—(AP)—After desultory discussion of the French disarmament plan by secondary states today, Hugh Gibson announced for the United States a policy of hands off until its various features have been passed upon by competent delegations. The project now appears to have few determined friends in the disarmament conference, but former premier Joseph Paul-Boncour, who is speaking tomorrow, may be able to rejuvenate it.

[The French plan calls for the substitution of conscript armies for volunteer armies; international control over armaments; new regional pacts of assistance; and obligatory arbitration.]

Yosuke Matsuoka, Japanese delegate, conferred today with Sir Eric Drummond, league of nations secretary general, and other league officials on Japan's attitude toward the program approved by the assembly's drafting committee in virtual condemnation of the Japanese policy in Manchuria. The members drafting recommendations for league action will meet tomorrow and a plenary session of the assembly is expected Friday.

BARS BOY SLAYER FROM CHANGING PLEA OF GUILTY

Rockford Court Denies Darrow's Motion.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Attorney Clarence Darrow, volunteer head of the defense counsel in the case of 18 year old Russell McWilliams, who twice has been sentenced to death for murder and twice saved by Supreme court reversals, was overruled today in his endeavor to have McWilliams go before a jury on a plea of not guilty.

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff ruled that McWilliams' original plea of guilty must stand and he was not allowed to withdraw it. Judge Shurtleff decided that the Supreme court, in its second hearing of the case, upheld a ruling by Judge Arthur Fisher in refusing to allow the youth to change his plea.

In the first trial McWilliams plead guilty and was sentenced to death by Judge Fisher. The Supreme court gave the condemned youth a new trial and again Judge Fisher sentenced him to death, and again the Supreme court set aside that decree. The Supreme court said Judge Fisher should have granted a change of venue the second time.

Unable to obtain a jury trial and unable to do other than proceed on a plea of guilty, Darrow and his associates, B. J. Knight and William Holly, said they could only seek a minimum sentence. The state called witnesses who were passengers on a street car and who testified they saw McWilliams rob and then shoot William Sayles, motorman, who died later.

The defense probably will begin tomorrow.

PASTOR ACCUSED BY GIRL WAIVES HEARING, JAILED

Unable to Furnish Bond of $1,000.

Marshall, Mich., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The Rev. George Lyon, 31, resigned pastor of Tekonsha First Baptist church, arrested yesterday on complaint of Ruth Thomas, 17 year old high school student and member of Lyon's congregation waived examination when arraigned in lower court of Norris J. Bossard this afternoon. He failed to furnish bond in the amount of $1,000 and was kept in custody. Trial was set for the next session of the Circuit court.

The girl, daughter of a farmer who resides in a log cabin near Tekonsha, filed the complaint after it was discovered by a truant officer investigating her absence from school that she was to become a mother.

Lyon's wife declares she will stick to her husband and continues to occupy the church manse. To this end the preacher says he welcomes arrest in order that he may prove himself innocent.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

ANNOUNCE LOW BIDDERS ON COAL FOR THE NEEDY

The Consumers' company, and its subsidiary, the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, were low bidders on charity coal contracts for the entire city and for a large portion of the county outside the city, in bids opened by the county board yesterday.

Those two companies will supply almost the entire volume, about 100,000 tons a month, of the charity coal bought by the county if contracts are awarded on the bids, a tabulation revealed. That volume represents more than 20 per cent of the total domestic coal sales in the county.

The Wisconsin company was low bidder in fifteen of the city districts, and the Consumers company in ten of the city districts.

ILLUSION:
On top of a table are seen the head and body of a woman from the waist up. She winks. She smiles. She talks. She answers your questions and even smokes a cigarette!

EXPLANATION:
It's all done with mirrors. The lower half of the woman is concealed by mirrors set in a V, which reflect the drapery on both sides of the stage, giving the illusion that nothing is beneath the table. The rear legs of the table are not visible. What is seen is a mirror reflection of the front legs.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED
...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

Let's look at cigarettes.

There's a current illusion that by HEAT TREATMENT inferior, raw tobaccos can be made to equal choice tobaccos in mildness and flavor.

THE EXPLANATION: All cigarette manufacturers use the heat-treating process.

Inferior, low-cost tobaccos naturally require a more intense treatment than the choice, ripe tobaccos used in making Camels.

But neither the heat treatment nor any other treatment can take the place of good tobacco and perfect blending.

Nature is the only real magician. Choice tobacco is the only way to get real mildness and flavor.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

This is the secret of Camels' cool, rich flavor...their delicate "bouquet" and aroma...their non-irritating mildness ...the satisfaction you get.

It's the tobacco that counts.

All the natural goodness of Camel's tobacco is kept fresh for you by the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack. Don't remove it. Its moisture-proof cellophane also protects your Camels from dust and germs.

BETTER SELECTION OF JUDGES.

There appears to be a general dissatisfaction with present methods of selecting judges and proposals for improvement are developing in many bar associations. In some states actual legislation has been reached, but on the whole the subject is in the stage of discussion merely and the diversity of opinion even in the profession indicates that sweeping or radical change is as yet a rather distant prospect.

In our own state reform is a relatively recent interest, but a committee of the Chicago Bar association has just offered suggestions. On one of these there can be no honest difference of opinion. Whether it is adopted will depend, we suspect, upon whether the politicians find it unacceptable for their own special reasons. It is merely to consolidate judicial elections at a June election, and its object is to give the voters an opportunity to consider their choice free from the distraction of other interests. By including judicial candidates with candidates for administrative and legislative office proper consideration of the former is not likely to be given, especially in general elections involving party power and party issues of popular and partisan concern. Thus repeatedly faithful and highly competent judges and fit candidates are too frequently defeated. The late Democratic landslide is a recent case in point. At least two men, approved by the bar, failed of success which at an election confined to judges alone would probably, if not certainly, have been assured.

The other proposal will be subjected to more opposition. Alternatives are offered. Both propose that all Municipal judges shall be appointed by the governor. One method provides that the Supreme court shall recommend four candidates for each judgeship, two from each party. The other method provides that the chief justice of the Supreme court shall make the recommendations. From this list the governor shall make appointments.

To retain for voters some control over incumbents, the plan provides that after a term of six years, upon the petition of a certain percentage of the voters, an election would be held to determine whether an incumbent is to continue in office. If a majority of the voters vote no, the place would be filled by appointment as originally. This proceeding could be repeated at the end of each term.

Mr. Andrew Sherriff, a lawyer who has given some study to judicial selection, proposes that the mayor and city council shall appoint from a list of candidates proposed by the Supreme court.

That any of these appointment plans will materially reduce the influence of party politics in judicial selection seems less probable to us than to their proponents. We are not convinced that appointment by elected officials is more likely on an average to provide better judges than election. It depends upon circumstances. Some of our ablest judges have been elected and some appointed judges have been far from satisfactory. No doubt we must cast up an average to arrive at a practical policy. But there is sound instinct in the disposition of the people to retain direct control over judicial selection, and any plan to reduce or eliminate the influence of party politics should respect it. The problem is complex and certainly deserves the best thought of the bar and the citizenry.

THE ONLY WAY OUT.

Whatever the importance of Mr. Bogan's distinction between idle rooms and vacant rooms in the schools, it is to be hoped the teachers of Chicago will note that either or both represent a substantial contribution to their misfortunes. The money of the taxpayers which has gone for political contracts, for construction not needed, for exorbitant building costs and plain graft would have gone a long way toward paying salaries even in depression days. The fact that building and educational funds are distinct is not relevant when the taxpayers have reached the limit of their endurance as they have now.

But indignation has expressed itself chiefly in other directions. Tax dodgers, the banks, the alleged rich, even that dark ogre capitalism, have absorbed most of it. Those who have suggested that a government cannot spend money it hasn't got and cannot get have been treated as enemies of justice and humanity, oppressors of the teachers, and enemies of education.

It is not only that this direction of fire has been futile, has accomplished nothing for the teachers or the children or the community. It has also been a waste of effort which would be profitable if directed in the right direction. But many if not all the leaders of agitation on behalf of the teachers have shown little if any zeal for retrenchment. The assumption has been that expenditure must be somehow maintained and revenue somehow obtained. Although business enterprise is flat revenue from property diminished to the vanishing point, taxpayers bankrupt, home owners on the street or headed for it, the public treasuries empty, public credit a' the point of extinction the cry has all been for hunting down the taxpayer and for inventing new ways of reaching what he has left, if anything.

Every one sympathizes with the unpaid teacher and wishes to find a way to pay her and him. But no amount of symp .thy can produce revenue from taxpayers who are broke, from property that is producing nothing. Nothing but drastic reduction of expenditure can clear the way to a restoration of the ability to pay the teachers and maintain the schools as they should be maintained. There has been evasion of taxation, but if every evader were run to earth and sent to the electric chair the necessity of reduction of expenditure in this depression would not be removed. The problem of government and the community is not to find more money to spend, but to spend less. It can .e solved only by the exercise of public influence upon the spenders of public money. It can be solved only by the resolute elimination of nonessentials and by every economy required to reduce expenditure to the level of available income. This involves the sacrifice of many things in themselves desirable and willingly provided in normal times. To resist it is not only to postpone recovery for all but to make conditions worse.

THE VOICE OF TOLSTOY.

The name of Tolstoy, with respect to Russia, is a synonym for the profoundest sympathy and compassion stirred by the plight of people under the lash and the yoke. In fact, compassion in the great Tolstoy's case finally tortured the man into a mental derangement in which he died, old and broken and seeking sanctuary in the soil which could have produced so much happiness in Russia and produced so much misery.

In Tuesday's Voice of the People there appeared a letter from Tolstoy's daughter, now living in Pennsylvania, crying out in the same spirit of bitterness which had made her father's reflections upon the human state in Russia so moving a denunciation of the tyranny causing distress and degradation.

The tyranny has changed its form but not its substance, and Tolstoy's daughter sees the tragedy of the changed form as her father saw the other. To the rational mind it makes no difference that one atrocity was called czaristic and the other proletarian. As between grand duke and commissar compassion can make no distinction, nor do facts permit a distinction to be made. The peasant whose goods are expropriated and whose protests are silenced by gun shots can see no difference between the old Cossack of the imperial guard and one of Stalin's Red butchers. There is starving where there could be plenty. The soviet is not less a monster than the circle of privileged and titled nobility. The ideology of soviet dictatorship is no more pleasing than the dogmas of czarism.

The most stinging rebuke in the letter of Tolstoy's daughter is directed against the idiotic liberalism, so-called, of the United States and England which makes even such a man as Bernard Shaw a jackass when he talks about Russia. These liberals have condoned every savagery which their doctrines condemn otherwise as intolerable, condoned it because this inhumanity is found under a pretense of the common good for the exploited masses, as if the masses ruled by Stalin had anything more to say than the masses had under Nicholas II. These liberals find that what was unspeakable brutality in the old days is a benevolence in the new. When ideas produce hysterical hypocrisy reason can only close the book. The chains which the dispirited and abject Russian common man now wears painfully to his grave are regarded as garlands of liberty. Insanity can go no farther than that.

HITLER AND THE CROWN PRINCE.

When John Taylor, the seventeenth century poet, said that it was a mad world he could not possibly have known the tenth of it. Even if he were to pick up his morning paper now he wouldn't be able to find the words to express himself. Japan waiting for the weather to moderate in Jehol so that the water won't freeze in the machine guns; the Bolivians and Paraguayans mincemeating each other in the jungles; the Peruvians and Colombians about to emulate these worthy deeds; Asiatic sailors run off with a Dutch warship; half the world trying to repudiate the doctrine of debt responsibility upon which international obligations and relations rest; American agriculture and industry pulling the government to pieces by trying to go in opposite directions on wild horses, etc., etc.

In all the scrambled picture nothing is, for the moment, of greater oddity than the position of the imperial family in Germany. Here we see the crown prince acting virtually as gentleman usher to a former Austrian who talked so much in the bierstuben that he finally convinced himself he could be chancellor of the German republic, and now he is.

German surprises increase day by day. But the position of the monarchical family in the republic has no parallel in history. The precedents are all the other way. The deposed family, if life is spared, is supposed to be exiled, as was James II. at St. Germaine. On some alien soil the pretender, it may be for several generations, holds his little court of tinsel and indulges in serious or trivial intrigue. The legitimists at home have their secret little toasts, as "To the little gentleman dressed in velvet!" the mole who made the hole which is supposed to have thrown William's horse.

From this exile they sometimes come back, as did Charles II., to the injury and humiliation of his country. But the crown prince as a citizen of the German republic, modestly taking a subordinate part in the wild political action of the steel helmeted partisans, is something new in the hall of fame. He may see an open road to the throne of his fathers. Certainly no one would be so rash as to predict that he in turn may not yet become the All Highest. The old kaiser may object to this and, if Doorn stories are correct, make a dash for it himself.

Editorial of the Day

KEEPING BOSTON PURE.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

In its attempts to guard public morals Boston takes no chances. Three censors help protect the city from corrupting influences—one on week days, one on Sundays, and the third constantly is on duty to supervise literature.

City Censor Stanton White takes care of the theaters; Gen. Alfred F. Foote, state commissioner of public safety, maintains the sanctity of Sundays; and police are on the job all the time seeing that Boston gets no undesirable reading matter.

With this multiplicity of censorship, however, Boston encounters difficulties. For instance, if a tramp comedian who wears baggy trousers all week attempts to show in the same grotesque garb on Sunday, Gen. Foote says "Nothing doing," or words to that effect.

Bare legs are prohibited by Boston's city censorship laws, and by the commonwealth of Massachusetts as well. There also is a statute still on municipal books calling for the arrest of "every female appearing in public with rouge on her face." Can you imagine Boston police trying to correct that "evil"?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

PRAIRIE SAGA.

"I came here when the land was black and mellow."
(Old Simon told the tale one winter's night).
"A prairie land, but swamps and sloughs were rank with grass grown taller than the tops of covered wagons, grass that would lose you on the brightest moonlit night.
I recollect the day, my first to shove a plowshare into Iowa soil, giving the team their heads and slacking lines between my shoulders and their own, as if we'd found a common thing to hold our interest.

"Too long I'd known the sea and way green waters moved from place to place beneath the curling lash of windy whips; and, too, I'd felt my legs were more at home against a slanting deck than 'gainst any land my eyes had ever known.
But Sarah swore she'd done with ships and long nights peering through a misty window-pane and seeing women with their knees pressed 'gainst wet sand in trembling prayer—land's a warm comfort, so she said, that holds you like a bride, when death has come . . .
but the sea takes you forever and never brings you back to gaze upon.

"Still, a man's first love follows him, and if it be the sea, then how can he fill his ears with sounds of mainstays creaking in the wind, of salty ropes grooved through pulleys on a winter's day?

"I pondered this, all this, as first
I set the shining blade, point downward, slanting through the virgin sod;
it seemed to me that I had traded the thing I wanted for the things that I must break my heart against for all my days.
Holding to that opinion,
I seized the handles of the plow, aware that things were strange, for handles of a wheel's spokes turn upward 'stead of curving down.

"And then a miracle happened, like in the Book it tells of passing-strange things a man finds meet to believe . . .
a miracle of jingling chains on tugs, of harness leather singing taut with strain, like ropes fair-rigged beneath an ocean breeze . .
and more . . . a noise of brushing wings against the air, and gulls were all around us—wheeling gulls that dipped to light upon the black soil furrow, and then rose up to mew their welcome, to a sea-born man!
Nor was that all, for now the grass was moving underneath the wind like waves, green waves of water . . .
and something of the earth's feel,
some knowledge of its friendliness, came like a benediction down upon me, while scents of roots deep-buried had gained a sudden salty tang.

"And Sarah, watching from a near-by hill, knew she had won . . knew that my battle was finished now, and seas and ships could go their way . . . but I had learned to set my feet to earth and bend it to my ends.
Nor have I, to this day, the least regret at what I did; I've found living is best where you may hold a tangible thing within your hand, a clod of earth that breaks to dust between your fingers . . . but some remains.
Wind, when you've dipped your hands in water from the sea, takes the last drop

DON FARRAN.

INVENTORS DECLARE the private secretary will soon have joined the dodo in the big glass case in the museum. The dictaphone, microphone, a central transcribing bureau, tubes that shoot the stuff back in a jiffy, all neatly written out, will do the secretary's and the stenographer's jobs. Is that so? All right, and probably the dictaphone or the mike or the central transcribing bureau will go to the door and calm the big, irritable fat man, who insists on marching right in, with the soft, soothing, but very calm and convincing words: "No, you can't see him; he's in conference." Ah, yes, this is the place where science fails.

EVERYTHING DEPENDS on where you stand. There are times when we are enthusiastic hero worshipers. Alexander the Great, J. Cæsar, Napoleon, the Duke of Wellington, G. Washington, and fellows like that. But yesterday, with the worst blizzard raging in Chicago that we can remember, an icy gale blowing in our face, the snowdrifts as high as the Alps, the thermometer fooling down around zero, we said pooh, pooh, to any and all heroes. Heroes! They call 'em heroes! Nonsense! We had three taxicabs shot out from under us between Oak street and the loop.

GOD HELP THE RICH! Their limousines get stuck in the snow, but the poor can walk.

HOW MUCH ALCOHOL?

FROM Dr. W. F. Christie we get the following information about the alcoholic content of different alcoholic beverages expressed in percentages:

Benedictine, 50.
Crême de menthe, 48.

The various liqueurs are almost one-half alcohol. The other half is water, sugar, and various essential oils called flavors.

Brandies, whiskies, gin, and rum are given as being 40 per cent alcohol.

A 100 proof distilled liquor contains 50 per cent alcohol. One that contains 40 per cent alcohol, therefore, is known as 80 proof.

The strength in alcohol of the various distilled liquors depends somewhat upon the country from which it comes, the producer, and the marketer. Bootleg liquor varies all the way from 20 proof to nearly 200, and one reason for the fatalities among drinkers of bootleg and moon is that a man who has been trained as a drunkard on 20 proof cut liquor unexpectedly gets hold of some 150 proof stuff.

The remainder, other than alcohol in a distilled liquor, is water and a small and varying amount of essential oils and aromatics.

Madeira, sherry, and other reinforced wines run about 18 per cent alcohol. Note that the term, proof, used with distilled liquors, is not employed with wines and beers. A reinforced wine is one to which some alcohol has been added, or one made from juice in which sugar was placed before or during fermentation. A sweet wine is one in which some sugar was left when the fermentation was stopped. A wine may be sweet because of sugar added at some stage of the manufacture.

Champagnes are reinforced wines, and they contain about 14 per cent alcohol. Moselles and hocks contain about 8 per cent.

In the case of wines the remainder of the 100 per cent is composed of water, sugar, essential oils, flavors, and aromatics.

Malt liquors, including most of the beers and ales, run from 4 to 6 per cent. The remainder is water, starch, sometimes a little of another carbohydrate, sugar, aromatics, essential oils, flavors. Perhaps we should count the foam.

The liquors that run high in alcohol are self-keeping. The spirit in them is sufficiently concentrated to kill off yeasts, molds, and bacteria.

The reinforced wines are a little above the level. If reasonably well protected neither the organisms that make vinegar, the yeasts, molds, or bacteria, will spoil them. The percentage of alcohol is equal to that of keeping them.

If they are poorly kept the alcohol percentage is not capable of preventing spoilage. The low per cent wines and malt liquors must be pasteurized, well bottled, or casked, and held at low temperatures, else they spoil.

VARICOSE VEINS.

Mrs. C. W. P. writes: I am 49 years old. For the last ten years I have been troubled with varicose veins. I have tried many salves and liniments with no results. Last week I heard that taking witch hazel tea internally was very good. Please let me know what you think of it and whether you know of any other way to get relief besides operation.

REPLY.

It will do no good. Why waste raw materials and hurt your digestion? Wearing elastic stockings suffices for most cases. Where the case is mild, stockings having the appearance of ordinary hose but with elastic in the fabric will compress sufficiently.

INDIGESTION.

B. C. B. writes: What is nervous indigestion?

2. Is there any cure for it?

REPLY.

1. Burning in the stomach, heaviness after meals, spitting up, excessive belching—all resulting primarily from nervousness.
2. Train oneself out of worry, anxiety, and nervousness.

RECEIVERSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My house is in the hands of a receiver for the last eighteen months. My equity is $2,000; first mortgage of $3,300. The mortgage holder paid taxes for 1929-1930 and street paving assessment of $90. Receiver is collecting the house rental for sixteen months at $30 a month. 1. Who gets the proceeds of the house rental when the mortgage holder takes legal possession of the property? 2. What steps should I take to get at least something for my equity? M. B. K.

1. Presumably you mean who gets the rent when receiver is appointed. Presumably the receiver will collect and account for this money as he accounts for other proceeds coming into his hands.
2. One way is to try to sell your equity.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

EXECUTOR'S RIGHTS.

Moline, Ill., Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can an executor of an estate, where a large collection of pictures have been left for sale for the benefit of the family, hang any number of these pictures up in his own home while at the same time refusing to give or loan any of them to the other members of the family for the same purpose? W. M.

In general, the rights of the executor depend on the wording of the will. If the will leaves the custody to him during the year for probate and if the place in which he is keeping them is safe, then we see no legal objection.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 8, 1917.

WASHINGTON.—Consul Frost at Queenstown cabled the state department that the British passenger liner California had been torpedoed without warning off the Irish coast, and that the one American known to have been on board was saved. Some of the passengers and crew still were missing, including two women and several children. The captain of the ship was quoted as saying the submarine did not hail or give any warning before firing two torpedoes from a distance of 300 yards and sending the California down. The American survivor was John A. Lee of Montgomery, Ala., who is supposed to have been a member of the crew.

WASHINGTON.—The torpedoing without warning of the British liner California, with one American aboard, the first instance of the destruction of a passenger ship since Germany issued her proclamation of ruthless submarine warfare, aroused great anixety in official Washington. Although the one American passenger was saved, the occurrence brings the administration face to face with the problem of adopting measures to protect citizens of the United States in the new submarine war zones. Whether President Wilson will consider this incident the "overt act" which he said would cause him to take further action against Germany remains to be seen.

WASHINGTON.—With the menace of war stalking nearer to America, the senate formally indorsed the action of President Wilson in severing diplomatic relations with Germany. It was almost a unanimous indorsement. The vote was 78 to 5, and some of those who cast their ballots for the resolution said they did so for the sake of national unity. The resolution was offered by Senator Stone. Its consideration brought forth many nonpartisan pledges of support of the administration, but elicited some acrimonious disputes on the Democratic side of the chamber. The five senators who voted against it were Gronna of North Dakota, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Works of California, Republicans, and Kirby of Arkansas and Vardaman of Mississippi, Democrats.

COPENHAGEN.—The American legation announces that Minister Egan today received several sensational dispatches from Ambassador Gerard. The latter telegraphs that the German authorities will not permit Americans to leave Germany at present. He says that he, his staff, and all American consular officials will be detained until the fate of Count von Bernstorff and the crews of the German ships interned in America has been decided. The German authorities are denying Mr. Gerard the right to telegraph in code. All correspondence with the Copenhagen legation is now in plain English. Ambassador Gerard advised Minister Egan that the sailors captured on the Yarrowdale will be detained on the same grounds as the other Americans.

NEW YORK.—The sailing of the American line steamer St. Louis, as well as the St. Paul, also in port here, has been indefinitely postponed, it was announced by P. A. A. Franklin, president of the International Mercantile Marine company, which owns the American line. The announcement followed a telephone communication from Secretary of State Lansing stating that the government could not give advice to private persons as to whether their vessels should sail on voyages which would take them through waters delimited by the German government. The state department pointed out, however, that neutral vessels may arm themselves for defense, and that it is the right of American ships to traverse any part of the high seas.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports that British troops have carried all of Grandecourt and now imperil the great German base at that point. Petrograd admits the capture by German troops of an island in the Beresina river. Petrograd also says the Germans were dislodged from trenches south of Slonicu.

CHICAGO.—Operations of the United States secret service in running down persons and organizations suspected of hostility to this country in its relations with Germany have begun in earnest, it is believed. The local force has been doubled. Hinton G. Clabaugh, chief of the local bureau of investigation, put into execution an intelligence system that covers the whole district of northern Illinois. The chief wartime aim of the intelligence system will be the prevention of the dissemination of any information that will be of value to an enemy government. It also will seek to prevent sympathizers of a hostile country from committing any act that will hinder the operations of the army and navy or embarrass the military.

23 CENTS A DAY.

Olney, Ill., Feb. 6.—The popular indoor sport for members of congress is to cut army and navy appropriations and thus attempt to weaken our national defense.

I have just returned from Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and I have arrived at the conclusion that the army is one of the few governmental agencies that really endeavors to watch the expenditure of money. I found no evidence of reckless or useless buying. Every purchase is carefully scrutinized, both as to price and the necessity therefor.

The ration allowance for January was .2332 cents per day. The enlisted men were unusually well fed and at the end of the month seven organizations had saved money during the month and only four had gone over the allowance and had to reimburse the government for the excess. And yet we find that the senate restaurant ran a deficit of $50,000 for its operation. Senators, congressmen, and soldiers are government employés and if the soldier can feed well on .2332 cents a day why cannot the senator and congressman do the same? If they will place a few army cooks and mess sergeants in charge of that restaurant and issue the garrison ration I'll guarantee that at the end of the year they won't have a deficit.

DONOVAN D. MCCARTY.

U. S. A., INC.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Our society has at last succeeded in forming a bankrupt corporation and has followed the fashion of many other 1925-1929 corporations by issuing more bonds, preferred and common stocks than the public could absorb. It has been distributed as follows:

Bonds—Taken by politicians.
Preferred—Given to world's war veterans [who never have seen war], or preferred Americans.
Common—Taxpayers' subscription paid in full, market price 1-32.

Now that moral credit has almost entirely disappeared and most collateral is worthless, what will these bonds be worth in the near future? In other words, how can any one do any business when no one trusts any one, not even themselves?

Yours for common sense, which does not look like Roosevelt's latest ideas of economy. H. H.

MEETING COMPETITION.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 25.—There isn't any questioning the fact that the railroads are suffering from loss of business, but it is primarily due to a tremendous decrease in industrial production which has resulted in a tremendous decline in freight loading since 1929, the decrease in industrial production and freight carloadings paralleling one another up to 1932.

In the business world, when competition is encountered, merchandise, prices, and sales programs are adjusted to meet that competition, and this procedure, you must agree, is certainly foreign to railroads. They insist on maintaining their antiquated equipment, tremendous overhead, and other burdensome things instead of working to the end that they might be in a position to go out and do things that would enable them to compete. In other words, why don't they attempt to dispense with regulation and go out after the business?

BOY SCOUT HANDICRAFT.

Hinsdale, Ill., Feb. 4.—Your Editorial of the Day, "What Got Into the Boy Scouts?" is just another case of a little knowledge being a dangerous thing. You not only mislead the uninformed but you unjustly ridicule.

The merit badge referred to is the one on handicraft. It is not one of the subjects required, but it is one of the 98 subjects on Scout activities and vocational guidance. Mr. Reporter of Ossining could never have read the 34 page "Handicraft" pamphlet [neither could the New York Daily News nor yourselves] and written as he has done, or perhaps all of you are such sheiks as really to believe that the women should do all the work around the home and that there should be no such animal as an expert handyman.

I dare say there's many a man right now that wishes he knew how to do expertly all the odd jobs described in "Handicraft." Scouting is intended to prepare a boy to take care of himself and others under any condition of life, even including depressions.

Their snap judgment regarding other policies is equally unfair. If the News reporter needs inspiring reading—and there's no doubt he does—let him read the qualifications of all those 12 merit badges that are required for high Scout rank, including "Camping," in comparison with which the manual of arms is pretty tame. ANDREW FENN.

CHURCH AND STATE.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Your thoughtful editorial, "Church and State," is the presentation of a position which needs to be considered by those of us who believe in many of the proposals of the federal council committee. However, it rests upon a false inference.

The council would not agree that the church should direct and control government. Rather, it conceives of its duty as including education for the good life. A good life both changes the environment and the institutions of society and is made by them. "To induce right conduct," which you agree to be the function of religion, involves society as well as the individual. Government is not to be controlled by the church, but by the majority. The church, like the newspaper, has a function of educating the public.

Moreover, your assumption that these ministers are not trained in economics and sociology is hardly warranted. The men who prepared this statement have a broad education and a wide experience in social life. It is doubtful whether most editors of large newspapers, representatives in congress, or leaders of business and law are as well equipped to speak on subjects of this kind.

BUS RIDER'S COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—As riders of the worst bus line in the city of Chicago, we wish emphatically to utter a protest. We refer to bus line route 36, which operates from the great west side to the loop. In the winter we have open buses and in the summer closed buses. New buses are placed on other routes; old buses are placed on the west side route. Now, why in God's name on a route which pays well—in fact, probably better than other routes—should a condition like this prevail? JAMES J. BORAN.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

A virile, uncompromising and swiftly paced picture this!

Adapted from the book by Lewis E. Lawes, warden of Sing Sing—famed as both humanitarian and disciplinarian, this piece has a definite purpose and a pointed moral. The former would erase from the mind of the criminal, flanked by smart lawyers and influential friends, the idea that he'll be a teacher's pet in the penitentiary. The moral is just the old, familiar one—be good or you'll be very, very sorry!

Meet, then, Mr. Spencer Tracy as Tom Connors, a hardened and perpetual lawbreaker of ungovernable temper and the set notion that he can get away with anything.

He is sentenced to Sing Sing, and thither comes, accompanied by his jaunty and confident attorney, Joe Finn, who has assured Connors that he will "fix it" with the warden so that his client will be a privileged character on whom confinement will sit but lightly.

But Warden Long is not as Attorney Finn had pictured him. Here is no complacent figure with smiling mouth, closed eyes and outstretched hand. Finn's is the unusual experience of hearing a man refuse a bribe, seeing him set fire to it and being driven from the presence of the phenomenon with words like lashes.

Finn departs. Connors stays. And then it is Connors' turn to learn about wardens from Long.

He refuses to don the jail uniform. "That's all right," says Warden Long. "He doesn't have to wear a uniform." So, Connors in his undies is detailed to work in the ice house. It is not long before he wears his uniform by request.

Never mind, he's still the tough mug. He strikes. He, Connors, refuses to labor at anything.

"He doesn't have to work," says this agreeable warden. "He shall sit on his iron cot until he can't sit any longer and will regard a job, ANY kind of a job as the greatest blessing on earth . . ."

Connors sits. And sits. AND sits. One day, then, we discover him, his face alight, working on the rock pile . . .

Between warden and prisoner a strange liking and respect grows up. Comes a time when the former paroles the latter for a day, on honor, that he may pay a visit to his sweetheart who has been injured—fatally, it is believed—in an automobile accident. Trouble, that is not of his seeking, makes Connors wanted for murder . . . With every chance to escape, he vindicates the warden's trust in him, and returns to Sing Sing and the chair.

The picture has been expertly produced. At no time do its moral and educational aspects overshadow its entertainment value.

Those interested in Warden Lawes' system will note that his consideration for criminals never blinds him to actual issues. Dangerous men are treated at such.

Through intelligence tests conducted by experts, prisoners are assigned to the sort of tasks for which they are fitted. It is all most enlightening and encouraging. What a far cry from chain gang methods!

Besides the thrills of jail breaks and kindred excitements, "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing" has romance and pathos that never truckle to the maudlin.

Acting honors go to Spencer Tracy and Arthur Byron for their clean cut, forceful portrayals of prisoner and warden. Here is the sort of playing that gets something. Louis Calhern does a grand job as Attorney Finn Bette Davis is sincere and appealing as Connors' girl. Supporting rôles are admirably handled.

From start to finish "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing" is an A-1, suspenseful photoplay.

See you tomorrow!

American Diet Has Appeal for British Actress

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 7.—Lilian Harvey, the English actress, suffered a sudden and acute illness last Sunday night, and physicians were hurriedly summoned, with visions of a hospital trip and emergency operation. The doctor asked her: "What did you eat for dinner on Sunday?"

"I ate a typical American meal—clam chowder, pork tenderloin and fried apples."

"And what else did you eat?"

"Apple pie with ice cream and a chocolate soda."

The doctor threw up his hands. "What you have is an American tummy ache; no hospital or operation ever cured one of them yet," he said. She was all right yesterday.

Mary Duncan, summoned here from New York, is to play Mrs. Leslie in Ann Harding's screen rendition of "Declasse."

Columbia is trying an interesting film stunt—an attempt to show movies in black and white and in colors also on the same screen at the same time in one projection. There's a scene in "Beneath the Sea" where scientists and guests gather on a yacht about to start for the tropics.

The professor tells his audience: "We will now observe the results of our previous expedition," and a small motion picture machine beside him begins grinding with images flashing on a small screen shown in the scene. Tropical fish begin to appear in their brilliant blues, reds, and purples; delicately tinted bits of coral and sea vegetation are thrown on in color, while all the time you can see the audience [of actors] sitting, watching, in black and white.

George Burns and Gracie Allen, radio entertainers, have a one year Paramount contract to play in two feature length films. The two will be "International House," with Peggy Joyce, Rudy Vallee, and Bill Fields, and "College Humor," with Bing Crosby, Frances Dee, Richard Arlen, and Jack Oakie.

The thing about his movie career that Frank Morgan derives the biggest kick from is that people no longer refer to him as "Ralph Morgan's brother." He says that at one time he and Ralph had two rings made—his of platinum and Ralph's of gold—so that friends could tell them apart. Frank is just finishing in "Kiss Before the Mirror."

Loses 20 Pounds in Two Months by This Method

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Twenty pounds off in eight weeks is neat reducing! Think of what twenty pounds off means to a waistline, to hips, to abdomen or to get down to woman's real vanity—to her dress size.

Twenty pounds off would easily let you slip back into a discarded 38 size dress from the 40 or 42 you've been wearing. Or, in the language of the moment, twenty pounds less in eight weeks would just about convey you into the Easter shopping period and that suit you're dying to have.

Well, K. C. tells me in a letter how she shook off the dreaded twenty in two months. And this is what she ate:

Breakfast: Dry cereal with fruit and tea or coffee without cream or sugar.

Lunch: Chicken broth, dry toast, poached eggs and baked apple. [The broth was varied with other broths or thin soups.]

Dinner: Two ounces of meat—beef, lamb, veal or boiled fish. String beans or carrots, egg plant, broiled tomato and dry toast. Dessert: Fruit salad without cream or mayonnaise.

Drink no water with meals, K. C. advises, not because water drinking at meals is prohibitive, but you won't need it if you drink at least three glasses of water between meals. And you'll thus avoid the tendency to gulp down food with the aid of water.

A good plan, K. C. tells, is to fill a two quart pitcher with water right after breakfast, adding the juice of one lemon to take away the flat water taste. Put in the ice box. Fill a smaller jug from this which you can carry around while attending to your household duties. Between meals, too, is allowed one half glass of milk or a cup of broth with a cracker or two.

The following instruction is imperative. Rise immediately after eating and keep on your feet doing something. K. C. walked outdors, swinging her arms as she walked briskly.

And one good exercise must be done. This was hers: Lie on your back on the floor, arms stretched above the head. Then raise the legs over the head and return them to the floor. Six times, morning and night, at least for this exercise and every muscle will be worked. Incidentally, the exercise and the water drinking relieved a long standing constipation difficulty.

Aid Hospital

The Ladies of the Fraternity will hold a card party this evening at the Medinah Athletic club for the benefit of the Illinois Masonic hospital, 836 Wellington avenue. Mrs. Herman C. Sagehorn is chairman of the affair, assisted by Mrs. L. A. Brundage. On the committee are Dr. Pauline E. Lange, Mrs. Robert Hayes, Mrs. Arthur A. Brave Storm to Attend Alumnae Tea

Miss Betty Brawley and Miss Edna Doering, the only two of the season's debutantes who managed to brave the storm and reach the tea the Wheeler school alumnae gave at the Fortnightly yesterday. Miss Doering had to cancel her engagement to sing at the Cradle this morning because she has not been very well lately, but she is selling tickets just the same for a lecture to be given tomorrow afternoon for the benefit of the charity fund of another school she attended, the Harris school in Chicago. Miss Lucy Martin is to talk on "The New Hot Spots of Europe" at the Casino at 3:30 o'clock, after which tea will be served. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Society Folk Get Mending Done as Storm Keeps Them at Home

Town Clubs Have Few Guests for Luncheons; Those in City from Suburbs Remain in Town.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE mending baskets—yes, society women do their own mending these days, at least most of them do—were emptied yesterday for it was just the sort of day on which to stay at home in front of a roaring fire and mend and forget completely all the interesting things that would have lured one away from home if the weather had been different.

It was a gala day for society editors for although they had to struggle to work they found almost every one they telephoned to at home, a rare occurrence, believe me! Usually one has to telephone before 10 in the morning or late in the afternoon in order to reach any one, but yesterday it seemed as if even the gaddiest gadabouts were at home.

In many households the men were there, too, having decided early in the morning that it would be wise not to venture forth and this was true especially in the suburbs. The men who did come to town in some cases found it impossible to get home again and the University, Racquet, and Chicago clubs and the Chicago Athletic association reported that they were having runs on bed chambers for the night by their suburban members.

The town clubs where one finds the feminine members of "the pretty world" lunching every day were deserted yesterday: there wasn't a soul out at the Saddle and Cycle all day and the little club was about snowed under, the manager reported. A few brave souls had luncheon at the Casino and at the Arts club there were two women and one man. At the Woman's Athletic club there was one party of twelve having luncheon with Mrs. Walter J. Cavanagh of Kenosha as the hostess. Mrs. Cavanagh is in town to preside at the annual meeting of the Great Lakes Girl Scout regional committee today.

Few Attend Tea for Miss Dey.

Tea for fifty or more had been prepared at the Fortnightly for the party the alumnae of the Mary C. Wheeler school at Providence, R. I., were giving yesterday, but there were only a handful of women there to enjoy the delicious refreshments and the lovely table with its centerpiece of gay spring flowers.

Miss Betty Brawley and Miss Edna Doering were the only courageous debutantes who reached the party for their ex-headmistress, Miss Mary Helena Dey, who is spending a week in Chicago. Miss Dey told a bit about the school, emphasizing the new dancing courses which teach perfect body control, and showed some of the drawings and paintings that have been done recently by the Wheeler girls.

Among those most admired by the ten or twelve who saw them were Nancy Forgan's drawings, especially one of an old clam digger on a misty morning. Nancy is a daughter of the James B. Forgans of Lake Forest. Some of the others at the tea were Mrs. Wallace Campbell of Providence, chairman of the trustee alumnae committee, who is visiting her husband's sister, Miss Eliza Campbell; Mrs. George Markham, who came down from Oconomowoc for the occasion; Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr., Mrs. Carlos C. Daughaday, and Miss Campbell.

Most of the private school children blessed the snow, for several of the schools closed early in the day. The boys and girls who attend the Latin schools were out of luck, however, as far as getting out early went, for those two schools did not let out until the usual time. The Francis Parker, the Harris, and the University School

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Where a garage has no interior finish and the studs stand bare, it is easy to build a between-stud cabinet by constructing a hinge door to close on the space between the two studs. A cross bar can be placed at top and bottom. [Most buildings are built on a framework of uprights, two by fours or two by sixes, set from 14 to 24 inches apart.] There the man of the house will have private space of his own and the door can be locked against small boys who like to play with tools as much as dad likes to work with them! These tools can hang on nails driven into the batten door or into the outside wall.

New Gadgets Will Decorate Smart Clothes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Chromium buttons, much wider than the ordinary round anchors that hold a coat in place, glitter and glisten from the shoulders of a gay, young, new, wool crêpe suit. The dress has ruffled cap sleeves that modestly cover the shoulders and four inches of the arm . . . the front bib-like section fastens high and wide around the throatline with one of the big blister-like chromium buttons perched on each shoulder.

The matching three-quarter length coat is charming, with a demure old fashioned high neckline, long, loose, rather wide sleeve, and four chromium buttons marching down the side front.

This very recent arrival in the suit collections of one suit-conscious shop comes in a lovely sky blue and a smart shade of silver gray . . . you can wear either color under dark colored fur trimmed coats . . . the good looking material is wool crinkle crêpe and the simple, impeccably tailored lines are perfect.

Flippant, breezy organdy blouses with fetching rollover high collars, two or three perky bows in a row down the front, puffed short sleeves and very high necklines are unusual because they are new and also because of their delectable new tints . . . you can find peachblow pink, a color that would be a knockout on any brunette or red head, a soft pale blue, a mint green and others that will have to be seen to be appreciated.

Some of the sleeves are tied coquettishly well above the elbow with stiff little bows of organdy, other sleeves are just a matter of two large perfect circles with a common center for your arm. The white affairs are roguishly piquant for any sleeveless black frock that needs a new contrast.

Something new and direct from London are the "Jack Spatts" . . . rather amusing feminine versions of the masculine spat that swaggers about the town. They are greatly abbreviated things that you wear with opera pumps . . . they are fastened with two covered buttons to match the gray or beige of this very ladylike and British spat. You may not particularly care for them at first sight, but they have a way with them, and the gossips who know say they are quite the smartest, newest thing you can drape over your instep. All shoppers are hereby warned that these Jack Spatts are trifles that do not reach above your ankle, but they ought to create plenty of envy worn over the right instep.

Do you remember those shadow thin clip compacts that successfully wooed the appreciative shopper not so long ago? You used to find them in enamels, silver, and gold . . . now you have them for your evening gowns—thin, thin clips covered with thousands of glistening brilliants.

One of them would shine resplendently on a black or colored evening gown as something very decorative, but inside the knowing gal has enough powder for an evening and a flat powder puff before she snaps it together and fastens it securely to her neckline.

Sports models in silver, gold, and colored enamel can ride, play tennis, sail a boat, and walk the dog and still be a practical aid for a shiny face, as well as a sports costume accent. Tiny designs—a scottie, a steering wheel of a ship, and a riding crop—decorate the colored enamel tops of these very clever thin things that masquerade as clips.

Heart Clinics Accept More Cases in Year

The need for clinics for cardiacs has increased greatly in the last year, Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive director of the Chicago Heart association informed members attending the annual meeting last night in the Piccadilly Studios, 410 South Michigan avenue.

"Cases of heart disease given clinical care last year total 7,902, an increase of 30 per cent over 1931," Mrs. Britton said. "Tonsil clinics are still overburdened and operations must be scheduled months in advance. There is a need for increased free dental service. In the next year there will be more demands than ever for heart clinics, and for tonsil and dental clinics which help in the prevention of heart disease."

Dr. Robert B. Preble, president of the association, revealed that in 1922 there were no convalescent beds for heart sufferers. However, the beds now are almost wholly for women, girls, and boys under 12, and there is no place for the older boys and the men who are cardiacs.

Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association, and Dr. Henry Niblack, head of the child welfare department of the city board of health, both praised the Chicago Heart association.

"We know that many heart cases get entirely well," Miss Foley said. "We are beginning to see hearts hopefully as organs of the human body which when given the right kind of care, perform normally."

Dr. Robert A. Black, medical director of the La Rabida sanitarium recently completed in Jackson park, called attention to the similarity between the symptoms of rheumatism, often a forerunner of heart disease, and tuberculosis, and urged not only doctors and nurses but the public in general become rheumatism-conscious.

The last consignment of heart stamps, the sales of which help to finance the work of the heart association, went into the mail last night. The drive for funds will close on Valentine's day.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

A GRISLY THREAT.

"Mornin'," greeted "Smiling" Joe Winters, reporter on the Leadville Press, as he breezed into the office of Gen. [Hard-Boiled] McConnell, commanding the troops enforcing martial law. "What are you going to do about that mysterious package you received this morning?"

A cold look came into the steel blue eyes of the soldier.

"Do those damn Reds seriously think I can be intimidated by any such threats as that!" he demanded.

"Well, they know your reputation, general, but after all——"

"Just a minute, Winters," he interrupted, turning to some papers on his desk.

Earlier that morning as McConnell sat alone in his office a mail package had been delivered to him containing a freshly amputated human finger to which the following note was attached:

THIS BELONGED TO A CLOSE FRIEND OF YOURS. EACH DAY, UNTIL YOU RELEASE STERNBERG, WE WILL SEND YOU PART OF HIS BODY—UNTIL YOU HAVE IT ALL! (Signed) THE WORKERS.

Keeping his own counsel he had put the package into a drawer intending to look into the matter later. But why delay? He'd settle it now. The general knew that Sternberg, communistic leader, was responsible for the appalling conditions in the mining community and as long as he was in charge in the bullpen Sternberg would stay, despite writs, court orders, or threats!

Suddenly he arose, opened the door and bellowed, "Sergeant! Arrest Winters and throw him into solitary! What the hell do those Reds think I am," he muttered as Sheriff Joe Fordney stepped in.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town and sends Bart help and taxies home. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived on the island fifteen years, but don't mix. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, died suddenly from a heart attack. Bart is left with the care of his invalid mother. The family lawyer gives Bart a letter left for him by his father, in which he confesses to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his mother's sake to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. He returns two weeks later with the legacy. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. He spends a week-end at the island. Bart realizes he loves Alice, but couldn't marry her.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

A DISREGARDED DANGER SIGN.

"Well, Gardy," Alice mocked, "you'll have to admit that I can swim. When you take me to Wyattville——"

"If I was as crazy about Wyattville as you are," Bart laughed, "I wouldn't be here letting you beat me to a frazzle."

"You'll have to come here a lot," she said. "Guardians usually have long white beards, don't they? And what are you going to let me do with my allowance when I get it?"

"Buy candy. Lots of candy."

"The kind they sell in Port England?" with an impudent grimace across the inlet.

There was a great deal of this flippant play, and Bart should have been relieved, seeing the course of duty he had marked out for himself. But her mood disturbed him, drew him to her as surely as her languid eyes had last night.

In the shadow of the rocks they lay relaxed on the honey colored sands. The background was like one of Dore's fancied views of Paradise. The faintly violet cliffs, reeded gracefully upward, supported the lawless revolt of foliage, passionate as summer; palmy locusts, wild honeysuckle, grapevines that swung down in great garlands, pagan and heavy.

Lora in an athletic mood always reminded Bart of somebody in the chorus, swinging a property racquet in time with the orchestra.

"I'm what I am," said her sleepy voice.

"Nothing should happen to change you," he replied, delightfully lost to the bleak world of reality.

"What are you trying to tell me?" she asked, her still gaze never moving from his face.

An agony went through him. He had to clutch his hands to keep from reaching out toward her.

"I want you so," he muttered.

"That's all right." Just lying there, motionless, unresisting.

Then his voice was harsh as a file. "But I can't. God, that's the trouble."

"Trouble?" She half sat up, an arm supporting her. "But you just said——"

"Nothing makes any sense." He was all hunched up, his fingers weaving in his hair. "Alice, don't ask me here any more. Don't——"

"I didn't ask you." She had come to her knees, was rising.

"I don't mean it that way—please try to understand me. Alice, where are you going?"

"Mother will want me to help with lunch." And she went over to the canoe.

But he didn't stay for lunch. With many lame excuses he shook hands with Mrs. Bayley and plodded back to the speedboat that had brought him there. Bart Burgess, the desperate brain that guided it, peered along the course, blind as a man intent on suicide. Folly island faded in his wake, vanished with his own confused resolve never to set foot on it again.

If Bart Burgess, suddenly frightened of the fire he had aroused, had seen the danger sign written over Folly island, he saw no warning in the round, dark eyes of pretty Lora Sackett. As an open spring pushed its way into sultry July he found her useful, more as a counter irritant than a soothing sirup. It was so easy to slip into a closer companionship with Lora. She made it effortless for him. There was no calm in her. Rather the restlessness of an engaging Irish terrier barking after one trail, then another, not caring which so long as it kept up the excitement.

And she had foresworn Ingy Warren. "Tied a bottle to his tail," she said. But of course, was Bart's reservation, she'll untie that bottle whenever she gets good and ready. Or possibly Ingy has provided the bottle and the string.

They were playing tennis that day, a hot afternoon with the breath of gardens falling too sweetly over the court. Lora in an athletic mood always reminded Bart of somebody in the chorus, swinging a property racquet in time with the orchestra. Her tennis, as tennis, was so far beneath contempt that he wondered why he endured it. But he did, and it gave him an odd amusement, like teaching arithmetic to a naughty, charming child.

She stopped in the middle of a set—that was her way—and straightened the bandeau around her bright hair.

"Bart, give me a cigaret. You know I'm improving, and don't be hateful."

He found his case and while she was selecting a cigaret, fussily, as though one could be different from another, he said, "You'd certainly give Bill Tilden a sprained ankle."

"Let's go up to the porch," she panted, "and drink lemonade. I wonder why sports—taking them seriously, I mean—make such stinkers out of some people."

She ran in the house and came out again, washed, powdered, and hatted, a little before the lemonade arrived. She must have been tired, for she sat silent for nearly four minutes. They were overlooking Mrs. Burgess' formal garden; the ornamental pool caked with lily pads, the artfully laid flagstones with sprigs of Japanese grass showing between, the sleekly trimmed box borders, and in the background the well ordered bravery of delphinium, of tall stalked lilies, and of purple aconite in slim cathedral spires.

And through it all, a slow moving body, came Aunt Augusta Forrester on her curiously flat heels; sheepishly followed a puffy little cotton dog. Save the dog, everything about her was large—her face, her figure, her rhythmic undulations.

"Come, Hero, dear. No, no, naughty!" cautioned the large voice. Aunt Augusta picked up the fluffy trifle and undulated toward the porch.

"Well, somebody always drops in to make the party go," murmured Lora, and rose respectfully.

"How do you do, Lora," began Aunt Augusta, shifting Hero and offering a big, wide hand. Her voice was heavy with measured syllables. "Barton, the lemonade looks very refreshing." He rang for another glass, and a porch chair creaked under Aunt Augusta.

She didn't approve of Lora, and her look said so. Yet in her calm brown eyes there was an acknowledgment of what the countryside, when it took the trouble to gossip, was saying about Lora and Bart. They were certainly together a great deal. And nobody objected to the match, if they didn't.

Homely Girl Writes to Doris for Her Advice

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What chances has a homely girl, these days, with so many pretty girls around? I am 17 and a very homely girl. I'm never asked out and it is a miserable life to lead, believe me. Just work, stay home nights, eat and sleep and work again. ODD ONE."

Assume that you are as homely as you think, "Odd One," haven't you read confessions of young women who surmounted this obstacle most successfully? There have been a number of them in magazine form.

The chances are that you are not as homely as you think! You're probably comparing yourself with especially favored young women. But granted that you are all you say, are you doing anything about improving your looks? It does not seem that there is a beauty liability left that modern beauty methods cannot cope with. If you're overweight or underweight you can make a marvelous improvement in your silhouette if you make up your mind to it.

Your hair, your eyes, your skin are all items that can be greatly improved upon.

In fact, it is commonplace for girls to make themselves over completely from the ugly duckling to the lovely swan, or, if not, to a beautiful swan at least into a very attractive young woman. However, this is never going to be accomplished unless you WILL your looks are going to be different.

But to get back to your question about a homely girl's chances. A look around among married women groups would indicate plainly that beauty isn't nearly the marriage asset you suppose.

Isabel Zehr, Spry Give Joint Recital; Garden to Sing Here

BY EDWARD MOORE.

For the sake of those whom the storm kept away from Kimball hall last night, Isabel Zehr and Walter Spry will repeat the joint recital on the evening of Feb. 21. Tickets bought for last night will be honored on the future date.

There are several reasons, and not all of them commercial, why this is a good thing to do. Mrs. Zehr and Mr. Spry were reported to have had a large advance sale, it is true, but it is also true that they presented an excellent program before those whom the weather did not keep at home. Mr. Spry, a pianist of long experience and wide sympathies, was heard in a group by MacDowell, MacFadyen, and Brahms which he played with a broad, firm touch, logical treatment, and attractive, mannerly style. He later played a group which contained works by Chopin and Liszt, and also such moderns as the Italian Respighi and the Norwegian Hurum.

Mrs. Zehr likewise presented two groups. The first, in German, consisted of Wagner's "Schmerzen," two songs by Hugo Wolf, and two more by Richard Trunk. The second, in English, contained the names of Quilter, Samuels, Chamberlain, and Snodgrass. Her voice is of dramatic brilliancy and power, and she sang as a well trained musician should.

Mary Garden is coming back to Chicago for a week of public appearances. Beginning Friday, Feb. 17, the former star of the Chicago Opera and for one year its general director will appear on the programs of the Chicago theater, which will constitute another item in her national tour of the large picture theaters. She has been appearing at the Capitol theater, New York, and it is indicated that her program will be the same that she presented there.

for Girls, however, dismissed their pupils shortly after noon.

Make Plans for Winter Sports.

The cold weather of Sunday and Monday set every one who is interested in ice skating to thinking of winter sports carnivals—all the clubs have been trying to plan them for several weeks—but yesterday's snow made the prospects of there being any skating very soon seem rather doubtful.

The Indian Hill club had planned a skating party for the "grownups" tomorrow night with nice hot oyster stew afterward in the clubhouse in front of a big log fire, but it may develop that it will have to be turned into an indoor party with dancing, bridge and backgammon as the entertainment.

A fancy costume ice carnival for the children is scheduled for Saturday.

The Winter club in Lake Forest which postponed its carnival last week hopes to be able to stage it this Saturday, but no one will venture to give any definite information about it until Friday for the weather and ice are not dependable enough to be counted on.

Another Lake Forest romance and the second in the Trowbridge family to be made public since last summer! Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Miller Trowbridge are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to Edward Arpee, son of Mrs. Stephan T. Arpee of Athens, O. Miss Trowbridge, the elder of the Trowbridges' two daughters, attended the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry and Smith college, class of 1925.

Mr. Arpee was graduated from Princeton in 1922 and later attended the Princeton Theological seminary. He is a master at the Lake Forest academy, teaching history and mathematics. No date for the wedding has been set. The engagement of Miss Trowbridge's brother, Cornelius M. Trowbridge Jr., to Miss Catherine Foster Crane of Boston was announced last September by her father, Joshua Crane.

Dinner Tomorrow for Nicolsons.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster is entertaining at dinner tomorrow night for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nicolson (the Hon. Victoria Sackville-West), who will return to Chicago to spend the week end in Lake Forest with the John P. Kelloggs.

In spite of rumors and even published reports to the contrary, Miss Ethel Dixon is not going to turn professional, for, as she said yesterday, "I don't want to and if I did my family wouldn't let me." But she will continue as an amateur singer and dancer to entertain for her friends and at charity affairs—she has been most generous this winter, her first year "out," in giving her services as an entertainer—and this morning she will give the program at the third of the Tiffin musicals which the senior board of the Cradle society sponsors at the Cradle in Evanston.

Miss Edna Doering was to have sung this morning also, but because of a recent illness she is not feeling up to it.

Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr. is giving a small luncheon next Tuesday for Miss Eleanor Litsinger, whose engagement to Eugene Cary Jr. was announced two weeks ago.

Colin Campbells Take Apartment.

The Colin Leiter Campbells hated to see the blizzard yesterday for they feared it might delay their moving day and they are counting so hopefully on its being one day the end of this week. They have been at the Ambassador East since coming to Chicago several weeks ago and they have taken an apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue into which they are going to install the furnishings that Mrs. Campbell had in New York where she lived for the last five years.

Mrs. Heaton Owsley, who has been staying at the Ambassador hotel, is leaving today for New York to see her daughter, Mrs. Paul Bartlett. After her visit in New York Mrs. Owsley has no definite plans except that she will spend the next four or five years traveling. Perhaps she will be back in Chicago for a week or two this summer and then go abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Spencer are back from a trip to White Sulphur Springs and New York. Mrs. Spencer's sister, Mrs. Allen Kempe, and her husband are still in Arizona, and the date for their return is indefinite.

The Edison Dicks have no plans for any travels in the near future; in fact, Mrs. Dick says she thinks they are in Lake Forest permanently now since they have added a beautiful blonde baby girl—she is just six weeks old—to their family. They have named the baby Marion after Mrs. Dick's mother and sister, Mrs. Ezra J. Warner and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr.

Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman sailed Saturday to spend two months in Italy with her sister, Mrs. Benedict Carter. Mr. Freeman will join her later and make the return trip with her.

Mrs. John Gray Seller, the former Helen Shimmin, returned yesterday afternoon to visit her mother, Mrs. Robert P. Shimmin, while Mr. Seller is in California. Because of business the Sellers have been traveling about during the last year.

Mrs. Cyrus Edson Manierre of Lake Forest will leave about the 24th of this month for abroad.

Getz Reports Fine Fishing.

A wire from George F. Getz yesterday announced ideal weather and fine fishing. Immediately after the wedding of his son, George F. Getz Jr., to Miss Olive Atwater the end of January, Mr. Getz left for a month of tarpon fishing in the Florida keys. He is living on a houseboat and has as his guests Dr. A. R. Metz, who accompanied him on his African trip, and Frank Druly.

The young Getzes will return from a southern honeymoon within the next fortnight and make their home temporarily at the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Edward Roach is opening her residence at 199 Ravine drive, Highland Park, this afternoon for a tea and musical for alumnae of the Mortar Board of the University of Chicago. Herbert Thomas, pianist, will present a program of modern music, and Miss Mary Foster will sing.

Mrs. William D. Kirkpatrick, president of the Evanston-North Shore club, yesterday invited the board members of the club and the Chicago club for luncheon Friday noon at her home, 102 Keeney avenue, Evanston.

Mrs. Karl Vittum left Chicago yesterday to attend the annual council meetings at Mount Holyoke college, where she was graduated.

Mrs. Harry E. Belford, who has charge of the kindergarten the Sunbeam league supports at the Cook county hospital, has invited the league's board members to a "smorgasbord" luncheon Friday noon at the Fairfax hotel. Miss Virginia Erlandson is president of the board.

On Monday the league's social chairman, Mrs. Otto L. Mast, will entertain the board at luncheon at the South Shore Country club. Plans for the league's card party April 18 will be discussed.

The new officers of the Visiting Nurse association are: President, Mrs. George A. Ranney; 1st vice president, Mrs. James C. Hutchins; 2d vice president, Mrs. M. N. Rothschild; recording secretary, Mrs. George R. Nichols; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed, and treasurer, Mrs. George E. Throop.

Print for Street Dress

Praise Show

From the beef capital of the world to a premier position as a style show center on this continent—that was the opinion expressed yesterday among the 12,000 commercial visitors here for the spring market. The industry and versatility of the merchants of the city, it was generally conceded, have definitely established this metropolis as the focal point for buyers from a radius staggering in its extent.

More retail store owners and department heads attended the mammoth fashion parade of the Interstate Merchants' Council at the Hotel Sherman last night. For the second successive evening the huge room was crowded to overflowing, despite the blizzard and the near zero temperature. And enthusiasm was abroad for the event which has been built up in the last few years until it is now the most extravagant production of a style show in the country.

Tonight the third section of the visitors, approximating 3,000, will see the final performance of the parade of spring styles, produced under the direction of Oney A. Fink, assisted by Miss Mari Floto.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented weekly by Miss Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 Saturday morning for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Monday beef, Tuesday veal, today lamb and mutton, and tomorrow pork. As you see, we're not trying to go into cups and spoonfuls, recipes and such in this brief four day meat review. The aim is to freshen up our memories on the cuts that really are in the meat market eager to be called upon, on how to tell good meat from poor, and a bit in general about the methods of cooking different families and cuts of meat to get the happiest results.

Here in America the smart hostess serves lamb. In England she does the honors with mutton. The exceptions prove the rule. The difference, naturally, lies in the youth of the animal. We like them as youngsters, so around 90 per cent of ovine or muttor animals here are marketed as lamb. The English turn the tables and let the lambs play about till they are a bit more grown up in flavor. There is little difference in the method of cutting up lamb and mutton.

LEG—This is a familiar piece with excellent quality meat of a good solid texture. Out of it come cuts for roasting and steaks for broiling.

LOIN—This section, as usual, lies between the leg and the ribs and offers the best quality meat in the whole carcass. From it we may have loin roast kidney or loin chops, with the methods of cooking either roasting or broiling.

RACK—This corresponds to the rib chops in a larger animal and is used in just the same way. It has to offer such treats as rib and French chops. Or if both sides of the rack are used, the ribs from both sides may be curved backward and fastened together to form a crown roast.

CHUCK—This is sometimes known as the shoulder and should be tender and excellently flavored. It may be used for stewing, braising, or roasting.

BREAST—This cut adapts itself to roasting and is often stuffed. It also makes a good stew piece. There's quite a bit of bone present and it is not as desirable a piece as the loin or leg.

FLANK—Another stew favorite. Considerable connective tissue calls for cooking in moist rather than dry heat.

Now for marketing lamb or mutton. Lamb has some of the same characteristics as has veal. The bones are porous and slightly pink when broken. They may even be still soft or cartilaginous at the ends. Another way to tell lamb from a yearling or older mutton animal is by what is known as the "break joint." If the lamb is young, the fore feet may be broken off, showing four clearly defined ridges that are like bones—pink, porous, and somewhat moist. As the lamb becomes a yearling, the foot still breaks at the joint, but the ridges have taken on hard, whitish look. In the mutton stage, the joint will no longer break.

Lamb flesh is a pale pink, considerably less gray than veal. Mutton, on the other hand, is quite a dark pink in color. Mutton fat is very hard: lamb fat less hard, but still firm and whitish.

Actually, though some cuts roast better than others, it is possible to cook any part of the lamb by this method. As a rule, the cuts which have considerable bone in them—the breast and shoulder, are boned, rolled, and then roasted as usual.

Lamb is another of the meats which is properly roasted uncovered, without added water. Veal, as we said yesterday, is the only meat which should be covered in oven cooking. Leg of lamb is one of our most typical roasting pieces and there has always been much discussion over the leaving on or the taking off of the fell—the thin tough covering on the outside. Some people suspect this of giving an undesirable flavor to the meat, but if the roasting goes forward properly there should be no complaints on that score. In fact, the fell keeps the leg in shape and speeds up the cooking when left on.

For roasting, place the leg of lamb with the cut side up and the skin side down on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear for half an hour at 480 degrees F. [hot oven], and then roast until tender in a 260 degree oven.

Youngster of 2 'Sizes Up' His Mother Neatly

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A friend of mine told me this tale of an unconscious rebuke once given to a friend of hers by her 2 year old son. I thought it might amuse you, so here it is. If you find a moral, well and good. I shan't say whether I do or not.

"It was a cold winter night and the tiny new sister had awakened for her midnight feeding. The room in which Jane and her two children slept was very large and had many windows. They were living with Jane's mother and in addition to the regular heat, Grandma Smith had placed there an oil heater to be used when Jane was obliged to be up with the new baby.

"Suddenly, up popped Brother's blond head, his big brown eyes opened wide and he smiled his most winning smile.

"'I want to get up, too,' he whispered. He had been taught to whisper when the baby was in her crib.

"'No, Brother dear,' said his mother, 'It's too cold for you. Snuggle down in your nice warm bed and I'll sing about the owl and the pussy cat.'

"The prospect of hearing his favorite song failed to please. 'I want to get up,' he insisted. 'You can wrap me up warm and I can sit in the big chair.'

"'No,' said Jane again, 'lie down and go to sleep again. As soon as baby has her supper I'm going to bed.'

"Brother began to look very tearful.

"'O well, what harm will it do to let him sit up a few minutes? He'll go right off to sleep again,' thought his mother. So she wrapped him in a blanket and put him in the big chair.

"Then came the big surprise! 'O you funny little mother,' said this wise 2 year old, 'first you say no and then you say yes.'

"It was a very thoughtful Jane that gazed at the discerning infant emitting such words."

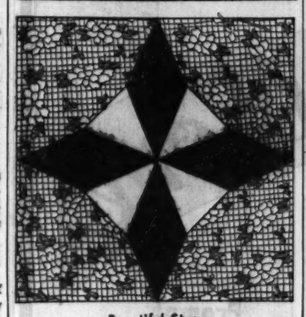
'Beautiful Star' Provides Striking Design for Quilt



Beautiful Star.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The "Beautiful Star" quilt pattern is fitly named, even though it is exceedingly simple.

The background, as illustrated, is of a perky printed fabric. These printed blocks are pieced together, making an all over design. The contrast of the star, in plain colors, against the background is so striking as to give the appearance of projection and solidity.

For a pattern of the "Beautiful Star" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Lelong Sponsors Knitted Sleeves for Utility Dress

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—One of the prettiest and smartest practical frocks that Paris has produced for early spring is a Lucien Lelong dress that has knitted sleeves and scarf in a bright striped pattern. Knitted details are one of the leading signs of chic, and if you know how to wield your knitting needles you can do wonders in bringing some of your winter frocks up to spring fashions by adding details in tricot.

The Lelong dress with knitted, striped sleeves is shown here. The dress, itself, is made of a Rodier lacy jersey in black. It is sleeveless with little shelves jutting out beyond the shoulders in a jaunty way. These shelves are part of the raglan side yokes that are a feature of the dress. The seams rise in points and curves, to make a little irregular piece at the front of the round neck. There is a plain leather belt with a silver buckle.

The sleeves are not joined to the frock, but to a silk under bodice, and they are black, green, beige, and orange in color, and are plaited. They end in plaited, knitted frills at the wrists.

The knitted scarf comes in stripes in the same colors as the sleeves and is worn knotted about the neck any way you like.

can be both easy and convenient. For baking with Rumford demands little care or attention! Rumford always does 100% of its job toward making cakes and hot breads perfect. It leaves you free to do other things.
Without help or care Rumford Two-to-One leavening takes place at the right time, in the right place, and in the right amount. Two-thirds always occurs in the mixing and one-third always takes place in the oven.
You can leave Rumford dough or batter in the ice box over night. The long wait won't harm it. Or you can mix quickly, even roughly, and put your bake directly in the oven. It will turn out superior results just the same.
Work around the stove as much as you care to. It won't make any difference. Your Rumford bake will always rise the right amount to assure perfect results.

THOUSANDS DAILY ENTER CONTEST FOR FAIR QUEEN

10 More Girls to Be Named for Prizes Sunday.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Rainbow's end will be reached on Sunday by ten more charming girls. Photographs of ten entrants in the contest for Queen of the Fair, conducted by sixteen newspapers, will be printed in the rotogravure section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE and ten more checks for $100 each will be mailed to the girls chosen. Everybody's entering—from those living in Gold Coast mansions to dwellers in modest hall bedrooms, from university sorority houses to factory workrooms.

It pays to be prompt if you want to be among the recipients of one of these weekly checks for $100 each. Every group reproduced in the Sunday editions means ten fewer chances and $1,000 less remaining of the $10,000 total of preliminary prize money to be given out in ten weeks. By Sunday three weeks and thirty chances and $3,000 will be gone. Seven weeks remain. Seventy more chances. Seven thousand dollars. Mail your picture today—or your daughter's, or your best girl's—for a chance at part of it.

$10,000 in Top Prizes.

All this is merely a curtain raiser, remember, to the main competition. An equal amount of prize money—another $10,000—remains to be divided between the three most charming girls elected from among all those whose photographs are submitted.

One girl is to receive the title of queen, a check for $5,000, and the right to rule over the opening ceremonies of the Century of Progress exposition.

Two girls nominated by the board of eight judges will divide between them the remaining $5,000 of prize money, second place and third place carrying checks for $3,000 and $2,000, respectively, together with a place in the queen's court.

All three girls will be among the final 51 who will be brought to Chicago in person—provided they are not Chicago residents—for the personal selection of the judges. These include the cartoonist, John T. McCutcheon; two feminine artists of reputation, Mrs. Pauline Palmer and Mrs. Howard Ellis; Mrs. Howard Linn, noted for her taste and personal beauty, and four other widely known patrons of the arts, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. R. R. McCormick, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, and Wallace Kirk.

Thousands Enter Daily.

Already the daily average of the photographs submitted from all corners of the world has reached into the thousands. It is growing constantly. The earlier a girl is entered the better are her opportunities for capturing one of the weekly preliminary prizes. No restrictions have been made except as to married women and professional beauties—those with stage experience, or artists' models.

A coupon is printed daily that may be clipped to accompany the photograph. There are no other conditions to be observed—no fee to pay, no subscriptions to sell.

AUDIT CHARGES ILLEGAL LEVIES BY WEST PARKS

Shows Double Taxation for Bond Issues.

Illegal taxes have been assessed against property owners in the west park district, according to the suppressed Rossetter audit, copies of which were received yesterday by the new commissioners appointed by Gov. Horner.

The audit report declares that numerous tax levies were unjustified, that a $2,000,000 bond issue was sold and spent without right or reason, and that the commissioners under former President W. R. James used for other purposes cash collections that should have been applied to redemption of tax anticipation warrants.

Other sections of the audit previously showed that the park commissioners borrowed promiscuously from special funds for pay roll and operating expenses. They showed also that the commissioners paid for lobbying expenses at Springfield and that the floral conservatory was designated as a "museum" so an additional $200,000 a year could be extracted from the taxpayers. Another discovery was that "back pay" cost the west park taxpayers more than $20,000 last year.

Find Duplications in Levies.

The Rossetter report states that duplications in bond and interest tax levies have been made during recent years as follows:

Year.	Amount.
1927	$333,900
1928	363,000
1931	179,662
1932	1,875
Total	$878,437

"These duplicated levies apparently were caused by the commissioners having disregarded the additions made to their levies by the county clerk to provide for current maturities of principal and interest on new bond issues," the report read.

"Collections from these excess levies were used for corporate purposes. As a result of this practice, bond and interest coupons were permitted to go into default, although sufficient amounts of taxes were collected to meet all maturities thereof."

Fund Should Have Surplus.

The report adds that due to the excess levies in the amount of $696,900 a surplus should exist in the bond fund. Nevertheless the commissioners have levied taxes for alleged deficiencies for a total of $432,061, regarding which the Rossetter report says: "In our opinion there is no justification for these 'deficiency' taxes. It is obvious that no deficiencies existed."

Unless action is taken to cancel that extra tax levied by the board under former President James, the taxes collected for 1931 and 1932 for corporate purposes will be all out of proportion, the audit says. A table showing the total tax for corporate purposes for 1929 and 1930 compared with the estimated tax for 1931 and 1932, is as follows:

	Levy.	Increase over 1929.
1929	$2,037,388	.....
1930	2,531,547	$494,158
1931	2,449,779	412,390
1932	2,639,553	602,164

In June, 1930, the legislature authorized the west park board to issue $2,000,000 of bonds for maintaining and improving parks, boulevards, and pleasureways and the approval of the voters was not needed. The bonds were sold and the proceeds deposited to credit of the corporate or pay roll fund. Regarding the bond proceeds, the Rossetter report says:

"It appears that any amounts expended for permanent improvements were comparatively small."

Show How Funds Were Spent.

A table prepared to show that the commissioners did not use tax collections to redeem anticipation warrants is shown in the report as follows:

1929.

Taxes extended	$3,634,823
Tax anticipation warrants issued	3,000,000
Cash collections to July 3, 1932	2,591,326
Tax anticipation warrants retired:
Principal	1,888,000
Interest	182,701
Total	$2,070,701
Excess of cash collections over warrants retired and interest thereon	$ 520,435

1930.

Taxes extended	$4,361,347
Tax anticipation warrants issued	2,390,950
Cash collections to July 31 1932	2,146,900
Tax anticipation warrants retired:
Principal	1,881,000
Interest	179,974
Total	$2,060,974
Excess of cash collections over warrants retired and interest thereon	$ 84,025

The warrant issue for 1929 was in excess of the statutory limitation of 75 per cent of the tax levy, the audit report declares, and regarding the diversion of over $500,000 from the tax, the Rossetter report states:

"Such action by the commissioners seems to us to be a direct violation of the statute."

How the 1929 tax warrants still outstanding are ever to be redeemed is a problem for the new board, of which Harry Joseph is president.

The new board was scheduled to meet yesterday, but owing to the blizzard the meeting was postponed until later this evening.

COLDS GO THROUGH 3 STAGES!

And They are Far Easier Stopped in the First than in the Second or Third!

A cold ordinarily passes through three stages—the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief is twice as easy in the first stage.

For prompt relief take a couple of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine immediately upon catching cold. This will usually expel the cold overnight and thus prevent the spread of the infection within your system.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. Kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful. May be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is absolutely no penalty attached to its use. For more than 40 years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Get yourself a package today and be ready for any cold that may come along. Say "NO" to a substitute!

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to keep your system immune.

HUNDREDS RACE FOR SILVER SKATES TONIGHT

ARLINGTON WILL INSTALL NEW BETTING DEVICE

Totalisator Shows All Wagers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7.—The Arlington Park Jockey club of Chicago will introduce the Australian totalisator at its summer meeting next July, it was reported here today.

Roy Carruthers, general manager of the Arlington Park track, who has been here for ten days studying the operation of the totalisator betting system, left last night for Chicago. Before he departed he was in conference with John Hertz, chairman of the Arlington executive committee; Charles McCulloch, chairman of the board of directors; Joe McLennan, the Arlington racing secretary; Warren Wright, member of the executive committee, and a number of other Arlington stockholders.

Introduced Year Ago.

It was decided at this conference, according to reports heard tonight, that the Arlington Jockey club will adopt the system of totalisator wagering that is now in use at the Hialeah Park track.

This will mean that Arlington Park will be the only track outside of Hialeah Park in the United States where the system will be in use.

The totalisator was introduced at Hialeah Park a year ago. It operated fairly well during last winter's meeting. Many improvements were made on the big machine and this year it has registered accurately the betting odds at every stage of the wagering. It is seldom more than two or three cents away from the actual payoff on a horse.

Discuss Stake Plans.

It is understood here that the work of installing the totalisator system, which is operated by electricity, will begin early in the spring and will be complete and thoroughly tested several weeks before the Arlington summer season starts.

During his visit here Carruthers also discussed the stake race program for the Arlington season. Last year Arlington presented the richest array of stakes in the world. Some retrenchment will be made, it was decided at the conference held here, but persons close to the officials of Chicago's noted north side track said it would be only in keeping with the times, and that Arlington probably again will distribute in 1933 more money in stakes and purses than any other track in the world.

Carruthers will announce the date for the closing of the Arlington stakes after he arrives in Chicago, he told a number of leading horsemen here.

Illinois Beats St. Louis U. Quintet, 26-19

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Led by Frank Froschauer, whose seven points in the first few minutes of the second half provided the margin of victory, Illinois' basketball team defeated St. Louis university tonight, 26 to 19.

St. Louis had gone into the lead, 9 to 8, just before the close of the first half on John Flanagan's long shot, but Froschauer started to work with the opening of the second period and gave the Illini a lead which they never relinquished. The Billikens threatened several times but effective defensive work by the Illini choked off each rally.

Roy Guttschow, sophomore forward, made his first appearance in the Illinois lineup, replacing Cas Bennett. The lineup:

Is Wethered an Amateur, or —? British Wonder

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The vexatious question as to whether Joyce Wethered, whom Bobby Jones once termed the world's greatest living golfer, is still an amateur has now arisen through the announcement that she has taken a job as golf adviser to customers frequenting the fashionable Piccadilly shop. She will start in two weeks.

Miss Wethered will advise the patrons on the selection of golfing costumes and clubs. Special nets have been erected to enable her to demonstrate pitch shots. As a result the Ladies' Golf union does not know whether she is still an amateur or not.

The same rules which govern men amateurs apply to women in Great Britain. Therefore there is a probability that the L. G. U. will place her case before Royal and Ancient St. Andrews, the supreme governing body of British golf.

Women's golf rules allow a woman to teach the game and remain an amateur, providing she is a school teacher chiefly devoted to instructing pupils in athletics. But at the same time the L. G. U. recognizes the Royal and Ancient definition that an amateur golfer is one who has not received any consideration for playing or teaching the game or "because of skill as a golfer has not received salary or remuneration either directly or indirectly from any firm dealing in goods relating to the playing of the game."

At the same time Miss Wethered's status is probably causing her no worry whatever. She has retired from competitive golf a number of times because of her distaste for crowds. She has already held the British ladies' open championship, meaning the one open to foreign competition, four times, and has won the British mixed foursome title six times.

She is known chiefly in America for her brilliant defeat of Glenna Collett at St. Andrews in 1929 in the final match on the 25th green. She came out of retirement last summer to lead the British team against the Americans at Wentworth, winning the singles, but losing the foursome match.

Doctors Give Up All Hope for Corbett

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The passing of James J. [Gentleman Jim] Corbett, conqueror of John L. Sullivan and past master of boxing, was awaited here tonight.

All hope for the recovery from heart disease of the former heavyweight champion has been abandoned by his physician, Dr. G. Willard Dickie. Dr. Dickie, however, could not set a limit on the life of his patient.

Still Able to Talk.

"His condition is such that he might go at any time," Dr. Dickie said, "or linger a week or even a month."

It was said at the Corbett home in Bayside, Queens, that despite the gravity of his condition he so far has successfully combated coma and is able to talk to the few visitors allowed in his room. It was reported that Corbett is also suffering from cancer, but this could not be confirmed.

One of the great figures of an anxious sports world allowed access to the one time ring king was John J. McGraw, former manager of the New York Giants. McGraw spent several minutes talking to his old friend, and as he left said;

"Corbett is making a great fight for life, and if gameness counts he will win."

Has Fighting Heart.

According to doctors, Corbett is making a remarkably game fight for life, bringing into play the courage he pitted against Sullivan, Jim Jeffries, Tom Sharkey, and others of the ring great of another day.

PENNSYLVANIA BLUE LAW HALTS N. L. SCHEDULE

Await Passage of Sunday Bill for Final O. K.

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Unable to ratify a complete schedule, due to the possibility of Sunday baseball becoming legalized in Pennsylvania, club owners of the National league nevertheless occupied themselves for more than five hours at their annual schedule meeting in the Hotel Commodore today. They announced their opening day games, revealed several of the innovations that are to appear when the schedule is released and disposed of numerous other sundry matters.

The greatest innovation in the schedule, of course, will come when Sunday games are booked for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, but this is a matter that still awaits the outcome of action now pending in the Pennsylvania state legislature. However, the magnates appeared greatly cheered on being informed that the Sunday baseball bill already had passed the lower house.

Season Opens April 12.

The championship season, it was announced by President John A. Heydler, will open on April 12, with the following games scheduled:

New York at Boston; Brooklyn at Philadelphia; St. Louis at Chicago; and Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.

The season will close on Oct. 1, a week later than last year, but beyond this the owners were unable to commit themselves and so referred the schedule back to President Heydler, who will release it as soon as the outcome on the Pennsylvania Sunday baseball bill is made known.

Similar action already has been taken by the American league which is holding no schedule meeting this month, having decided to leave the matter entirely in the hands of President William Harridge, who will work in collaboration with President Heydler.

Promise Many Innovations.

Several innovations are promised in the schedule, however, regardless of whether Sunday baseball invades Pennsylvania or not. There is to be a decided curtailment of the sectional games in the east and west at the start of the season in order to bring about the intersectional games much earlier than heretofore.

In the National league the western teams will come east on May 2, eight days earlier than usual, and the eastern clubs will make their first western trip May 16, two weeks earlier.

By this arrangement it also will be possible for the fans of any of the eastern cities to see all the clubs in the circuit in action by May 14 and in the west by May 27.

Plan Moratorium for Minors.

There was considerable discussion on proposals for a sort of moratorium of eighteen months on minor league clubs debts to permit the revival of some defunct circuits, but while the owners appeared in a sympathetic mood no definite action was taken. Under present baseball law no new ownership can operate a franchise until all back debts or obligations have been met.

An amendment was adopted to the rule prohibiting bonus clauses in player contracts which now will also prevent any club dealing with its players contingent upon where the club finishes in the pennant race. Bonus offerings for exceptional playing achievements, such as batting above a certain mark or pitching so many victories, already has been outlawed for several years.

Change Waiver Dates.

A rule also was adopted by which waivers made after Sept. 1 shall remain effective until May 15. Those made after May 15 shall remain in effect 30 days and all waivers shall expire automatically on Sept. 1.

One change was made in the league's staff of umpires with the dropping of Charles Donnelly and the recalling of Ted McGrew from the International league. The staff will remain at ten.

Those who attended the meeting were Judge Emil Fuchs, Boston; William Veeck, Chicago; Gerald P. Nugent, Philadelphia; Charles A. Stoneham and James J. Tierney, New York; Sidney Weil, Cincinnati; Sam Watters, Pittsburgh; Stephen W. McKeever, Joseph Gilleaudeau, and James A. Mulvey, Brooklyn, and Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey, St. Louis.

Chicagoland Opens Golden Gloves Battle; C. Y. O. Enters 100 Boxers in West Section

J. P. I. Sends 20 Boys After District Championships.

One hundred amateur boxers, the majority of them in the novice division, will represent the Catholic Youth organization in the west section trials of the Golden Gloves tournament which opens Monday night at Guyon's Paradise ballroom. This list and other team entries which came in the last day on which west side entries were received has raised the list of amateurs for the west side to more than 400.

The exact number of entrants in the west section will not be known until today. It is a record, however, and surpasses the list of 269 who registered for last year's west side tournament. Among the last teams to enter were 20 boys from the Jewish Peoples' institute. Eighteen of the boys will fight in the novice division. The J. P. I. has made rapid strides in amateur boxing since the sport was included in their program a few years ago.

Among the most colorful individual boxers in the Open division of the west section is Segundo Olade, a Filipino. Olade is 24 years of age and a student. He intends to become a physical director when he completes his course of study.

Not only is this lad the C. Y. O. north side champion but he holds the flyweight and bantamweight title in the United States naval reserve. He lives at 2142 Warren boulevard.

The number of entries on the west side has made it necessary to use two rings on both nights at Guyon's Paradise. This is the first time in the history of Golden Gloves that two rings have been used in sectional competition, although the double arrangement has been in effect during the Tournament of Champions.

The large number of entries also will make it necessary in all probability to qualify two boys in each weight in the novice division for the final series of matches at the Stadium. If this program is adopted for the west side it will be extended to include the other sections.

This would bring 64 boys in the novice division to the Stadium Feb. 27. All would box that night. On Feb. 28 the 32 winners would meet. Then on March 1, the last night of the Tournament of Champions, the finals in the novice tournament would be held.

This program is tentative and will not be put into effect unless the total entries in all sections warrants.

The present arrangement in the open division of the Golden Gloves tournament will not be changed. Two boys in each weight in the west sectional trials [this will be the plan for the other sections] will qualify for the Tournament of Champions. This will give Chicago 64 boys to compete against the out of town championship teams.

Entries for the far south section, which will be held at 110th place and Michigan avenue, close tomorrow night. The far south tournament starts on Feb. 16.

George Holden, a lightweight who was runner-up in the 1931 Golden Gloves tournament, and who defeated his New York opponent in the intercity series, has entered the Joliet, Ill., sectional tournament. He will represent the Kane County Sporting and Athletic club. Sylvester Crawford, 147 pounds; Walter Matthys, 112 pounds, and William Treest, 160 pounds, are others from the same club in the Joliet section.

Treest was a welterweight alternate on last year's Golden Gloves team. He now has developed into one of the best middleweights in the central states. Treest recently won the 160 pound championship in the I. A. C. tournament and he's confident he'll win the diamond studded Golden Glove at the Stadium March 8. If he does he'll find plenty of opposition in the intercity battles, for Phil Dardell and Mark Hough are back again in the New York Daily News Golden Gloves tournament.

Letters will be mailed today to all boxers registered in the west section tournament. Information relative to reporting, equipment, physical examinations and referee's instructions are included. This is a new method to explain the operation of the tournament to the many novices who are fighting for the first time.

Letters also will be mailed later to all boys registered in the other sections.

FROM OVER SEAS

Segundo Olade, born in the Philippines, is seeking a Golden Gloves championship. He will fight in the west section trials opening Monday.

MAROONS, 1; AMERICANS, 0

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Aided by a penalty, the Montreal Maroons found one good opening in a tight New York defense tonight and defeated the Americans, 1 to 0, in a National Hockey league contest.

It took two flashy plays to bring the one goal. Earl Robinson lost a good chance for a score when Duke Dutkowski, American defense man, tripped him. Dutkowski was given a major penalty and while he was off Hooley Smith took Jimmy Ward's pass, reached around Red Dutton, and slammed a hard 25 foot shot into a lower corner of the cage.

A crowd of 11,500 persons saw Stub Carson put the Canadiens one goal ahead midway through the first period and Aurel Joliat clinch the victory with another score half way in the third session.

Strong Teams, Record Entries Reported in All Centers.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The amateur boxers in almost every part of Chicagoland this week are fighting their way on toward THE TRIBUNE's Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.

Tonight the Gary Post-Tribune begins the job of picking the steel city champions at Memorial auditorium in Gary. The make up of this team will be awaited with interest. Every year since Golden Gloves contests were introduced there has been a champion from Gary who has won a place on the Chicago team. Jack Kranz, the Tournament of Champions light heavyweight champion of two years ago, is fighting in the heavyweight division of the Gary meet.

Tomorrow night the Lafayette, Ind., Journal-Courier selects its team and it is sure to be an up and coming outfit, for all records were shattered in the number of entries and the boys who have reached the final round are the finest appearing band of amateur boxers ever brought together in that part of Indiana.

More Tourneys Tomorrow.

Early this week the Peoria Journal-Transcript and the Danville Commercial-News offered the first of the preliminary skirmishes which will lead up to the selection of the champions from those cities. The second round of preliminaries will be staged at Peoria tomorrow night, the semi-final round on Monday night and the final battles will be up for a decision on Tuesday night.

The Davenport Times, Indianapolis Times, and the Milwaukee edition of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will stage the first of their preliminary bouts tomorrow night, with their finals coming along a few days later.

The team which Grand Rapids will send to the Tournament of Champions will be selected on Friday night, when the Grand Rapids Press stages the finals of a tournament which has been a record breaker in every way. Attendance marks at the preliminaries have been shattered in Grand Rapids, the entry list was larger than ever before, and the eight lads who will come out of the fierce fighting as the titleholders in the eight divisions will be the best that ever represented Michigan.

Fight on Wide Front.

Next week the leather will begin to fly and the sizzle of knockout punches will be heard in many other parts of Chicagoland. From Fort Wayne and Cleveland in the east to Quincy, Davenport, Burlington, and Dubuque on the west, and from Nashville in the south to Green Bay in the north there will be terrific battling among the amateurs as they fight their way toward the Tournament of Champions and a TRIBUNE Golden Gloves championship.

The Daily Tennessean of Nashville will pick its team on the night of Feb. 24, it was announced last night. This will be the first team from below the Mason and Dixon line that has ever invaded the Tournament of Champions.

Golden Gloves tournament scouts have reported the entries for the Nashville tournament are among the finest ever assembled for a tournament in the outlying territory of Chicago.

"The best amateurs in the south will make up the Nashville team," the scouts write. "The boys in Chicago, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Ohio had better look out for them."

BOYS AND GIRLS DECIDE TITLES IN 7 DIVISIONS

La Follette Park Is Site of Derbies.

Silver Skates Facts

Place—La Follette park, Hirsch street, and Laramie avenue.

Numbers—Contestants will report between 4 and 6 p. m. at the fieldhouse.

Time of preliminaries — First qualifying race at 6:30 p. m.

Transportation—North avenue surface line to Laramie avenue, walk two blocks south; Central avenue bus to Hirsch street, walk four blocks east. [Laramie avenue is 5200 west; Hirsch street is 1400 north.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Silver Skates championships will be decided tonight at La Follette park, Hirsch street and Laramie avenue. The first preliminaries will start at 6:30. All contestants in the boys' intermediate class, men's senior and girls' junior and senior classes, must report between 4 o'clock and 6 for their racing numbers.

Decision to hold the Derbies tonight was made after the temperature dropped early last evening indicating that conditions would be favorable for skating. The forecast also promised that the blizzard would loosen its grip on Chicago today. A force of west parks workmen yesterday kept the flooded area at La Follette park comparatively free from snow. This morning they will clear the course and water will be sprayed over the surface.

Storm Causes Change.

The preliminaries in the three youngest boys' classes were held Monday night. At that time it was the plan to hold the remaining qualifying races and the seven championships last night, but rising temperatures, followed by the heaviest snowfall in several years, forced postponement for one evening.

Chicago's skaters have waited two years for the Silver Skates derbies. Beginning in 1917 the races had been held annually for 15 years and had become a climactic fixture on the skating program. In 1931 a record field of 4,900 registered for the derbies. Last year, when practically no meets were held, nearly that many boys and girls sent in their names for the races. Then this season, after an interim of two years, the entry list again was as large.

First Night Meet.

THE TRIBUNE felt it owed an obligation to these skaters. It believed that if the slightest opportunity were offered the derbies should be held. None of the preceding 15 Silver Skates championships had been decided at night, and without exception the lagoons in the larger parks had been the sites.

Last Saturday the first cold wave since December reached Chicago. Immediately it was determined to hold the Derbies. By midnight Saturday, through the coöperation of the fire department, the field at La Follette park was flooded. Electricians installed lights.

Big Field Tonight.

Eighty-six preliminaries and semi-finals were run off Monday night. Tonight an even greater field waits for the starter's gun. Boys 16 and 17, boys 13 years of age and over, and both divisions of girls will make their bid for titles. The field is divided as follows:

Boys' intermediate	793
Boys' senior	831
Girls' junior	264
Girls' senior	175
Total	2,063

To these skaters can be added the survivors in the championship races in the boys' classes which raced Monday night. Those eligible in the final derbies follow:

BOYS' MIDGET—H. Manderscheid, Nick Prendek, Fred Bartoli, Art Frantz, Edward Custeiny, Russell Peterson, Marvin Thomson and Roland Sobol.

BOYS' JUVENILE—Kenneth Kisselberg, Frank Vrtis, Joe Verbeke, Bud Sherman, B. Harfst, Charles Schultz, J. Jedeski, Davis Clark, Elmer Murose, and Chet Huberts.

BOYS' JUNIOR—Bernie Cannata, Harold Julius, Robert Sherman, C. Pachcuki, James Broeder, M. Folmer, George Lauer, Kenneth Gowan, Jack Grindle, John Burger, R. Heckenback, Alton Langen, John Weaver, and Jerome D'Hulit.

Silver Skates are the prizes in all seven derbies. Other pairs of skates are the awards for those finishing second and third in their divisions. Silver and bronze medals will be given to the fourth and fifth place skaters. The team which scores the most points will be awarded possession of the Walter Eckersall Memorial trophy for one year.

Here Are the Distances.

The championship derbies will be decided over the following distances unless the committee in charge decides to shorten the races:

Boys' midget—220 yards.
Boys' juvenile—440 yards.
Boys' junior—Half mile.
Boys' intermediate—One mile.
Men's senior—Two miles.
Girls' junior—Half mile.
Girls' senior—One mile.

Qualifying distance for tonight's preliminaries will be boys' intermediate, half mile; men's senior, one mile; girls' junior, 440 yards; girls' senior, half mile.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Algeria, the three year old filly which E. R. Bradley acquired from Joseph E. Widener, won the Indian River purse, feature at Hialeah Park here this afternoon, by defeating Mr. Widener's The Pelican, which has been a sharp disappointment as a two year old and now as a three year old.

The margin of victory was a head, with Idle Stefan two lengths away in third place.

The Pelican was made the favorite, as has been the case heretofore at this meeting, and once more he showed the way but failed to hold on when pressure was applied in the stretch. The dash was at six furlongs and the winner's time was 1:12 4-5.

Algeria carried 111 pounds, one more than was The Pelican's allowance, and she returned 5 to 2, being the third choice in the betting. Idle Stefan was the second choice. Back of the placed horses the order of finish was Pot au Brooms, Boy Crazy, Flying Sailor, and First One.

The victory of the daughter of John P. Grier and Jyntee gives her three in a row and a perfect record at this course.

METCALF UNABLE TO ATTEND "C" MEN'S MEETING

The "C" men, an organization of alumni who have won athletic letters at the University of Chicago, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Atlantic hotel to discuss the choice of a successor to A. A. Stagg, but Nelson T. Metcalf, new director of athletics, will not be present.

E. M. Libonati, chairman of the committee in charge of the meeting, yesterday received the following telegram from Metcalf at Ames, Ia.: "Would suggest you postpone meeting pending outcome of present negotiations." Libonati, however, had mailed invitations to 300 "C" men in the metropolitan district so it was decided to hold the meeting.

The committee had expected to urge upon Metcalf the selection of a Chicago alumnus for head football coach.

TWO MORE SOX SIGN — GASTON AND KOWALIK

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, filed away two more signed contracts yesterday. Milton Gaston, right handed pitcher, and Ted Kowalik, rookie, mailed articles for the 1933 season and announced they are ready to join the club in the trip to Pasadena, Cal., late this month.

Gaston, who resides in Teaneck, N. J., during the winter months, won seven games while losing 17 last season. Kowalik was with the White Sox for a short time last year and also played with the San Antonio club of the Texas league.

MISS VAN WIE WINS, 8 AND 7, IN COAST TOURNEY

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, national champion, had little trouble today defeating Mrs. C. C. Cary of Los Angeles, 8 and 7, in the first round of the midwinter southern California tournament.

Miss Marion Hollins of Santa Cruz, former national champion, eliminated Mrs. Tom Williams of La Jolla 4 and 2.

Miss Van Wie was only one over fours when the match ended, despite a north wind that at times reached gale porportions.

ZAHARIAS SIGNS TO WRESTLE COX AT ARMORY CARD

George Zaharias was signed yesterday to meet Joe Cox in one of the matches on the wrestling card scheduled for the 202d Coast Artillery armory, Broadway and Thorndale avenue, next Monday night. Five matches are on the program, which features Joe Savoldi and Pat O'Shocker.

Zaharias recently met Joe Stecher here. In addition to the Zaharias-Cox and Savoldi-O'Shocker matches Ernie Dusek will meet Gino Garibaldi in the semi-windup.

Lake View Postoffice Team to Play Parsons

The Lakeview team, Postoffice basketball champions in 1931-'32, will play Parsons college of Fairfield, Ia., Friday at the Olivet institute gymnasium, 1441 Cleveland avenue. The Hyde Park quintet and Quincy Station will play a preliminary game.

HAWKS GET NEXT CHANCE TO CLIP THOSE RED WINGS

May Need More than Six on Ice to Do It.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The rapidly growing "Something Ought to Be Done About the Detroit Red Wings" movement, which has been flourishing in the National Hockey league these last few weeks, broke out in a new sector yesterday. Thomas Patrick Gorman, manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, is the latest recruit to this now rampant trend, and with reason, for tomorrow night the Hawks will face the irrepressible Red Wings at the Chicago Stadium.

In announcing his enlistment, Mr. Gorman did an about face on his original intention of Monday morning, when he brought his charges back home from the lengthiest and most arduous road trip in the history of the league, a matter of 3,000 miles in 13 days, during which they played seven games in six cities. The nature of this pilgrimage was such that the Hawks' manager decided not to hold any practice sessions prior to the game tomorrow night.

Lose One in 17.

On second thought, Gorman decided yesterday that maybe the boys could stand a bit of limbering up before skating onto the ice against the Red Wings, in view of the latters' formidable record. The Red Wings have lost only one game in their last 17, and that to the Montreal Maroons on Jan. 28. Hence he ordered all of the Hawks to get into their overalls at the Stadium this afternoon, and sent a special invitation to Capt. Teddy Graham, who stopped off at Owen Sound, Ont., to visit his folks on the homeward trip, to be among those present.

Gorman's decision was prompted further by a bulletin from Trainer Eddie Froelich that Billy Burch, recently obtained in the negotiations which sent Vic Ripley to the Boston Bruins, had finally rounded into shape and would be ready for employment in tomorrow night's game. Burch was slightly overweight when he reported to the Hawks, but the excess poundage has vanished, and Gorman plans to examine his talents this afternoon in the workout at the Stadium. Burch's principal value to the Hawks will be his ability to trade bumps with such as Eddie Shore, Ching Johnson, and other robust opponents.

May Replace Romnes.

For this reason, he probably will make his full time debut in Chicago regimentals by taking the place of Doc Romnes on the same line with Johnny Gottselig and Mush March. This is not in the nature of a demotion for Doc, since he is the team's second high scorer, but Burch is conceded an advantage over him in the matter of checking. If Billy does not come through tomorrow, Romnes will be ready to take his place, as well as being available for duty on other lines.

All of the Hawks are reported in excellent condition despite the rigors of the journey from which they have just returned. Tommy Cook, Paul Thompson, and Lolo Couture probably will be the starting line tomorrow, with the Burch-Gottselig-March and McFadyen-Mackenzie-Jenkins trios following.

A summary of the Blackhawks' achievements during their invasion of practically the entire National league domain reveals that they did themselves fairly well, coming home with a record of two victories, two ties and three defeats for an entry of six points in the league standings.

Start Trip with Defeat.

On Jan. 24, they lost to the Montreal Maroons, 3 to 0; on Jan. 26, they surprised the Rangers, 3 to 1; on Jan. 29, they were surprised by the Americans, 4 to 0; on Jan. 31, they scored a 5 to 1 victory over the Boston Bruins; on Feb. 2, they played a 1 to 1 tie with Ottawa; on Feb. 4, they gained a 2 to 2 standoff with the world's champion Toronto Maple Leafs, and last Sunday night they ran into the Red Wings, losing in the final period, 1 to 0.

As for individual effort, the scoring records of the Hawks during the tour follow:

	Goals.	Assists.	T.P.
March	3	1	4
Thompson	1	2	3
Gottselig	2	1	3
Cook	2	1	3
Romnes	0	2	2
McFadyen	0	1	1
Mackenzie	1	0	1
Couter	1	0	1
Jenkins	0	1	1
Graham	0	1	1
Couture	1	0	1

The Hawks scored eleven goals against their opponents' 13 on the journey and Goalie Chuck Gardiner was credited with 213 stops, an average of 30 a game.

BOWLS 300 GAME.

La Salle, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Louis J. Suess, La Salle, today bowled a 300 score in a practice game at the Recreation alleys here.

STUHLEY SIGNS WITH TRAMBLIE FOR CICERO BOUT

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight boxer, signed yesterday to meet Ray Tramblie of Rockford, Ill., in a six round contest on Feb. 17 at the Cicero stadium. Tramblie is expected to sign upon his arrival this week. Stuhley defeated Ray in a 10 rounder at White City last year.

Kid Irish, Benld, Ill., featherweight, and Joey Bozak will meet in another six round bout. Three contests at four rounds are: Mickey O'Shea vs. Henry Hamburg, Lou Vine vs. Freddy Miller, Jackie Collins vs. Jimmy Eliopoulos. Two more matches will complete the card.

Johnny Pena, New York featherweight, and Jackie Sharkey of Minneapolis, Minn., started heavy training yesterday for their 10 round match Monday at the Washington Boulevard arena. The winner is to face Varias Milling on Feb. 20. Pena held Milling to an eight round draw at the Chicago Stadium last month.

King Levinsky, west side heavyweight, will leave for New York today to prepare for his 12 round bout against Johnny Risko of Cleveland on Feb. 17. It will be their third meeting. Levinsky won in 10 rounds and then lost in 12.

The show scheduled for the Midway arena last night was postponed until next Tuesday due to inclement weather. The same card is to be presented. . . . The weekly bill at White City next Monday has been postponed to Feb. 16. . . . Paul Dazzo will rest for several weeks before his next fight. . . . Sidney Strotz, co-receiver of the Chicago Stadium, returned yesterday from New York, where he transacted some business over the week-end.

Four amateur cards will be offered in Chicago tonight, tomorrow, and Friday.

Eight boxers from Holy Angel parish will face a team representing the south side section of the Catholic Youth organization at the C. Y. O. center, 31 East Congress street, tonight. Johnny Brown, Holy Angel flyweight, meets Henry Fuscaldo in the main event.

Illinois National Guard and naval reserve fighters will participate in eight bouts at the 202d Coast Artillery armory tomorrow. Vito Clone, National Guard bantamweight, and Joe Aledo of the reserves will meet in a feature bout.

An interscholastic show between St. Philip High school boxers and a team from Waukegan Township High will be held tonight at St. Philip's gymnasium. Walter Jerz, middleweight, and Mike Dragel, featherweight, are entered in the tournament to be presented Friday at the 24th Ward club.

NORTH CENTRAL TRACK TEAM TO OPPOSE CHICAGO

The North Central college track team will open its season on Saturday in a dual meet against the University of Chicago at the Maroon's fieldhouse.

North Central college has a perfect record in its two years of indoor track competition. Last year it defeated Loyola university in the relay, making the third track meet between the two schools to be decided by the relay. Armour Tech also was among the teams beaten.

This year's squad is weakened by the loss of Hinders in the field events. Culver, capable of a 4:34 mile, and Dieber in the hundred yard, are among the team's best bets. Dittman is a good hurdler and Quantock and Waldo are superior middle distance men. Worner, Hornback, and Haag can be relied on in the two mile.

The 1933 schedule:

Feb. 11—Chicago at Chicago.
Feb. 18—Crane college and La Grange at Naperville.
Feb. 24—Armour Tech at Naperville.
March 3—Loyola at Naperville.
March 11—Little 19 indoor meet at Naperville.
March 18—Armour relays at Chicago.

STRONG GRINNELL QUINTET MEETS DE PAUL FRIDAY

Grinnell college may block De Paul university's drive for its ninth basketball victory of the season Friday night at the De Paul gym. The team which has become one of the serious threats in the Missouri Valley conference, started the second semester with a much stronger lineup.

Three new players have become eligible and this trio appears to have given Grinnell formidable power. This was indicated last week when the Grinnell boys handed Oklahoma A. & M. a double defeat.

De Paul, on the other hand may find it necessary to play without Pete Barskis, 6 foot 3 inch center, who suffered an injury to his instep in practice yesterday. Coach Jim Kelly declared his condition poor and this probably will render him unavailable for Friday night's contest.

Jim Gorsky, De Paul forward, continues to be De Paul's chief offensive threat. Last week he established himself as the scoring leader of the squad with 60 points.

ParkerHeavies Win; Others Snowed Out

The storm yesterday forced high school teams in the Chicago district to put aside their uniforms and it is doubtful whether another game will be played this week. Nine of the ten games scheduled yesterday in the Chicago Public High School league and six contests in the West Suburban conference were postponed.

The blizzard, however, failed to keep Morgan Park and Parker from going through their south section heavyweight game at Morgan Park gymnasium. Two league records were established as Parker scored an overwhelming victory, 56 to 22. Parker's score was the largest of the season.

Rumpf Gets 13 Baskets.

Rumpf, Parker center, set the other record when he tossed in 13 baskets and three free throws for a total of 29 points, the best individual performance of the year, Peterson, Parker right forward, also starred in the victory, collecting seven field goals and three penalty shots.

The victory enabled Parker to maintain second place in the south section with four triumphs and one defeat. Bowen leads the division with four straight victories. The setback was Morgan Park's third of the league season and despite the defeat it remained in third place with two victories.

Not Likely to Play.

No games are scheduled in the district today, but five are carded for tomorrow in the Chicago Public High School league. However, these contests will not be played, since the schools probably will be ordered closed for the remainder of the week. More than 50 games are scheduled for Friday afternoon and night.

The Morgan Park-Parker lineup:

STATE SENATE ACTS PROMPTLY ON BOXING BILL

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Immediate consideration and advancement was given by the Illinois senate today to Majority Leader Richey Graham's amendments to the state boxing bill, which would put Illinois in a position to bid for the Schmeling-Baer fight, proposed for the World's Fair.

The amendments would permit 15 round nonchampionship heavyweight bouts in the state and put Illinois on the same basis as Michigan, Pennsylvania and New York.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

GOLDEN GLOVES BOUTS.

THE Wake is more and more impressed each year by THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournaments, both by the enthusiasm of the participants and by the interest of the public.

Although we have attended most of the qualifying tourneys and all the intercity and international contests, we really did not get into close personal contact with the boys and their ambitions until we spent two weeks in the Lake Wawasee, Ind., training camp last summer before the tourney in which Germany's best opposed Chicagoland. The result, as you no doubt remember, was a 4-4 draw, although the Germans in advance had expected to win.

What surprised us at that time was the comparatively small number who really hoped or wished for a professional career, and consequently how many were in amateur boxing for their love of the sport, just as other boys like football, basketball, tennis, golf, and other contests.

Now one might think young chaps going through all the training and taking opponents' gloves—when they couldn't avoid them—on the beezer, as ring parlance goes, were actuated by financial considerations. Some avowedly intended to enter professional ranks. Others intended to do so only if they proved exceptional in actual test, realizing that the lot of the ham-and-egger in pugilism is a sad one, with only wasted years of youth as its reward.

On the other hand, a majority did not aspire to the pro arena even if rising to Golden Gloves championship, which is a long step on the way to proved skill and punching ability. More boys actually did turn pro last season than in previous years. That was due in part to stricter restrictions on amateur shows and "expense money" therefor, but more, in fact, to national unemployment. To many boys, turning pro was a family necessity.

We always have enjoyed these Golden Gloves bouts, with their faster milling and better sportsmanship, more than the common or garden variety of pro show. We do not attempt to compare them to championship pro contests between known and experienced performers. In general, however, the Golden Gloves finals give more action, and usually more satisfaction, than even a title pro bout. If the skill shown is not as high, you do recognize the milling is sincere.

Our viewpoint, apparently, is shared by many other lovers of boxing. We know at least half a dozen Chicago men of affairs who seldom attend pro shows but are among the first to order seats for themselves and their sons for the final and intercity Golden Gloves bouts.

There were many sly chuckles when the Havana race track last week announced the Associated Chain Drug Stores handicap. So many patrons frequently have thought something of the kind going on. As a matter of fact, the race was so named in honor of 250 druggists arriving in Havana on a special yacht chartered for the cruise.

Mahoney, who was regarded as one of Creighton university's leading athletes, played for several seasons with the Cardinals. He coached at St. Leo and then returned to Omaha. Last fall he was elected a Douglas county commissioner.

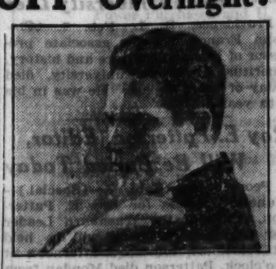
Ends DANDRUFF Overnight!



There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get plain, ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents (35c). This simple remedy never fails.

Maroon Meet Opens Loyola Track Season

Loyola university opens its intercollegiate track season tonight in a meet with the University of Chicago at the Chicago fieldhouse. The Maroons opened their season Friday with a victory over Purdue. The meet will introduce Alex Wilson, former Notre Dame and Olympic star, who is coaching Loyola track this year, to coaching circles.

Only one major letter winner and one minor letter winner remain from last year. Mike Colletti won a major letter in the sprints, while Ronin won his letter in the middle distances.

Seymour Lieberman, a 1931 letter winner who was not able to compete last year because of an injury, will carry Loyola's hopes in the hurdles. He also may be entered in the 50 yard dash.

Wilson yesterday announced Loyola's outdoor track schedule:

April 22—Kansas Relays.
April 29—Drake Relays.
May 6—North Central and Lake Forest at Lake Forest.
May 13—Elmhurst invitational meet.
May 20—Milwaukee Teachers at Loyola.
June 3—Central Intercollegiate at Milwaukee.
June 10—National Collegiates at Chicago.

PRESIDENT SCOTT TO LEAD CHEERS AT GAME FRIDAY

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, who served in the capacity of cheer leader during his student days, will stage a comeback at the alumni-freshmen basketball game at Patten gym Friday night. He will join with several other former cheer leaders.

President Scott played football and led cheers back in 1901. In addition to the basketball game, Friday's program will include a ping pong exhibition by a number of Chicago stars, including Paul Pearson and Tiny Lewis, Illinois state doubles champions; Max Rushakoff, Chicago district champion; Frank Work, Illinois state champion.

ENGLISH ELEVEN IS VICTOR IN CRICKET MATCH

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The English test match cricket team today defeated a Queensland eleven by an inning and 61 runs. Scores were: England, 343; Queensland, 201 and 81.

Harold Larwood, whose body line bowling against the Australian side in the tests caused a controversy that finally was taken to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, was particularly deadly against the Queensland batsmen. He took two wickets for 24 runs in the first innings and six for only 38 in the second, an average of only 7.75 runs per wicket.

DECOY DANCES IN TRIUMPH AS WILD GOBBLER FALLS

Trained Turkey's Calls Lure Bird to Hunter.

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, Ga., Feb. 7.—The northern sportsman who comes down here for the fascinating but difficult sport of wild turkey hunting must expect a dip into the Flint river as soon as he bags his first gobbler. The procedure seems to be an old southern custom, a ritual that the beginner at turkey shooting must go through.

The other morning when, with the help of old Turkey Tom, the remarkably trained turkey decoy owned by J. W. Wortman of Albany, we were lucky enough to drop a flying gobbler out of the tree tops. The Flint river didn't get us because of our previous experiences with Mississippi wild turkeys. However, in case our hunting companions had insisted on our going through with the ritual, we certainly would have insisted on old Tom joining us. This well trained pet gobbler was easily 90 per cent of the sunrise show staged in the thick, wet woods along the Flint river.

Hunter Prepares for Two Emergencies.

When this gobbler broadcasts his challenging call two emergencies may arise. The flying bird may pick an open spot in the woods, light out of range, and then walk up to the decoy. This move usually results in a thrilling duel between the two birds. In the second case the wild bird may fly over the decoy and hunters and in its flight afford the hunter a quick shot.

The other morning a wild gobbler followed this second method and started to fly over us at a fast pace. We had been in the wet, chilly swamp for nearly an hour and a half before this bird left his tree across the river. We saw him as soon as he started. The big bird swept over our heads, passed a little opening in the moss covered forest, the shotgun roared, and the gobbler came down.

It was all over in a couple of seconds. But that is wild turkey hunting. It may take hours of waiting in the damp woods, calling, listening, and planning new moves to fool the smart gobblers. Then the action is over in less than a jiffy.

Decoy Appropriates Turkey.

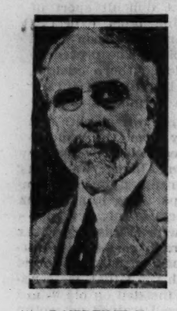
Turkey Tom, the decoy, wouldn't let us take possession of our bird for several minutes. He appropriated him and staged a dance of victory. Unmindful of our laughing and talking, the decoy strutted around the dead wild gobbler, lunged at him with his beak, spread his magnificent tail, arched his wings, and worked himself into a frenzy of triumph. At one moment he wanted to fight and raged because this bird was not offering any opposition. The next moment apparently he just wanted to strut. The more he strutted the more excited the decoy became.

The decoy turkey's dance climaxed our early morning vigil in the swamp. The weak light of the early morning sun streamed through the moss draped oaks and gum trees, cardinals whistled nearby, mosquitos hummed 'round our ears, robins peered at us from nearby trees, and there on the wet floor of the forest this sleek turkey staged a mock battle.

DR. ABBOTT, ONCE PUBLISHER OF OUTLOOK, IS DEAD

Was Long Time Friend of Theodore Roosevelt.

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Dr. Lawrence F. Abbott, president and publisher of the Outlook when the late President Theodore Roosevelt was an editor, and secretary of the New York Life Insurance company since 1929, died today. He was in his seventy-fourth year.



LAWRENCE F. ABBOTT. [U. & U. Photo.]

For 32 years Dr. Abbott was the president of the Outlook company, publisher of the journal long edited by his father, the late Dr. Lyman Abbott, and now perpetuated in its successor, the New Outlook, of which Alfred E. Smith is editor.

Resigned Post in 1923.

Three years ago there was published a book entitled "The Story of Nylic: A history of the origin and development of the New York Life Insurance company from 1845 to 1920." Dr. Lawrence Abbott was the author of this book, which was praised as "a great business romance."

Following his resignation as president of the Outlook company in 1923 Dr. Abbott became contributing editor of the Outlook. That position had been created for the late Theodore Roosevelt in 1908. The two were closely associated and it has been said that scarcely any of the many books about Roosevelt present the man himself so closely as does Dr. Abbott's, "Impressions of Theodore Roosevelt." Dr. Abbott also wrote an account of the foreign tour of Roosevelt, after he had left the White House. This chronicle ran in the Outlook.

Active as Author.

Dr. Abbott, on whose invitation Theodore Roosevelt became the first former President to take up professional journalism, also came in contact with the late President Calvin Coolidge; not infrequently they went hiking together. Both were directors of the insurance company, although not at the same time.

He edited and wrote the introduction for Theodore Roosevelt's "African and European Addresses" in 1910, and was the author of the article on Theodore Roosevelt in the Encyclopedia Britannica in 1911. He was also the author of "Twelve Great Modernists," 1927.

PICKETS WITHOUT ARMS ON JOB IN MINE AREA TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—[AP]—Peace held sway over the Illinois coal mine fields tonight as Progressive miners formulated plans for renewed picketing activity at mines operated under wage contracts from the United Mine Workers union.

It was revealed tonight that agreement had been reached in Christian county between Col. Robert W. Davis of the Illinois National Guard and representatives of the Progressives to allow 12 Progressives to act as pickets at each of the operating mines in that county.

Progressives indicated picketing might start tomorrow. The pickets, Col. Davis said, must be unarmed, but they will be permitted to carry banners.

Previously, picketing in the Taylorville area resulted in clashes between strikers and workers. Three persons were killed in the county during disorders.

COUNT APPONYI, OLDEST LEAGUE STATESMAN, DIES

GENEVA, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Count Albert Apponyi, 87, of Hungary, the oldest statesman of the league of nations, died today after a week's illness of influenza complicated by pulmonary congestion. His wife and son were at his bedside. The son flew here from Vienna Sunday when his father's condition became serious.

COUNT APPONYI.

The count's death deeply grieved league circles and the day's session of the world disarmament conference was interrputed while Arthur Henderson, the chairman, announced the news. The count headed the Hungarian delegation to the conference.

The count had been active in politics since 1872, when he became a member of the Hungarian chamber of deputies. He headed the Hungarian delegation to the Versailles peace conference. Since the founding of the league the patriarch's spare frame and bearded patrician face had been familiar at Geneva. Despite his increasing feebleness, he declined to surrender his work as Hungary's spokesman and returned here recently to attend the resumption of the arms conference.

WORLD'S FAIR EXHIBITS MAY ENTER U. S. FREE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The house of representatives today adopted a bill by Representative Carl Chindblom [Rep., Ill.] removing the customs duties on foreign products shipped into this country for exhibition at the Chicago Century of Progress exposition.

Mr. Chindblom told the house his proposal would simply open the way for foreign nations to accept the invitation of this government to participate in the Chicago exposition. All expenses incurred by the government as a result of his resolution, he pointed out, are under the terms of the measure, to be paid by the Century of Progress exposition.

ANOTHER BANK BUYS IN STOCK INSULL PLEDGED

Chase Takes Over Collateral.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Control of a large portion of the National Electric Power company, the holding company for Insull properties in the east, passed to the Chase National bank at an auction sale conducted at noon today. The bank paid $4,068,000 for notes securing loans aggregating $5,485,050 which the Chase had made to National Electric.

This is the second New York bank to reduce loan collateral to ownership, the Central Hanover Bank and Trust company having bought in stocks of the New England Public Service company, the Jersey Central Power and Light company, and other properties in the National Electric system.

The fact that the Chase National as seller of the collateral receives $1,417,050 less than the amount of the defaulted loan keeps the bank in the National Electric situation as a general creditor to the amount of that deficiency, plus the amount of accrued interest.

Bank Is Sole Bidder.

There was only one bidder at today's sale and the audience was small, for it had been generally assumed that the Chase National would follow the lead of the Central Hanover and bid in the collateral. There now remain three other New York banks which are in the same position with relation to the National Electric system as were the Chase and the Central Hanover banks. These are the New York Trust company, the Chemical Bank and Trust company, and the Manufacturers' Trust company.

The five banks together were creditors to the extent of nearly $21,000,000 on bank loans when the National Electric Power company and National Public Service corporation, its principal subsidiary, went into receivership on June 30, 1932.

The formality of reducing the collateral to ownership is not complete as far as the Chase National is concerned. The sale today consisted of two parcels. The first was $892,500 principal amount of 5 per cent secured debentures of the National Public Service corporation. The bank paid $63,000 for these bonds and became the actual owner.

Must Hold Further Sales.

With the second and more important parcel, however, other steps must yet be taken before the operating company stocks become the property of the bank. This parcel consisted of a note of the Seaboard Public Service company payable to the National Electric Power company and indorsed by National Electric and National Public Service. In the sale today the Chase National gained ownership of this note, but the operating company stocks and notes securing it still have the status of collateral. The Chase bank thus must hold further sales to get possession of the actual operating company stocks.

If the Chase National is the only bidder in the auction sales of stock and notes still to be conducted, the bank will control the following: The Buckeye Light and Power company and all its subsidiaries, and the Central Utilities Service company, serving a large number of communities in Ohio; the Virginia Public Service company, which serves 375 communities in Virginia, Maryland, and West Virginia; the Eastern Shore Public Service company, which serves 23 communities on the Delmarva peninsula and in the western part of Maryland.

Other Banks Plan Sales.

An announcement of the plans of the other three New York banks holding National Electric collateral is expected momentarily. If they follow the lead of the Central Hanover and the Chase, the National Electric system, in which Middle West Utilities corporation, the principal Insull holding company, made an investment of $40,000,000, will be completely broken down. All the stocks formerly owned by the National system are pledged as loan collateral.

With all the links between the National Electric holding companies and the operating companies severed there will be no equity for National Electric stock, all of which is owned by Middle West Utilities, and nothing for National Public Service common stock, all owned by National Electric. Thus, Insull's investment in eastern properties will have vanished.

If all the banks reduce their collateral to ownership it is thought likely that there will be a reshuffling of the operating properties with a view to rounding out groups which logically might be put together into large physical units.

See Bankrupt Move Against Middle West

JUDGE GEORGE A. CARPENTER.

What is construed as a move to throw the Middle West Utilities company into bankruptcy was made yesterday before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley. Middle West, the super-holding company through which Samuel Insull controlled a two billion dollar utilities system, has been operating under an equity receivership for the last ten months.

The move towards possible bankruptcy was taken when attorneys for the petitioning creditors of the company joined hands with attorneys representing holders of Middle West "gold" notes of $40,000,000 par value, asking Judge Lindley to authorize and set a date for a hearing to discover assets under the federal bankruptcy act. Such a hearing would entail the submission of proof that Middle West was insolvent on the day it was placed in receivership last April 19.

Seek to Recover Collateral.

The hearing would proceed under section 21 of the bankruptcy law, which provides that all assets diverted from the company's treasury within four months prior to bankruptcy must be returned to the company for the benefit of general creditors. Under such a hearing, the creditors and note holders would be able to show that within the prescribed period the Middle West directors pledged assets with a face value of $95,000,000 with four banks as additional collateral on loans totaling $27,007,000.

These assets, consisting mainly of the common stocks of Insull holding and operating companies, now have a market value of approximately $9,000,000. If insolvency were proved, the creditors could institute suits to compel the banks to return the collateral for the benefit of all creditors, thus reducing the banks from the status of preferred to general creditors.

Four Banks Hold Collateral.

Banks holding the $9,000,000 of collateral and the amount of their loans to Middle West are as follows: Bankers' Trust Company of New York, $10,252,000; Central Republic Bank and Trust company, $1,972,000; Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, $6,478,000, and First National bank, $6,305,000.

Judge Lindley declined to rule on the motion, announcing that he would transfer jurisdiction to his colleague, Judge George A. Carpenter.

Disclosing their fears that the motion forecast bankruptcy, Attorney Orville Taylor, representing a common stockholders' committee, and Attorney Roy Burgess, representing preferred stockholders, joined in a move to oppose it.

"I suppose this action ultimately will lead to an adjudication in bankruptcy," said Mr. Taylor. "The only hope of stockholders is that the entity of the Middle West company be maintained until a constructive reorganization can be accomplished."

See No Harm in Motion.

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson for the petitioning creditors and Attorney Joseph B. Fleming for the noteholders said they were unable to see how any one's interest could be harmed by the granting of their motion. A reorganization could be effected as well in bankruptcy as in equity, they said.

Attorney Charles Weinfeld, representing the receivers, Edward N. Hurley, and Charles A. McCulloch were in court, but said nothing. In the absence of the receivers, who are in Florida, the impression prevailed that bankruptcy for Middle West probably cannot be avoided.

Predict U. S. Inflation Will Help Europe

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Inflation in this country would benefit Europe, especially England. It is said it would frighten gold, stored here, to other financial centers.

Commenting on the remark of Neville Chamberlain that England will not return to the gold standard until there is a more equitable distribution of the precious metal among the nations, experts said England has been watching inflationists' activities in this country closely in the hope that gold would be driven from this country.

U. S. Leads in Gold.

America now has the largest monetary gold stock in the world, $4,548,000,000, while England has something more than $600,000,000 of the precious metal. After making her $95,550,000 war debt payment to this country in gold in December, she had $583,000,000, but she has since repurchased some of the war debt gold.

France, as the leading nation outside the United States, still on the gold standard, also would benefit materially from inflation in America. It was to France that almost 600 million dollars in American gold went last year because of rumors about the finances and money of this country, which were circulated abroad. France now has the second largest gold stock in the world, $3,258,000,000.

England, the experts say, hopes America and France might be persuaded, in return for the reëstablishing of the gold standard in England, to lend the British additional gold. England, however, already has almost as much gold as when it abandoned the gold standard in September, 1931.

Result Only Temporary.

A gold loan, the experts point out, would accomplish only a temporary redistribution of the precious metal. Eventually it must be returned.

Because a lasting redistribution of gold can come about only by trade balances favorable to England and other countries with little of the metal, experts foresee a fundamental conflict developing between England and America when they meet at the world economic conference. America may demand trade concessions in return for war debt discussion, and England by asking a redistribution of gold is practically demanding trade favors from this country.

SHAWINIGAN POWER NET SHOWS PENALTY OF CHEAPENED MONEY

The penalty imposed by the present exchange discrepancies on foreign corporations with bonds outstanding in the United States is exemplified in the annual report of the Shawinigan Water and Power company, a Canadian firm.

The company paid premiums last year of $605,431 for United States funds with which to pay bond interest in this country, the report reveals. In 1931 the company paid similar premiums of $200,000. In addition last year the company paid premiums of $165,092 in connection with power contracts payable in United States funds.

Gross earnings were $12,635,000 last year, against $13,693,000 in 1931. Net was $2,534,000 after charges, including interest, depreciation, and taxes, as compared with $4,150,000 in the preceding year. Net per common share was $1.16, compared with $1.90 in 1931.

The company is the largest hydroelectric enterprise in Canada. J. E. Aldred, president, said in his report that the premiums paid in the purchase of United States funds accounted in a large measure for the shrinkage in net earnings.

Expect Buyers to Spend Six Millions Here

Buyers, 12,000 of them, here from more than thirty states and Canada for the 23d semi-annual convention of the interstate merchants' council, sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, braved yesterday's blizzard to visit Chicago wholesale concerns and purchase goods for the spring and summer trade. It is estimated by officials of the council that the visitors will spend $6,000,000 here before the end of the convention Saturday.

Beginning with a spring style show Monday night in Hotel Sherman, the council session continued yesterday with a luncheon meeting in the hotel at which George W. Rossetter, president of the Association of Commerce, welcomed the buyers and urged them to return for the World's Fair.

Attend Retail Clinic.

Last night the visitors attended a "retail clinic" conducted by Prof. E. H. Gault of the University of Michigan. M. J. Pittaford, president of the council, presided. A second performance of the style show followed.

That the visiting buyers are spending money and not merely "window shopping" at this convention was indicated yesterday by the comments of leading wholesale house officials.

Marvin B. Pool, general manager of Butler Brothers, said: "It is my definite observation that the independent merchants are getting their business under control. Many of them are making progress and more of them have stopped recent losses. The demand for goods is distinctly better than a year ago."

Others Find Sales Good.

William G. Burt, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., said: "There are a great many more buyers here than last year and the orders they have placed for immediate shipment of goods are very satisfactory.

Frederick H. Scott of Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. said larger crowds had visited the fashion and merchandise displays of his concern than in several years. "There has been a consequent increased buying activity during the last week," he said.

The general attitude of the visiting buyers was expressed by W. W. Cooper from Swift Current, Canada, who said: "We're much better off in the smaller cities than you are here."

BIG NEW YORK BANK REVEALS WHAT IT OWNS

Discards Precedent; Lists Stocks.

New York, Feb. 7.—In observance of its eightieth anniversary the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company, with total resources of more than 260 million dollars, sent to stockholders today a statement of its condition as of Feb. 1, the date of the anniversary, together with a full list of its investments.

The disclosure by the bank of its security holdings, including common stocks, was a radical departure from ordinary bank practice.

Although lately there has been an increasing tendency for such institutions to divulge details of their commitments to stockholders, no other large bank has made public its entire holdings.

In the case of most of the big Wall street banks, questions on this subject asked by stockholders at recent annual meetings were answered only in guarded general terms.

List of Common Stocks.

Among the common stocks held by the trust company are 100 shares of the Bank of International Settlement, 8,000 shares of the General Motors corporation, 5,000 shares each of Kennecott Copper, New York Central, Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Brands, 19,000 shares of the United corporation and 400 shares of the Guaranty Trust company. The last item is the only investment in shares of another local bank reported.

Holdings of United States government securities amount, according to the bank's statement of condition, to $68,946,077, of which the largest item is $35,000,000 of treasury 3¾ per cent bonds. State, municipal and tax-exempt securities are carried at $20,291,493, the largest block being $4,223,500 of New York city 6 per cent corporate stock due from 1935 to 1937.

Railroad bonds are carried at $7,341,855 and public utility bonds at $3,859,476. The largest items being in each group about $500,000. Holdings of industrial and other bonds,

Stock Traders Take Heart as News Improves

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Members of the speculative community were able to discern a few stars shining through the cypress trees again today. A few favorite dividend announcements, including that of Socony-Vacuum, an improved tone in the wheat and bond markets, and some seasonal expansion in trade here and there helped to brighten the horizon.

Price gains were of a fractional scope for the most part, however, and the pace of trading was even slower than that of yesterday. Most of the big shots of the fraternity are understood to be marking time against the dividend meeting of American Telephone next week. This is generally regarded as the next hurdle the market has to take and brokers do not anticipate much either in the way of price swings or trading volume in the meantime. Today's business was the output for the most part of professional floor traders.

Gossip on Railroads Revived.

Little worthy of description as a feature came out of the session at any stage. A report circulated in the late afternoon that an important announcement was about to be made from somewhere bearing on the eastern rail group caused a mild flurry of buying in that quarter, but the small time gains rapidly melted away when nobody appeared able to tell whence the rumors came or what their burdens might be. The final gong found the group no further ahead than its fellows.

Overnight news on the maintenance of the General Motors regular dividend had little effect on trading sentiment one way or another. Motors shares themselves started off fractionally higher and later edged ahead a bit more, but the list as a whole opened raggedly and lingered in a virtual stalemate for most of the day.

Rumor Cigaret Price Cuts.

Persistent reports that cigaret prices are in for another slash continued to take their toll of tobacco share values and fractional recessions were the rule in the issues of American Tobacco, Liggett and Myers, and others of the group.

Profit taking which has been in evidence in the gold mining group for several days subsided somewhat, with prices showing negligible changes.

The steel shares had the benefit of estimates of somewhat higher output this week and responded in moderate fashion.

A half dozen preferred stocks fell from 3 to 7 points, while four or five others rose from 2 to 8 points.

General Motors Files Plea to Cut Capital Stock 40%

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 7.—[AP]—General Motors corporation today filed notice with the corporation division of the department of state of a decrease in capital from $1,253,333,000 to $750,000,000.

DRIVE TO SELL TAX WARRANTS BEGINS TODAY

Citizens' Group to Seek 42 Millions.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Today the citizens group headed by Charles S. Dewey begins a two weeks' concentrated campaign to sell 42 million dollars worth of 1932 tax anticipation warrants to provide pay rolls for county, school, and city employés up to July 1.

CHAS. S. DEWEY.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, Mr. Dewey, and others interested in local finances will meet today at a luncheon in the Chicago club to start the drive.

Preliminaries were ended yesterday when Mr. Sargent and Mr. Dewey met with members of the board of education and representatives of teachers' and other employés' organizations and were assured of their support.

No attempt will be made to sell the 1932 warrants by appealing solely to patriotism or loyalty. The Dewey committee has laid out a sales campaign in which the quality of the merchandise and the attractiveness of its price are the big talking points.

Buy Only Sound Warrants.

"We fully realize," Mr. Dewey said yesterday, "that the investing public will buy these warrants only if they are convinced that they are entirely sound. In addition, we must assure prospective purchasers that our method of distribution will be such that the warrants will not come bouncing back on the open market at a discount.

"In the past it has been possible to raise money by appealing to patriotism or a so-called 'civic spirit.' But this year things are different. Nobody can afford to risk a loss on a questionable investment.

"With this in mind we have outlined a plan which, we believe, will assure the soundness of the 1932 tax warrants. The county commissioners, the board of education and the city council have all agreed to the stipulations that we have laid down, and, therefore, in our opinion, the soundness of the warrants is beyond question and we can safely assume the

FIVE DAY WEEKS CUT REVENUE OF SUBURBAN RAILS

Fewer Commutation Tickets Are Being Sold.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Shorter working periods put into effect by many industries and business houses for their employés have contributed to some extent to reduced suburban service revenues of the railroads, according to railway officials.

Working only three or four days a week, many persons are finding it more profitable to club together in buying a cheap second hand automobile, sharing operating expenses, to get to their places of employment than to buy monthly commutation tickets on which they will use only a part of the rides.

There has been little change in suburban service rates throughout the country as a whole. Among the few in the Chicago district were reductions by the Chicago and North Western, the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin, and the North Shore line. Some of the roads, including the Illinois Central, reduced single round trip suburban tickets.

No Rebate on Unused Rides.

Since a commutation ticket costs the same whether all rides are used or only a few, riders find that it is too expensive to buy a full ticket when their employment will only permit them to work half the regular days in a month. Ten ride and twenty-five ride tickets cost too much for use in commuting to jobs, workers assert.

This situation has been particularly noticeable in the east on lines which have large establishments employing many people. The situation in Chicago is somewhat different because the greater part of suburban riders travel between the downtown district and the outlying towns. The Burlington road, however, is one line directly hit by part time work. It formerly handled around 1,000 employés of the Western Electric company daily, but because of the reduced schedule of this company that number has dropped sharply.

The Burlington is giving serious consideration to reducing the price of commutation tickets. One plan suggested has been to offer tickets providing either sixty rides or forty-four rides. The latter would benefit those working shorter weeks.

How Much Travel Drops.

The road estimates that the number of passengers carried in the suburban service is now about 16 per cent less than before the depression began. The Illinois Central has found that its commutation passengers are noticeably fewer on Friday and Saturday than on other days, indicating that many are on five day weeks.

The North Western reports that its suburban service has dropped sharply, but attributes this to general unemployment. The Rock Island reports that its suburban service is off about 20 per cent, due mainly to general unemployment.

Interstate commerce commission figures show that the number of commuters carried was 14.9 per cent lower for the first ten months of 1932 than the like period in 1931.

NOR. SHORE LINE SEEKS U. S. LOAN TO MEET TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—Albert A. Sprague and Britton I. Budd, receivers of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad company, today applied to the interstate commerce commission for a loan of $600,000 for three years from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The receivers said they would use the money to meet $520,000 tax obligations and that $80,000 would be paid to the state of Wisconsin as the North Shore line's share for the cost of highway grade separation work.

This is the first loan asked by the receivers. Before the company was placed in receivership, however, it obtained a loan of $1,150,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. That loan was approved June 2, last.

WHEAT EASIER ON FARM BOARD SELLING RUMORS

May and July Options Are Under Pressure.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Persistent selling of May and July wheat, which the pit element was inclined to attribute to either the farm board or to hedging by cash interests against purchases of Red Cross grain, put an effective check to operations on the bull side of the market by the local element. At no time were prices more than a fraction above the finish of the previous day with the finish unchanged to ⅛c lower. May was 47⅛@47⅝c; July, 48⅛@48¼c, and September, 49¾@49⅝c.

Extremely low temperatures were reported over the entire winter wheat belt west of the Missisippi river. However, a heavy snowfall preceded the cold over a considerable area except in parts of western Nebraska and central and western Kansas, where high winds blew the snow off the fields as fast as it fell.

Near Crop Damage.

Traders generally commented freely on the probable effect of the cold wave on the new winter wheat crop, the condition of which has been regarded as precarious for some time. Opinions differed as to whether there would be severe damage or not. Where heavy snow fell it was believed the crop outlook might be somewhat improved.

Pit operators were inclined to take the buying side of wheat but the aggregate business was not large. Minneapolis reported selling of May there against purchases of July by a leading cash interest, while in the local market cash houses bought May and sold July at ⅝c premium for the latter. Owing to the storm it is expected that the movement of cash wheat from the interior to terminal markets will be small for some days because of snow blocked highways.

Foreigners have started to anticipate their future requirements of wheat and were reported in Winnipeg messages to have purchased around 2,500,000 bu of Canadian grain for shipment from Fort William and Port Arthur at the opening of navigation.

Corn Futures Easier.

Prospects of a severe delay in the movement of cash corn to terminal markets, incident to the blizzard which raged throughout the west, were ignored as a market factor in corn. Futures held within a range of ½c, closing ¼c lower for the day, with May at 25⅞c; July, 27½@27⅝c; and September, 28⅝@28¾c. Eastern demand was slow and this offset to a large extent the effect of limited country offerings to arrive.

Oats developed independent strength, with cash interests on the buying side. The close was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with May at 17c; July, 17¼c; and September, 17⅞c. The latter sold at a new high for the season, but operations in the distant delivery started only a few days ago. Rye was ¼c lower with the action of wheat the main factor. May was 34⅜c and July, 33⅝c at the last. May barley closed unchanged at 27c.

PORK LOINS AND BELLIES FOLLOW GAINS IN HOGS

With hogs at $4 level, the highest since Oct. 5, 1932, and prospects of lighter receipts owing to storms throughout the corn belt, packers and provision interests generally reported a better demand for fresh and pickled meats.

Pork loins advanced 2c a lb, reaching 10½c, or about 3½c a lb higher than recently. Dry salted clear bellies advanced to $4.12½ per 100 lbs, the highest of late. May bellies were in demand at $4.15, an advance of 15c, while July bellies were quoted at $4.17½, a gain of 7½c.

A moderate trade was on in May and July lard with net gains of 7½c, while September was nominally up 7½c without any trading. Liverpool lard was unchanged for spots and 3d higher on March.

Exports of lard were 927,950 lbs, and of bacon 7,535 lbs. Spot lard was firm at $3.92½ for regular, $3.45 for loose, and $3.50 for leaf. Prices follow:

PLANS TO SUE STOCKHOLDERS OF BANK OF U. S.

New York Official Seeks Double Liability.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, has started a suit against more than 15,000 stockholders of the defunct Bank of the United States to force payment of the $25 a share assessment levied against them last July. The total amount which Superintendent Broderick seeks to recover is estimated to be approximately $15,000,000.

The original par value of the stock was $25,000,000 and the original assessment against the stockholders was for this sum. About $10,000,000 of this sum, however, either has been collected or is included in other suits of recovery, Mr. Broderick said.

Raskob, Democratic Chief, Included.

The majority of those named in the suit are small stockholders and the assessments against them are comparatively small. There are a number of large assessments, however, the largest against a single individual being for $3,951,425, which the banking department is seeking to collect from Lois S. Johnston, owner of 159,057 shares of stock.

Other defendants include John J. Raskob, former Democratic national chairman, who owned 1,000 shares and who is being sued for $25,000; Irwin S. Chanin, who owned 4,354 shares and is sued for $108,850; Esther Singer, owner of 5,000 shares and sued for $125,000, and Herbert M. Singer, the son of Saul Singer, the executive vice president of the bank.

Filed Suit Against Directors.

Mr. Broderick last August filed a suit against all the directors and some of the prominent stockholders of the defunct bank to recover the $25 a share assessment. This action, which is in the nature of a test suit, is pending in the Supreme court. Mr. Broderick said today that it is planned to bring this suit to trial in April or May.

In August, 1931, Mr. Broderick sued the entire directorate of the bank for $80,000,000, charging negligence and fraudulent conduct as contributing factors in the bank's collapse.

Buffalo-Texas Oil.

Can you tell me what became of Buffalo-Texas Oil company?—F. A. E.

Buffalo-Texas Oil company was incorporated in Texas in 1919. At the time its stock was being sold investigators stated that it "had as much value as corner lots in the moon." In 1928 the stock was offered at ½ cent a share, with no bids. It apparently has no general market and is probably worthless.

BLIZZARD TIES UP HOG SUPPLY; PRICES SOARING

Values Rise 40c in Late Trade; Cattle Firm.

Snow storms and subzero weather over much of the country contributed to the impetus of the advancing hog market yesterday. Available supplies were reduced at all leading distributing centers. Hogs at Chicago sold as fast as they arrived on the market.

Gains ranged from 15c at the opening to 40c on active closing rounds. Numerous loads reached the $4.00 top, which equaled the highest mark since Oct. 5, 1932, and stood exactly $1 above the 54 year low established on Dec. 31st last when $3.00 bought the best.

The general average for the day advanced 30c, or to $3.75, showing the sharpest one day gain in more than a year's time. A sensational rise of 2c per pound in the wholesale price of pork loins added zest to buying of hogs. This gain raised the top light loins to 10½c, the highest price since the middle of November.

Pork Loins Above Year Ago.

For the first time in many months pork loins sold above a year ago. On the corresponding Tuesday in 1932 top light loins brought 8c. Hog quotations were almost on a par with a year ago, the top and average prices being only 5@10c under 1932 levels.

Advances, on "storm" markets, of other food products encouraged hog buying. The east was eager for stock. Order buyers during the first two days of this week bought 20 per cent of the Chicago hog receipts against only 10 per cent Monday and Tuesday of last week. The movement is reported tied up in many sections of the west.

Aggregate receipts at 11 eastern and western markets for the first two days of the week at 135,000 showed a decrease of 65,000 head, or 32 per cent, compared with a week ago, and were 55 per cent smaller than a year ago.

Cattle Prices Also Strong.

The blinding blizzard delayed trading in the cattle alleys, but strength was reported in practically all branches despite the slow progress of the market. It was difficult for buyers to see what they were buying. Snow drove down with fury all day, covering animals with snow and ice and making it hard to determine values.

Sellers took advantage of the storm and prospects of lighter supplies for the remainder of the week to press buyers for more money. While this tended to slow down the trade still more, some gains were made in prices, with the bulk of the crop changing hands at strong to slightly higher quotations.

A rally was reported in the market for wholesale beef, ending a long uninterrupted decline in the meat trade. Yearling steers and heifers topped the market at $7.00. The bulk of beef steers cashed at $4.25@5.75, with 1,350 lb steers at $6.00. Cows and heifers were firm and in places slightly higher. Calves advanced 25@50c.

Lamb Trade Deadlocked.

Buyers and sellers were at grips over prices in the sheep house yesterday. Supplies were fairly liberal but an extraordinary light run was indicated today and salesmen insisted on a higher level of quotations. Packers were equally determined to take off 25c.

A large number of lambs were carried over on 25c lower bids for today's market. Those sold showed the reduction demanded by buyers, with the bulk of good to choice grades going at $5.75@5.90. Aged sheep were steady, with aged wethers at $3.40.

Evanston Doubtful of Eirma Money After Month's Trial

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

After a month's trial Evanston is still uncertain about the success of its experiment with home made money.

The scrip money has worked "as well as could be expected under the circumstances" was the consensus of the supporters of the plan who were canvassed yesterday.

The idea has not taken hold as rapidly as was originally anticipated by its sponsors, however. There is now approximately $7,500 of the "Erima" money in circulation. The name of the money is derived from the initials of the Evanston Independent Merchants' association, which is issuing the certificates. Merchants receiving certificates in payments for goods are required to affix a 2 cent stamp sold by the association before reissuing it. With the proceeds of the stamp sale the association has purchased $900 of city of Evanston tax anticipation warrants.

Hoped for $20,000 a Month.

The plan was originated to help keep the city on a cash basis and to stimulate trade of the merchants. When the plan was launched late in December Peter G. Rapp, president of the merchants' association, estimated that $20,000 worth of stamps could be sold monthly under the plan.

In the first month of operation the plan has fallen far short of that objective, but officials of the merchants' association assert that progress is being made.

The plan has won the indorsement of Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale university economist, who believes that if the plan were put into operation on a national scale it would break the grip of the depression. Other cities have taken up the scrip money plan and still others are considering it.

Ohio Cities Weigh Plan.

Eight Ohio cities were recently reported to be considering the adoption of a similar scrip money plan to pay city employés.

The plan is also being taken up elsewhere. Cities and towns in the Canadian province of Alberta are contemplating one of the most ambitious experiments in scrip yet undertaken. One town, Raymond, Alta., has successfully completed a year's use of scrip and will issue approximately $18,000 "paper" money in 1933.

The Evanston plan was advanced by Ald. Peter N. Jans in December. It was taken up by the merchants' association and supported by the city council. The city's participation consisted of being the beneficiary of the plan and a lender of "moral support."

Difficulties of Plan.

Officials of the merchants' association admitted yesterday that they have encountered difficulties in putting the plan in operation. Chief of these, according to Fred J. Kihm, secretary and treasurer of the association, has been the task of selling the idea to residents and merchants.

Municipal employés are among the chief supporters of the plan. They usually buy sufficient Erima money to pay their grocery bills and purchase needed service from members of the association.

Mr. Jans, who is still one of the principal supporters of the plan, believes that it has been reasonably successful. Most residents believe that the scrip plan is still in the experimental state with the final success still in doubt.

WAHL COMPANY SHOWS LARGER LOSS FOR 1932

As a result of the general business situation, shrinkage in foreign sales and lower prices for merchandise, the business of the Wahl company, manufacturers of fountain pens and automatic pencils, was operated with a net loss of $588,613 during 1932, according to the annual report to stockholders signed by Thomas Drever, chairman, and J. C. Parsons, president. The 1931 loss was $297,840.

Net sales totaled $1,243,759, compared with $1,963,332 in 1931, a decline of 36.7 per cent. Manufacturing, selling and administrative expenses for 1932 were $1,727,784, compared with $2,226,531 in 1931.

Because of business conditions it was necessary to dispose of a large volume of excess inventory at a considerable sacrifice. The company has written off $290,477 for inventory obsolescence and $60,000 for contingent loss on inventory due to price declines.

Current assets are given as $1,151,096, including $314,126 cash. Current liabilities, including current accounts payable and accrued taxes, are reported as $91,493. The officers report that there is no indebtedness for borrowed money.

Stockholders yesterday elected Carl W. Priesing as vice president. Other officers were elected.

PULLMAN CUTS RATES 25 PCT. ON RAIL EXCURSIONS

A rate cut of 25 per cent was announced yesterday by the Pullman company to apply wherever lower railroad excursion rates are in effect. It is stated that for the first time in Pullman history passengers attending the inauguration at Washington will be able to buy round trip accommodations at a saving of 25 per cent.

Similar reduced fares will be put into effect for the Kentucky Derby. There will be lower fares in connection with all expense tours arranged by railroads, and golfers will be given rates of a fare and a half in connection with tournaments at Aiken and Augusta between Feb. 2 and April 8. Excursion rates for other parts of the country will include a Boulder dam sightseeing trip on Feb. 25, Memorial day excursion from Boston to Montreal and Quebec, a San Francisco trip to Yosemite park, etc.

Week-end travelers will get a 25 per cent reduction up to April 30 and this may be extended through the summer. During the summer tourists from Chicago and St. Louis to western national parks will be given 25 per cent reductions.

NEW BUILDING PROVES BOON TO STEEL CONCERNS

Postoffices and Bridges Furnish Orders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—The American Bridge company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, in the last few days has taken contracts for nearly 25,000 tons of structural steel. The two largest orders were 21,500 tons for the superstructure of the warehouse of the New York Central railroad in this city and 1,500 tons for a bridge in Illinois.

The McClintic-Marshall company, subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, has taken nearly 3,000 tons, including 1,000 tons for an addition to the postoffice at San Francisco; about 800 tons for bridges and approaches in Colorado; 500 tons for a bridge at Jensen, Utah, and 350 tons for a postoffice at Beverly Hills, Cal.

Other important structural orders recently were 4,800 tons for a federal building at San Francisco which went to the Wheeling Steel corporation; 1,100 tons for a lock and other work on the Allegheny river, secured by the Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, and 500 tons for piling on a dam at Springfield, Ill., won by the Inland Steel company.

A number of large inquiries are in the market, including 28,000 tons for a water and power development in southern California; 22,000 tons for postoffice work in New York, of which 12,000 tons would be for a superstructure on an annex and 10,000 for a new postoffice in uptown New York.

INTERLAKE IRON COMPANY LOSES $2,169,886 IN '32

Operations of the Interlake Iron corporation and its subsidiary, the Perry Furnace company, during the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1932, resulted in a net loss of $2,169,886, according to the annual report of the company. This compared with a net loss of $1,357,502 for 1931.

Total assets as of Dec. 31, 1932, were reported as $71,103,159, compared with $74,852,498 as of Dec. 31, 1931. Current assets were given as $11,470,329 at the end of 1932, compared with $14,537,046 at the end of 1931. Current liabilities were given as $1,123,213 on Dec. 31, 1932, compared with $2,533,764 at the close of 1931. Net sales during 1932 totaled $8,920,836, compared with $13,399,826 in 1931.

The company, which has its main offices in Chicago, derives its revenue mainly from selling merchant pig iron, chiefly to independent malleable iron companies, foundries, and manufacturers of special steel serving the agricultural implement, railroad equipment, and automotive industries. It also does a coke business. H. G. Dalton is chairman of the board and C. D. Caldwell is president.

LITTLE RED HEN TO LEAD FARMS OUT OF DESPOND

Midwest Poultry Men Say So, Anyway.

Ames, Ia., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Pride in the product of the corn belt's "little red hen" will enable the midwest farmers to market otherwise low price corn and other feeds on an equitable basis with the specialized egg production of other sections of the United States, in the opinion of poultry specialists gathered here for the midwest quality egg program participated in by 11 states.

Improvement through standardized egg color and quality is being sought by representatives of the industry in Iowa, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri.

Better Methods Urged.

The egg quality program is to be conducted as a part of the current Iowa State college farm and home week during which producers are urged to benefit by discovery of better methods for agriculture.

Corn belt eggs in some markets find lower prices because of buyers' prejudices for eggs with lighter yolk colors. According to E. B. Heaton, Chicago managing director of the Institute of American Poultry Industries, corn belt farmers should find pride in the richer color of the yolk, rather than try to obtain an egg similar to the standards of other poultry sections.

Larger Profits Foreseen.

The results of agricultural college research in the 11 states are to be summed up by W. R. Whitfield, extension poultryman at Iowa State college. He claims that increased profits await the corn belt poultry producers if they will work on a firmer business basis.

Points being advocated at the session include better breeding and flock management, better egg care and marketing practices, production of eggs weighing 24 or more ounces to the dozen, use of standard weight birds, feeding of balanced rations, and marketing on a graded basis.

GROUP STUDYING TRANSPORTATION TO REPORT SOON

New York, Feb. 7.—The national transportation committee, which is now placing the finishing touches on its report covering the entire transportation industry, expects that its recommendations and findings will probably be made public on Feb. 20.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, spokesman for the committee, said that Feb. 14 had originally been selected as a tentative publication date. The committee members felt, however, that some additional time could well be allotted to the group in order to complete the polishing up process. On all recommendations, it was said, a full agreement had been reached, the remainder of the work being largely of an editorial nature.

M E N.

WE HAVE 8 OPENINGS IN OUR LOCAL BRANCH OFFICE FOR MEN WHO ARE QUALIFIED TO LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY REPRESENT THIS COMPANY.

These positions are genuine opportunities at high earnings for those who can do this kind of work successfully. Our successful men make from $4,000 to $10,000 or higher per year. These men make this money regularly. There are no off-seasons. These income is cash are just as certain and stable as any business or professional positions possibly can be. No cost or investment.

Those who are inexperienced in specialty sales work must take the necessary time to learn and acquire skill. During this time they must be willing and satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125 to $200 per month, if necessary. We cannot tell you how long it will take you to do this—whether one month or six months—but we do know that if you have the qualifications to satisfy our requirements to secure a position with us, you can, with reasonable study, practice, good character and diligence, be genuinely assured of making a success which will afford you the higher incomes.

We are not looking for the "smart" fellow, the "clever" talker or the so-called high-pressure artist. We are interested in the earnest, sincere man, no matter what his previous experience or training, who is willing to follow instructions and has formed the habit of doing a real day's work as a matter of course and not as a matter of exception. To such men this genuine new Electrolux specialty [not refrigeration], is beyond doubt one of the really great opportunities of all time in specialty sales work. SUB-ZERO TEMPERATURES HIT CHICAGO IN WAKE OF HEAVY SNOW; COLDEST IN THREE YEARS DUE. A typical snow and cold weather scene yesterday. An Illinois Central engine is plowing its way through the snow at 15th street, pulling a string of box cars. It took all the power the engine had to triumph over the elements. Railway transportation over a wide area was disrupted by the storm.

MOTORISTS FIND THEIR CARS UNDER ELEVEN INCHES OF SNOW; DIGGING OUT PROVES REAL TASK. Some of the automobile owners who parked on Gary place east of Broadway trying to free their machines from the drifts. The snow yesterday and last night amounted to about eleven inches, all of which added to the discomfiture of driving.

SNOW MAKES THE GOING TOUGH FOR BUSES; MANY STRANDED IN DRIFTS. A typical scene of Chicago's boulevards yesterday. Two motor buses are shown out of commission at Lake Shore drive and Division street. Service was maintained during the day, but not on schedule.

ON THE INSIDE LOOKING OUT AT STORM. Walley Asmus and his dog, Chucky, at the window of their home, 4244 North Leavitt street, as they gazed on raging snowstorm with little concern.

SNOWFALL TOUCHES UP THE LANDSCAPE INTO SCENES OF REAL BEAUTY. Duke Slater pulling Miss Sylvia Hill on sled in Flossmoor yesterday while Sylvia's sister, Irene, admires the snow laden trees. In the suburbs and outlying districts the snow, unbroken by shovel or auto created scenes to delight an artist.

SNOW PLOWS SEEK TO KEEP BOULEVARDS OF CHICAGO OPEN TO TRAFFIC. A truck with a plow attached as they cleared path yesterday at 11th street and the outer drive. Workmen found it difficult to keep up with the downfall and traffic in the city was partially paralyzed.

MILKMAN CONQUERS THE STORM; MAKES HIS DELIVERIES WITH SLEIGH. Phil Brauer delivering milk with sleigh at Foster and Leclaire avenues yesterday. He, with other employes of his company, abandoned the accustomed motorized transportation when drifts formed and took to the more primitive method.

CITY'S STREET CAR SERVICE PARTIALLY PARALYZED BY SNOWSTORM. Scene looking south on State street from 18th street yesterday, showing blockade of trolley cars. Many a dinner became cold last evening as wives waited at home for husbands delayed in returning from work.
